Canada-U.S. Expedition Hits North Pole Target

OTTAWA (CP) — A six-man Canadian-American expedition has reported by radio that it reached the North Pole early today, the northern development department said.

A department spokesman said the expedition, striving to become the first surface-travelling party to reach the Pole since the 1909 Peary expedition, plans to remain at its present position for two days until a U.S. Air Force plane flies over to confirm its claim.

★ ★ ★

The department spokesman said the party, led by Ralph Plaisted of St. Paul, Minn., apparently travelled without stopping all through Thursday evening and Friday morning to reach its goal.

They now want the aircraft to confirm their fix.

Other members of the expedition are Gerald R. Pitzl and Donald E. Powellek of St. Paul; Dr. Arthur C. Aufderheide of Duluth, Minn.; Walter H. Pederson of St. Cloud, Minn., and Jean-Luc Bombardier of Montreal, the only Canadian on the trip.

The expedition made an unsuccessful attempt to reach the pole last year, turning back 530 miles short of the goal because of rapidly melting ice and other factors.

SURPRISE CHANGE IN PLANS

June Election Hinted After Cabinet Meeting

Winters Declines Cabinet Job

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Robert Winters has decided against accepting the post offered him in the new cabinet being assembled by prime minister-designate Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Mr. Trudeau announced the decision Thursday night.

He said Mr. Winters informed him of the decision Thursday afternoon not to accept the appointment "to an important portfolio in my cabinet."

Cabinet making has proved much more complicated than Mr. Trudeau had expected and more time-consuming. He could not make final moves until he knew definitely whether Mr. Winters would rejoin the cabinet or return to private life and the business world. Mr. Winters is known to have had several offers of posts, with Ford Motor Company of Canada and T. Eaton Company mentioned, among others.

TURNER GAINS

John Turner, the present minister of consumer and corporate affairs, is in line for the post of minister of trade and commerce and industry.

Mr. Winters had been offered that post, combining his old department of trade and commerce and the department of industry under one portfolio. Now that Mr. Winters has turned it down Mr. Trudeau is expected to give it to Mr. Turner.

Mr. Winters is reported to have asked that responsibility for tariffs be moved out of the finance department and placed under the new portfolio of trade and commerce and industry.

But Mr. Trudeau indicated the best he could do for Mr. Winters was give him the expanded department of trade and commerce and industry.

Mr. Trudeau said that "during the course of several discussions this week, Mr. Winters made it clear he wished to carry out his intention which he expressed last January to return to private life."

RAN SECOND

It was important to Mr. Trudeau that he try to persuade Mr. Winters to continue to serve in the cabinet because Mr. Winters ran second to Mr. Trudeau in the Liberal leadership convention.

The anti-Trudeau vote among the Liberal delegates finally polarized around Mr. Winters and he made a surprisingly strong run in the leadership race.

Mr. Winters told close associates that he felt that he had been seldom consulted during the Pearson administration and if he was just going to be in the Trudeau cabinet as "window dressing" he would prefer to stay out.

It is understood that he asked the prime minister designate for assurances that he would have an important role to play in determining economic and financial policies. He apparently was not satisfied with the answer.

Another complication for Mr. Trudeau has been the position taken by External Affairs Min-

Martin Going To Senate?

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, 64, likely will be appointed to the Senate where he may become government leader, thus remaining in the cabinet, informed sources said today.

The decision was apparently taken Wednesday when Liberal Leader Trudeau had a reportedly emotional meeting with Mr. Martin in the latter's office.

Mr. Martin may be given some responsibility for studies of the fedderal-provincial constitutional question.

It is generally assumed that Fiance Minister Sharp will take the external affairs portfolio.

Mr. Trudeau reportedly offered Mr. Martin the justice portfolio but the veteran Liberal is said to have turned it down for several reasons.

One was that he felt this a demotion. And as a devout Roman Catholic, Mr. Martin did not want to be associated with the new abortion clause in the Criminal Code amendments which still must be approved by Parliament.

Sources also said Mr. Martin does not want to run in the next election.

They added that Mr. Martin has been seeking the advice of many old friends before making a final decision.

Dissolution Due Saturday?

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP)—The prime minister's office said today there has been a "crucial" change in plan for the swearing-in of Liberal Leader Trudeau as prime minister.

The announcement touched off speculation that Parliament will be dissolved for a June 17 election.

Mr. Trudeau had been scheduled to take over as prime minister Monday and meet the Commons Tuesday.

However, the cabinet discussed the possibility of a June election for several hours today.

Dissolution would have to come today or Saturday to make possible a general election on Monday, June 17.

Opposition Leader Stanfield has said he would prefer an election this year.

However, one source close to the situation said the aim was to give the new Trudeau cabinet a chance to work on the legislative program for the parliamentary session, scheduled to resume Tuesday.

If the ceremony were on Monday, there would be little chance for planning, this source said. But with a Saturday ceremony a steady round of meetings was possible.

On April 7, Mr. Trudeau said he did not see the logic of an early election—though he might once he became prime minister.

Mr. Trudeau said earlier today there will be another cabinet meeting before Parliament reconvenes.

Mr. Trudeau declined to discuss what items of legislation the government proposes to put before the Commons.

He said he is not clear about the demand by Opposition Leader Stanfield for a new budget.

He said there have been two in the present parliamentary session and he did not understand whether Mr. Stanfield wanted prorogation of Parliament followed by a new session and new budget.

Mr. Trudeau said his cabinet, to be announced Monday, will be about the same size as the Pearson administration which numbered 27 before recent resignations.

Mr. Trudeau signed autographs for several persons, mostly teen-aged girls, outside the East Block of the Parliament Buildings after the cabinet meeting.

NATO Reassured Canada Still In

THE HAGUE (AP) — Leo Cadieux, Canada's defence minister, said today he has told leaders of the Atlantic alliance that Canada is not reducing its military contribution this year and will review its commitment for 1969.

Statements by Pierre Elliott Trudeau, who Monday becomes Canada's prime minister, had been interpreted to mean that Canada was pulling out of NATO, he said.

"Some of the others were feeling pretty uncomfortable," Cadieux explained in an interview today "and I felt justified in putting things right."

Cadieux spoke Thursday at the start of a two-day session of the nuclear planning group of NATO. The meeting is being held behind closed doors to map out guidelines for the tactical use of nuclear weapons as a deterrent to attack by the Soviet Union, and in case of war.

Cadieux said Canada wants a strong and effective alliance. He listed improvements and additions being made to Canadian forces—introduction of self-propelled artillery in Europe, delivery of the new CF-5 tactical fighter bomber in Canada, the delivery of a new submarine, the building of support ships and destroyers.

"These indicate we are holding to our commitments," he said.

He added that the only short-term changes in sight are those announced at the Brussels meeting of the alliance last December—substitution for two heavy brigades at home by a single brigade that can be transported by air.

ALLIES VETO MISSILE PLAN

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (Reuters) — The North Atlantic Treaty organization nuclear planning group rejected today for the time being an anti-ballistic missile system for Europe, an official communique said.

The communique said the group, composed of seven NATO defence ministers, including Leo Cadieux of Canada, "felt that present circumstances did not justify the deployment of an anti ballistic missile system in Europe but agreed that it was necessary to keep developments in this field under constant review."

It said they reaffirmed hopes for progress in discussions with the Soviet Union on limiting the nuclear arms race and "welcomed the intention of the United States government to consult fully with its allies on new developments in this direction."

The minister agreed to hold the next meeting of the group in Bonn, West Germany, in October, 1968.

JAMES EARL RAY
. . . alias Galt

Prints Identify Suspect

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI has identified Eric Starvo Galt, wanted for the killing of Negro civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., as James Earl Ray, 40, an escapee from the Missouri State Penitentiary.

Ray was reported missing from the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City on April 23, 1967. He was serving a 20-year sentence for an armed robbery in St. Louis and operating a motor vehicle without the owner's permission.

The FBI said he was identified through "a systematic and exhaustive search of latent fingerprints" uncovered in the King case against the fingerprints of the more than 53,000 persons for whom wanted notices are on file in the FBI's identification division.

CONFINED CLOSELY

Ray, who had been at the prison since March 17, 1960, spent some time in September, 1966, in the maximum security ward at the state hospital in Fulton, Mo.

The man known as Galt was charged Wednesday with the first-degree murder of King on April 4 in Memphis, Tenn. He also is charged in a federal warrant with conspiracy and murder in the King assassination.

A drifter since he left school in the 10th grade at Alston, Ill., Ray served as an enlisted man in the U.S. Army from February, 1946 to December, 1948, when he was given a general discharge for ineptness and lack of adaptibility, the FBI said. During his army career he received a three-month sentence at hard labor for being drunk and "breaking" arrest.

The FBI said Ray has an arrest record dating at least to 1949, when he was convicted for burglary in Los Angeles. He also was convicted in 1952 for armed robbery in Chicago and in 1955 for forging U.S. postal money orders in Missouri.

He has served terms in a Los Angeles County jail, state prisons at Joliet and Pontiac, Ill., and a federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

The FBI said Ray has used the names of James McBride, James Walton, W. C. Herron and James O'Conner.

Hanoi Vetoes 10 Sites Insisting Upon Warsaw

HANOI (CP)—North Vietnam today rejected all 10 new sites suggested by the United States for talks on settling the Vietnam dispute. It insisted on its original suggestion of Warsaw, Poland.

A foreign ministry spokesman said North Vietnam also rejected the conditions set by President Johnson.

North Vietnam maintained its original choice of Warsaw and requested the United States to make an official reply to this suggestion.

The statement was issued to correspondents in the North Vietnamese capital.

Hanoi proposed Warsaw on April 11 after having rejected the United States' earlier proposal of Geneva, Switzerland, and having its own first-suggested site, Phnom Penh, Cambodia, rejected by the U.S.

The foreign ministry spokesman, replying today to statements by Johnson and by U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk on the possibility of one of 10 new cities being chosen as the site, said: "The attitude of the American government is not at all serious."

He added that in none of the 10 cities suggested does North Vietnam have a diplomatic mission. This argument, he noted, was the same one used by the United States in rejecting Phnom Penh.

As for the United States' insinuation that Warsaw does not meet the requirement of neutrality, the spokesman stressed that several of the capitals proposed by Rusk do not either.

The spokesman laid considerable emphasis on the fact that, as seen in Hanoi, Johnson's successive statements steadily increased the number of conditions he attaches to settling on a meeting place although in his speech of March 31 he posed no condition.

The spokesman accused the United States of "creating new difficulties for delaying preliminary contacts."

He concluded by saying that North Vietnam rejects the 10 cities proposal and requests the United States to reply officially on the choice of Warsaw.

IT LOOKS LIKE PARIS IN SPRING

Diplomatic observers said the fact that it was not mentioned in the latest American-proposed selection of 10 new conference sites suggested that France has been quietly earmarked as the least controversial meeting place.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville's Thursday offer of Paris as the meeting place also suggested, in the view of diplomatic sources, the French government may have received informal hints that the French capital would be acceptable to either side.

Bomb Raids Heaviest In Months

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes made their heaviest raids of the year on North Vietnam Thursday, flying the largest number of missions in nearly four months, military spokesmen announced today.

Hitting targets in the southern panhandle in accordance with President Johnson's curtailment order, U.S. pilots took advantage of clearing weather to fly 145 missions, one more than the year's previous record on Jan. 6. It was the largest number since Dec. 26, when 150 were flown.

The total was nearly triple the average number of missions the Americans flew against supply routes, convoys and gun positions in the southern part of North Vietnam before Johnson on April 1 ordered them to stay south of the 20th parallel of latitude.

PARIS (CP-Reuters)—Quebec Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal arrived here by air today to attend a conference of French-speaking education ministers next week.

Police Put on Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Burnaby RCMP have been called in to investigate the beating of an Oakalla prison guard by a group of prisoners, Selwyn Rocksborough Smith, director of corrections for British Columbia, said Thursday. (See earlier story page 17.)

U.S. IN CASH CRISIS WHITE HOUSE WARNED

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin said today the United States is in the midst of the worst financial crisis since 1931.

Martin said he had warned President Johnson that unless the United States reversed its current balance-of-payments trend "it will inevitably lead to world-wide devaluation of currencies".

OWNER WILL FIGHT CAGE RULE

Tame Tiger Playmate for Children

But the Dade County sheriff's office says William Seefeldt, the owner, will have to cage his 10-month-old pet. The cage is necessary to qualify for the permit to keep her.

"She is house broken with seven generations of captivity behind her," Seefeldt said Thursday. "If they put her in a cage away from people she would go wild."

Tammy was born in a litter of five tiny tigers at the county's Crandon Park Zoo. The zoo traded the excess cubs to an animal dealer and Seefeldt bought Tammy from the dealer.

Seefeldt has had Tammy six months and she's a plaything for the neighborhood children. This week 25 of them held a pyjama party with Tammy as guest of honor.

Thursday, the sheriff's deputies pointed to a statute requiring permits for carnivorous animals including tigers. They said Seefeldt would get the permit when Tammy got a cage.

Seefeldt said he would take his case to court.

Workers Voting On Wage Offer

IWA, Owners Show Caution As Conciliation Report In

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ballots were being distributed today to striking southern interior wood workers for a vote on a 68-cent-an-hour pay increase recommended by conciliation officer Jack Sherlock.

The recommendation, in a three-year contract, was offered Thursday as a basis for settlement of a strike by 5,000 workers against 46 lumber companies that began last Oct. 4. No voting date has been set.

Union and management made no immediate comment but planned meetings to consider the recommendation. Labor Minister Leslie Peterson described it as "the first major breakthrough."

The offer compared with a demand by the International Woodworkers of America for a 77-cent increase over three years and an employers' offer of 62. Present base rate is $2.26 an hour.

Mr. Sherlock also offered a compromise for voting procedures: companies and union conducting their own votes with labor department members supervising counting of ballots.

Mr. Sherlock recommended: a 34-cent increase on return to work, another 12 cents Jan. 1, 1969; a further 11 cents Jan. 1, 1970, and a final 11 cents effective April 1, 1970.

He also recommended equal base rates in all operations, elimination of differentials between male and female base rates in plywood operations and advance notice of changes involving layoffs.

His recommended contract would be retroactive to Sept. 1, 1967, and be in effect until the end of August, 1970.

SOUGHT PARITY

The lumber workers originally demanded immediate parity with coastal workers, who now are negotiating a new contract. The request would have meant an immediate 50-cent increase.

Before the strike, Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe of the British Columbia Supreme Court, industrial inquiry commissioner, recommended a 44-cent increase. The union said no; employers accepted, later rejected it.

Under Mr. Sherlock's proposed contract, employers would be required to notify the union six months before major changes in methods or facilities which would involve discharge or layoffs.

Employees losing jobs because of technological change or automation would be entitled to a week's severance pay for each year's service with an employer, up to a maximum 26 weeks' pay.

Jack Moore, regional IWA president, is to meet with the three locals involved Saturday in Kelowna. Employers representatives will meet over the weekend, or early next week.

The conciliation officer's recommendation also covers a number of fringe benefits.

Originally, the union wanted to conduct its own vote and employers demanded a government-supervised vote.

New Hanging Reported By Czechs

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Maj. Bedrich Pokorny, former Czechoslovak intelligence officer who investigated the death of Jan Masaryk in 1948, was found hanged in a wood near Brno three weeks ago, the Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka reported today.

Authorities here have reopened inquiries into the death of Masaryk, Czechoslovak foreign minister, found dead in the courtyard of the foreign ministry shortly after the Communist takeover.

At the time, his death was registered officially as suicide. Many Czechoslovaks, however, believe he was murdered.

Pokorny worked in the political office of the interior ministry in 1948 and took part in investigations of Masaryk's death as well as the death of Maj. Augustin Schramm.

Schramm, a security officer at the foreign ministry, was himself reported murdered by Czechoslovakia who held him responsible for Masaryk's death.

Bomb Scare Delays Ferry

A bomb scare delayed the noon sailing of the B.C. Ferries' Queen of Vancouver from Tsawwassen for about 50 minutes Wednesday.

A male caller phoned the Vancouver ferry office about noon to say a bomb would be on board, but a thorough search by ferry staff and RCMP found nothing.

Passengers, still waiting to embark because the ferry was behind schedule, were asked to search theirs cars before boarding the Swartz Bay-bound ferry, an official said.

Under the revamping of the cabinet Mr. Trudeau had plans for shifting Mr. Martin to the justice portfolio.

Mr. Martin in that office would work closely with Mr. Trudeau in the negotiations with the provinces on constitutional questions, including Quebec. Mr. Martin indicated strongly his preference for staying in the office of external affairs minister.

Mr. Trudeau hopes to have all his problems regarding the cabinet settled by Saturday.

Then he will turn his attention to arguments for and against a snap election this spring or summer.

But influential Liberals are urging him to go the country now on the momentum in his favor built up during the leadership convention.

Drinking Driver Jailed 20 Days; Another Fined

A man who drove his car into a ditch where it slammed into a stump early Wednesday on Millstream Road was jailed for 20 days Thursday.

John McKenzie, 62, of Nanaimo, pleaded guilty to intoxicated driving.

"These cases are getting worse and worse," commented Magistrate Ostler. "I don't know where it's all going to end."

Police said they warned him not to drive away from a beer parlor parking lot early March 5, but he returned a half hour later and attempted to drive his car.

SILVER BULLION HIJACKED

LONDON (Reuters) — Thieves today hijacked a truck carrying silver bars worth £71,000 (about $184,600) in East London.

The driver was found tied up in the vehicle three hours later. He was unhurt. Police were still looking for the stolen truck and the 71 silver bars.

HUNTED MAN

born March 10, 1928, in Illinois — but the FBI did not say where. He stands about five feet 10 inches, weighs 163 to 174 pounds, has blue eyes and brown hair and two scars: A small one on the centre of his forehead and another on the palm of his right hand.

He has worked as a baker and laborer.

The FBI said Ray has been a federal fugitive since July 20, 1967, when an FBI complaint was filed at Jefferson City charging him with unlawfully fleeing from Missouri to avoid confinement.

"John Willard" was the name used by the man who checked into a Main Street rooming house three hours before King was shot as he stood on the balcony of a motel here.

The U.S. attorney's office in Kansas City quoted an informant of "apparent reliability" as saying King was among persons marked for death if Robert Bolivar Depugh, leader of the militant right-wing Minutemen organization, ever went to jail.

Day in Jail, $300 Fine

A Fraser Valley man found guilty Thursday in central court of abducting his common law wife's nine-year-old daughter was sentenced to one day in jail and fined $300.

Lawrence Shea had come from Vedder Crossing near Chilliwack March 1 with his commonlaw wife, Winnifred Brewer, and taken the child back to the mainland, evidence showed.

Complainant George Brewer, of 387 Anson in Victoria, said his former wife had deserted him on two occasions, before he obtained a divorce last November and remarried.

Shea's defence said there was no coercion and that the girl had followed Shea to the house where her mother was waiting. She then said she wanted to go to Vedder Crossing with her mother.

Magistrate William Ostler said the child's mother might have had a defence if she had taken the child herself. But this "doesn't apply to the accused," he said.

A hearing on custody of the child is scheduled for next month in the B.C. Supreme Court.

U.S. PRESS REACTION TO TRUDEAU

'We Should Reserve Judgment'

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Canada's new Liberal party leader, "is a leader about whom the rest of the world, not just Canada, should reserve judgment."

That appraisal from the Washington Star seems to fit the U.S. mood. State department officials are plainly interested by the man and his stated intent to revamp Canadian foreign policy.

They regard as a plus the Trudeau indication of wanting to join the Organization of American States. But, like West Germany and some other European partners in NATO, they are anxious to see whether Canada may go so far as to cut troop strength there.

The U.S. is not the only interested country. France, which in the past has sometimes sought to gain some insight into the Canadian scene by questioning state department officials involved with Canada, has been trying to take more soundings, it is understood.

'SWINGER' IMAGE

Trudeau's image, a "card-carrying swinger" as the National Review puts it, ranks high in the comment.

His selection "introduces an interesting new figure in the pretty well shopworn field of North American politics," says the Washington Evening News.

The Baltimore Sun says he will "strike many Americans as a hopeful successor to Mr. Pearson."

The Boston Herald says "Trudeau's success in Canada makes it clear there is a new style of politics developing on the American continent."

The Los Angeles Times sees prospects of more Canada-U.S. "friction," however.

"Trudeau's accession to power seems to symbolize in fact the drift toward neutralism which has been occurring in Canada as the result of the unhappiness in the Vietnam war and of growing confidence the Soviet threat is fading," it says.

It also cites Canadian "resentment" about economic dependence on the U.S.

The Minneapolis Tribune says Trudeau may not have much time to show what he can do because of the threat from Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch lauds Trudeau's stated determination to have good relations with France.

'GROUNDLESS REPORT'

Drug Smuggling Denied by Ky

SAIGON (AP) — Both the U.S. embassy and Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky today denied a report being investigated by a U.S. Senate subcommittee that the Central Intelligence Agency fired Ky for smuggling opium in 1963.

The report, made to the Senate foreign expenditures subcommittee, said Ky commanded air crews in a secret CIA operation flying saboteurs to North Vietnam and took advantage of the setup to fly opium from Laos to Saigon.

The U.S. embassy said there was "no truth in the story that Ky was removed . . . for opium smuggling or for any other reason."

"The vice-president just laughed when he saw the story," said a spokesman for Ky. "He said it was groundless news, and there is no truth to it at all."

The spokesman added that Ky took part in the flights over North Vietnam, "but he would not get involved in smuggling."

UNIDENTIFIED SOURCE

The Senate subcommittee's staff director, Joseph Lippman, made the report available to The Associated Press in Washington with the stipulation that the source could not be identified.

The author of the report said he was sent to Vietnam in March, 1962, by an American company to serve as an inspector and adviser to ground crews that maintained the aircraft used in sabotage missions.

The company, the report said, "was a fictitious company set up by the CIA . . . as a blind for a program called Operation Haylift."

"Operation Haylift was flying Vietnam agents into North Vietnam for the purpose of sabotage. . . . When the program first began the CIA engaged air crews and their commanding officer was Col. Nguyen Ky who now is vice-president of South Vietnam.

". . . Col. Ky took advantage of this situation to fly opium from Laos to Saigon. Of course the CIA removed Col. Ky and his flight crew and they were replaced by Chinese air force pilots from Formosa."

Ky, 37, was elected vice-president of South Vietnam last September on a slate with President Nguyen Van Thieu after holding the rank of brigadier-general and commander of the South Vietnamese Air Force. He became premier in 1965.

Republicans Give Nudge To Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty-three leading republicans, including Michigan Gov. George Romney, agreed generally Thursday that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller should formally declare his presidential candidacy "very soon."

A spokesman for Sen. Jecob K. Javits (R—N.Y.) who called the breakfast meeting, said the concensus of the discussion was that Rockefeller should be urged by all to move fast.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton (R—Ky.,) a leader in the drive to get Rockefeller into the race, said the meeting produced "gratifying" reports of nationwide backing for the New York governor.

"I have talked to him and I'm convinced Nelson is in the mood to go right now," Morton said. "But there are some fence-sitters around the country who want to hear him say he'll see it through."

Romney, it was learned, joined in the consensus that Rockefeller should make it clear quickly he will be a committed, aggressive candidate.

Morton said the presidential candidacy of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D—N.Y.) "has a lot of people in the business and political community very much worried.

TWO U.S. COPTERS COLLIDE

SAIGON (AP) — Two U.S. Army helicopters collided in flight today, killing 18 South Vietnamese civilian irregulars and eight American troops, the U.S. command announced.

Military spokesmen said the collision occurred shortly before noon 59 miles southwest of the coastal city of Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, while the helicopters were on a combat operation. They said there were no survivors.

Now It's the Liard

A MEETING OF THE FEDERATION of Rocky Mountain States in Boise, Idaho, this week was described as "receptive" to a plan to divert British Columbia water into the United States, to be pumped throughout the west and as far south as the Rio Grande valley in Texas. The multi-million-dollar project was presented to the meeting, not as a promotion effort, its sponsors said, but merely to put it before the forum of western states to see how it struck them. It struck them as fine.

The catch is that the plan calls for changing the direction of flow of the Liard River in northern British Columbia, and conveying the water south through the entire length of the province to pour it into the Columbia River system, from where the United States would take over. The news report makes no mention of British Columbia representation at the conference, but a concluding resolution of the meeting approved further efforts to look into plans "for solving the water supply problems of the 17 western states and the western provinces and territories of Canada."

As far as the Canadian areas are concerned, their water problems would begin with inauguration of the plan. In the first place it has been made very clear that British Columbia will not consider any proposal for export of our fresh water resources until the distant date when we have assayed our complete resources and compared them with the ultimate needs of this growing nation. That leaves little prospect of export, for pure fresh water is as necessary to us as fresh air. To sell it—and there could never be any hope of stopping the flow once it was started—would be to acknowledge that we had put a limit on our future as a nation and we were willing to pass over our heritage to our neighbor.

Glossed over in the report of the plan is the fact that draining the Liard River southward would seriously affect the flow of the Mackenzie, and that to bring such a stream down through the centre of the province would inevitably upset the whole water system of the area. The ten years for settling legal and political problems and the thirty years for design and construction mentioned in the plan would prove all too few.

But what will strike Canadians most sharply is the apparent assumption of the United States conference that we would unhesitatingly fall in with such a plan. "Canada is more and more receptive to the idea of letting some of her water resources come south," the delegates were told. But where this idea receives wide support was not revealed.

The implication that only engineering problems are involved, and that Canada has only to be asked for its water to make it available should be clearly refuted by Canadian spokesmen, particularly government members at all levels, so that there can be no doubt among our neighbors as to where we stand. Water Resources Minister Ray Williston set an excellent example in this regard some months ago in San Francisco, when he told his audience that not until all our needs were supplied would we think of exporting water—and determining those eventual needs could take a very long time.

Why Import It?

IT SEEMS STRANGE THAT while Western Canada has vast reserves of natural gas and that while one of the prime needs of the whole country is to conserve foreign exchange, several Eastern Canadian gas distribution companies have announced that they are looking to foreign sources of supply. What makes these moves seem even stranger is that there is no proven cost-saving consideration involved nor is there any insurmountable problem in delivering Canadian gas to the customers.

The most immediate concern is with a proposal before the National Energy Board by the Union Gas Company of Chatham, Ont., to increase imports of gas from the United States by a total of approximately $24 million a year. The company now buys gas both from the United States and from Trans-Canada Pipelines Ltd., which is objecting to the proposal on the grounds that its new pipeline facilities are adequate to supply the market with western gas. The president of Union Gas conceded at a hearing this week that the American gas would actually be more expensive than Canadian but that his company believed an assured supply from several sources was more important than price. Later in the hearing Union's general manager refuted his president's statement and said that American gas would be cheaper—a singular difference of opinion between officials of the same company.

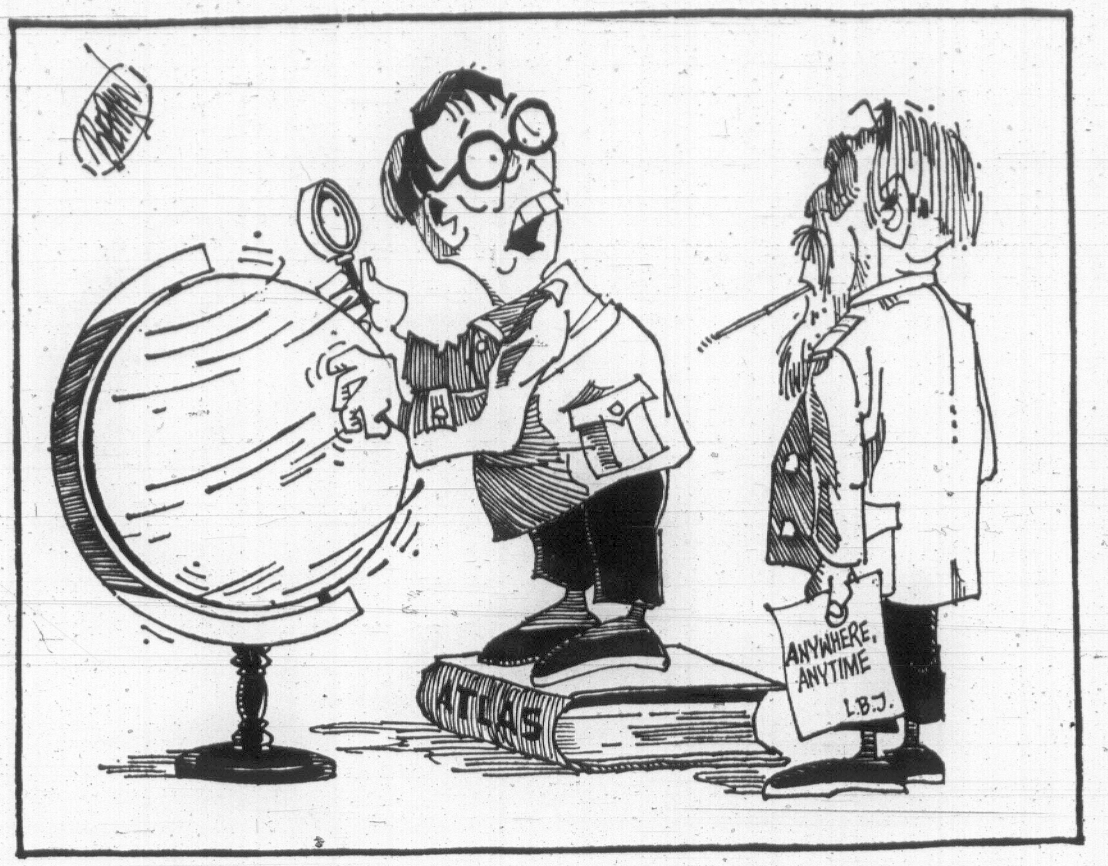
The second case is only tentative but has even more disturbing implications for the country's balance of trade situation. This is a study initiated by Northern and Central Gas Corp., of Toronto, on the feasibility of importing liquefied natural gas from Algeria by tanker for distribution through its systems from Winnipeg to Montreal. The company is thinking in terms of initial imports valued at $60 millions a year and a company spokesman said that his was not the only eastern distribution company considering bringing in gas from Algeria, or possibly from Venezuela or other foreign sources.

In any case involving imports of goods or commodities which are available from Canadian sources, the cost and quality criterion cannot be ignored. It would be, in the long run, poor economics to force a company to buy higher-priced and inferior products in Canada when better and cheaper products were available from abroad. But importing natural gas either from the United States or some other foreign country when it is available in Canada at competitive prices—if not cheaper—hardly makes sense when the thrust of our trade policy is to bend every effort to cut our heavy deficits in foreign transactions.

Polish Throw-Back

WITH FURTHER DISMISSALS from jobs and expulsions from the Party, Polish Communists are reviving the shabby bogey of Zionism. It is not the first time in its history that Poland has resorted to such tactics, but one would have thought that the madness of Hitler would have made it impossible for generations to come for a people to support anti-Semitism as a national policy. Clearly, the Polish Communist Party is in sorry straits when it has to revert to persecution of its Jewish citizens in order to distract the public from its shortcomings.

Anti-Jewish campaigns will not divert the rising tide of criticism against the restrictions of Communist rule. The liberal sentiment that is sweeping Czechoslovakia, and being felt in other satellite states, will not long be put off by a trumped-up side issue. Poland would do well to meet its real problems frankly, and not sully its image before the world by indulging in sadistic persecution of a type which every decent nation abhors.



"Believe, me, Mr. Ho, I've looked and looked but Anywhere is definitely NOT on it . . ."

Montreal's Non-Lottery Has Big Flaws

WITH Expo largesse now a thing of the past, Mr. Jean Drapeau, the versatile mayor of Montreal has devised a new scheme for funnelling Canadian savings into the treasury of the St. Lawrence metropolis.

Western

Mr. Drapeau's problem, not unfamiliar to heads of civic governments elsewhere in the country, is a large prospective deficit which would normally mean higher taxes for Montreal citizens. His thought is that, by suitable inducements, others may be persuaded to take up this burden, each contributing voluntary donations of $2, or some multiple of $2, in response to the appeal.

The inducements are prizes of up to $100,000, to be drawn for each month. This has caused newspapers to refer to the mayor's scheme (incorrectly, he insists) as a lottery. The Criminal Code, Section 179 (D), deals sternly with anyone who "conducts or manages any scheme, contrivance or operation of any kind for the purpose of determining who, or the holders of what lots, tickets, numbers or changes, are the winners of any property so proposed to be advanced, loaned, given, sold or disposed of."

It has, however, been discovered in certain cases that a lottery is not a lottery where the element of skill is involved. The common resort is to the "skill-testing question," such as: What is the opposite of south? In order not to make matters too difficult, the Drapeau scheme employs tax receipts with the answers printed on the backs. On the strength of this technicality or subterfuge, the enterprise is said to be legal.

No Prosecution

In any case, according to newspaper reports, federal and provincial officials have indicated that they will not prosecute Montreal or, presumably, co-operating citizens.

This official indolence is mysterious, for a variety of reasons.

In the first place, and even on the most tolerant view of skill-testing, it would not appear that the Montreal project is comparable with others which have been ruled to come within the law. Is the city of Montreal a charitable organization?

The money is to meet budgetary costs. Mr. Drapeau's "voluntary assessment" is an alternative to a 20 per cent increase in real estate taxes. Are the Montreal taxpayers charity cases?

Alternatively, the justice officials may have decided that prosecution would be ill-advised since the federal Parliament is in process of changing the lottery laws. This seems a dubious proposition even on the assumption that one may read the mind of Parliament in the bill introduced by the government, but a certain usage has recently developed in which the Quebec government (and presumably its creatures, the municipalities) act first and negotiate about matters afterwards.

The trouble with this explanation is that there is nothing in bill C-195 which would make the Drapeau scheme legal if it is illegal now.

Permissible Lotteries

Mr. Trudeau's bill encompasses five sorts of lotteries. The first four are lotteries operated by the federal government, by a provincial government or governments, by a charitable or religious organization, or by an agricultural fair or exhibition. Even if Montreal is a charitable or religious organization, it could qualify only if the prize money was held to $10,000 in the calendar year (in fact, the total, per month is $100,000). By turning itself into an agricultural fair, the city could go to $35,000 but again this would not meet the test.

Finally there is the lottery managed by "any person" (including a corporate person?) under authority of a provincial licence. But here the prospect is truly bleak because prizes are not to exceed $100.

But this is by no means all. Mr. Trudeau's bill makes it an offence punishable on summary conviction for anyone to receive lottery tickets in a province other than that in which the lottery is authorized. What is Mr. Drapeau doing? It is well known that he is a man of large horizons and it is entirely in character that his administration is publicizing the Montreal effort from coast to coast (and hopefully in the United States as well). Not content with general publicity, he has had printed 20 million forms to be sent to persons across Canada whose names appear on commercial direct-mail lists.

Last year all roads led to Montreal. This year, with the kind indulgence of federal and provincial officials, all dollars will head the same way.

It is possible that, for reasons obscure to laymen, it is all perfectly legal, as Mr. Drapeau maintains. One must then consider the economic consequences.

Lotteries have been advocated on the ground that money now flowing outside the country will remain in Canada. But it might also be argued that a city like Victoria cannot afford to replenish the money pipeline to Montreal. What goes to relieve Mr. Drapeau's deficit cannot very well go to local worthy causes, such as the United Appeal. Here it is of interest to observe that Mr. Drapeau postponed his scheme because the United Appeal in his own city was having great difficulty in meeting its objective.

An obvious answer is that other municipalities should follow Montreal's example, thus protecting their own citizens — at some cost, naturally, to the tax-payers of Canada'a metropolis.

But are the smaller municipalities in shape for this sort of competition? Could Oak Bay, for example, match the Montreal prize-offerings while meeting the heavy administrative expenses? The prudent tax contributor will naturally mail his dollars to the centre offering the most attractive reward for his patriotism.

What is afoot therefore is another scheme for the redistribution of wealth. The poor are to help the rich, the smaller municipalities the larger, extract the money from the towns, villages and hard-pressed cities of the hinterland and pour it into the great commercial and cultural centres of the St. Lawrence. The means have changed since earlier times but the plot is very familiar.

FROM WASHINGTON

By RICHARD PURSER

Behind the Haggling Over a Talks Site

THE haggling about where to hold preliminary talks between the United States and North Vietnam gives the outward appearance of extreme pettiness on the part of both governments. But in truth, both are jockeying for the best possible negotiating pose, and in this even location counts. Unfortunately, discussion of this dispute has been marked by the re-raising for the umpteenth time of the credibility gap, so often said to loom between President Johnson's words and his actions.

Purser

In his speech of last September 29, in San Antonio, Texas, since referred to as the San Antonio formula, and regarded as the definitive statement of U.S. policy toward Vietnam, he made an unqualified statement that now has come back to haunt him: "I am ready to send a trusted representative to any spot on this earth to talk in secret with a spokesman from Hanoi."

Since it has now developed that any spot on this earth does not include Phnom Penh, in Cambodia, or Warsaw, both suggested by North Vietnam, rude thoughts have been newly expressed about Mr. Johnson's integrity. Senator Eugene McCarthy (Democrat, Minnesota) gave them political expression when he said on Good Friday that he had little faith in Washington-Hanoi peace talks because of Washington's quibbling over a site.

But it can be fairly suggested that McCarthy and Co. are the real quibblers on this point, even at the price of allowing Mr. Johnson a moment of overblown rhetoric at San Antonio. He should have said any suitable spot on this earth. But the word suitable was clearly intended to be understood in the context, even if he regrettably failed to use it.

'Any Suitable Place'

Mr. Johnson clarified his position in his March 31 double announcement of a major reduction in the bombing of North Vietnam and of his own impending retirement. He said then that the U.S. is ready to send its representatives to any forum, at any time. But he added immediately that this could be at Geneva — or any other suitable place.

For it is clear on the face of it that not any spot on this earth is suitable for talks. A mountain top in China or a submerged Soviet submarine are two seemingly ridiculous examples, but not much less ridiculous was the real-life example of Kaesong, Korea, which was under North Korean control when the Korean ceasefire talks began there in 1951. United Nations negotiators found themselves forced to approach the negotiating place flying a white flag symbolizing surrender, were seated in the conference room on a platform a foot lower than the one supporting the Communist negotiators, who loomed above them, and were subjected to a barrage of insults, harassments and delays.

It was eight days after Mr. Johnson's announcement when Hanoi made its formal response, offering to discuss a total end of U.S. bombing of the North, which it regards as the prerequisite for any further negotiations. U.S. officials established contact immediately to fix a time and place.

But Hanoi pushed for Phnom Penh as a meeting place. Washington balked at this because of the weighted status of Cambodia's neutrality. Neither South Vietnam nor the United States have diplomatic relations with Cambodia, and therefore no secure communications, while not only does North Vietnam have such relations, but Cambodia is also host to offices of the Communist National Liberation Front of North Vietnam and to some of its field command posts. Furthermore, South Vietnam has objected publicly to talks being held there.

Warsaw Preference

Hanoi objected to Geneva on grounds of distance, but proposed Warsaw, almost as distant. It made the proposal through the Soviet news agency Tass rather than through formal channels, which annoyed the U.S. further. Washington fears that locating the talks in Warsaw would give the Polish Communist regime control of the propaganda advantages — press facilities, etc. — as well as affect the security of communications out of the well-bugged U.S. Embassy.

Yet Hanoi balks at such obvious locations as New Delhi, Rangoon and Djakarta, all in neutral Asian nations where neither side would have a special advantage.

This dispute could end today or it could go on for weeks. It depends on how long Hanoi thinks it remains useful to spread propaganda accusing the U.S. of stalling, and on how long it takes Hanoi to be convinced the U.S. is not bluffing. If Hanoi believes that Mr. Johnson's March 31 announcement revealed a position of weakness, then the president is determined to see that it learns otherwise.

If the difficulties are overcome, the talks may well wind up in the sleepy Laotian capital of Vientiane, which is short on hotel accommodations and other conference amenities, but has diplomatic representation by both Vietnam, China, and the United States, and regular air service to, Hanoi, which would enable North Vietnamese couriers to avoid the risk of intercepted communications.

Looking Back

From the Times, April 19, 1908.

A fine new building is to be erected without delay for the Chinese Girl's Rescue Home on the property immediately adjoining the present structure on Cormorant Street. The building will be of brick and will cost between $12,000 and $13,000. It is being erected by the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church.

At present there are 17 Chinese girls in the present home, of whom 14 are attending classes. Twenty-two children are also enrolled in the school.

Source of Joy

Congratulations on your front page coverage of the Foster Parents Plan. As the foster parent of a young girl in Greece, her frequent little notes give me great joy. Let me quote from the last letter I received from my ten-year-old: "Today that I am writing to you there is snow and we are sitting round the fire wrapped up in all the woollies we have. It is so cold, we wear our coats indoors." And later: "With the money . . . I bought a pair of shoes and a dress . . . I was given a bottle of vitamins . . . My parents send love and greetings."

We are so fortunate here in Canada. We are told this often but it never registers until we are brought face-to-face with abject poverty, hunger, fear and cold. It would not be difficult for many working people to spare $16 a month. And yet what a difference it could mean to a child and its family. I hope more Victorians will experience the joy of helping this year. Don't just think about it, while you're thinking, write to Foster Parents Plan, P.O. Box 65, Station B, Montreal. You'll be pleased you did. I have a cache of letters and cards I wouldn't trade for anything.—A Foster Parent.

St. Louis College

Most Catholics were aware that the drive to continue the St. Louis College project had not been overwhelmingly successful.

Secondary education in modern times is extremely costly and it is because of this fact that the drive was not a success. It is not true to say that the vast majority of the Catholics in this area want the St. Louis Secondary school to continue. St. Louis at best could only accommodate students preparing to enter the university or the Institute of Advanced Technology. A complete secondary program, as offered in the public schools, is financially out of the question for a separate system. However, most Catholics, because they believe in teaching Christianity in their schools, want to provide a sound system of elementary schools to serve their needs. If the St. Louis College project was discontinued, the Catholic elementary schools could be subsidized by the local parishes and thus remain in operation. An attempt to offer grades one to twelve in Catholic schools is not realistic at the present time.—G. F. Hall, 1321 Rockland.

'RIGHTS' VS. 'THE LAW'

Many Canadians appear to believe—possibly because much of their legal "training" comes from American TV and detective fiction—that they have certain constitutional rights which they do not in fact possess. One of these would be freedom from conviction in a court on "tainted" or illegally-obtained evidence.

The two articles below—one an editorial in The Globe and Mail of Toronto and the other in the Ontario Magistrates' Quarterly—show that the legal precedents come down firmly against any such imagined "right" of Canadians.

An Uneasiness About Justice

The Globe and Mail

The manner in which Magistrate Hugh Foster dealt with a case which came before him last December was sufficiently disturbing, in our view, to call for editorial comment.

We wrote at the time of our uneasiness over the way in which he swept aside the question of the manner in which the police gathered their evidence as something that "wouldn't affect the innocence or guilt of the accused".

Readers may remember that the point arose in the case of the publisher of a Yorkville tabloid paper, charged with publishing an obscene article (the case was dismissed), in which the police had seized 3,000 copies without a warrant.

In the course of his comments, Magistrate Foster raised the hypothetical case of a murder investigation in which police might seize some things before they were empowered to do so, and he added: "It doesn't make the slightest bit of difference whether the police did something before they were empowered to do it . . . It wouldn't affect the fact of whether the fellow was guilty of the murder or not."

In a gracious attempt to banish our foolish fears about this kind of thing, Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow, editor of The Ontario Magistrates Quarterly, has responded with an editorial of his own (reprinted below).

We would like to be able to report that we are reassured; but we are not.

Perhaps Magistrate Bigelow could have set our fears at rest more effectively if he had chosen to grapple squarely with what worried us, rather than thumbing through 700 pages of Tremeear's Annotated Criminal Code in a hunt for legal precedents.

Conceded

The point he labored to prove was conceded in the editorial: "It is one of the curiosities of Canadian law that, although we have gone to the trouble of prescribing in the Criminal Code the procedures that police must follow in the seizure of publications suspected to be obscene, any failure to abide by them need not lead to immediate dismissal of the case."

Our earlier editorial referred to "a great uneasiness about the justice of the procedure" — not about its legality. At no time did we accuse Magistrate Foster of erring in law. But it did seem to us — as it still does — that the quality of justice cannot be at its highest when the manner in which the police obtain evidence is deemed to have no relevance to the case.

This may not bring a single wrinkle to the brows of either Magistrate Foster or Magistrate Bigelow, but we are happy to note that it does trouble Pierre Trudeau, Justice Minister and leader of the Liberal Party.

One Charter

In a speech at last February's federal-provincial constitutional conference, Mr. Trudeau discussed the need for a single, constitutional Charter of Human Rights in Canada:

"How many Canadians know that Canadian law permits evidence to be introduced by the police into criminal trials no matter how illegally that evidence may have been obtained? Apart from confessions for which there are elaborate rules to ensure that they are voluntary, incriminating evidence is admissible in our courts no matter how obtained.

"It may have been gained by fraud; the law enforcement agencies may have stolen it; they may have obtained it without a search warrant, or by means of breaking and entering private premises.

"To the great credit of the police forces of this country, these tactics are seldom employed. But do we wish to live in a country where they may be employed? And where on occasion they are employed?

"I do not, and it is my guess that the great number of Canadians do not."

* * *

. . . But This Is the Law

By MAGISTRATE F. TUPPER BIGELOW

Under the intriguing title of "Inviting a Police State," the Toronto Globe and Mail editorially excoriated Magistrate H. D. Foster for being unconcerned with the manner in which more than 3,000 copies of a rag called Satyrday, alleged to be obscene, were seized by the police.

The editorial said: "In this instance, police seized more than 3,000 copies of Satyrday without first obtaining a warrant, as they are required to do under Sec. 150A of the Criminal Code. This was admitted in court by one of the policemen involved in the case, but Magistrate Foster swept the point aside as something which 'wouldn't affect the innocence or guilt of the accused'."

And later, "There are not many laws written in the Criminal Code that evoke a passive shrug of the shoulders from a magistrate when they are found to be transgressed . . .

"If magistrates and judges are going to look at accused persons with this kind of tunnel vision, intent only on their guilt or innocence and caring nothing for the means to prove guilt, we are well on the way to the establishment of a police state. Such attitudes can only serve to encourage police disregard of the law, with dire consequences for our system of justice."

In the first place, the police are not required to obtain a warrant to seize literature that they suspect may be obscene. In the Satyrday case (R. v Andrew Mikolasch), Mr. Mikolasch co-operated fully with the police and quite willingly allowed them—indeed, invited them—to take, not seize, over 3,000 copies of the suspect periodical.

In the second place, Mikolasch was charged under sec. 150 of the Criminal Code, which sets out various substantive offences involving obscenity. Sec. 150A does not set out any substantive offence; it is procedural only and is not mandatory.

Thirdly, the policeman in question did not admit that he was required to proceed under sec. 150A of the code; he said, as is perfectly correct, that the police did not proceed under that section. They are not required to do so at all.

Section 150A of the code, if I may repeat myself by way of emphasis, is permissive only. It provides a way of disposing of obscene literature (or matter thought to be or suspected of being obscene) by procuring a search warrant from a judge, bringing the offensive matter before him and procuring a judge's order for its confiscation if he considers the objectionable matter to be obscene. No criminal charge is laid against anyone, nor is the result of the procedure the acquisition of a criminal record by anyone.

And finally, the police have the same right if not the duty to initiate a prosecution against a citizen for committing any of the offences set out in sec. 150 of the Criminal Code as they have if they believe he has violated the provisions of any other section of the same code.

"The better opinion seems to be that the fact that evidence has been illegally obtained, e.g., by a search under an invalid search warrant, or in excess of the powers given by the warrant, or even by a wholly unauthorized search, does not affect its admissibility as evidence, but that illegality in the proceedings should be left entirely as a basis for civil liability. The question is not by what means the evidence is procured, but whether the things produced are evidence. R. v. Honan (1912) 26 O.L.R. 484, 20 C.C.C. 10, 6 D.L.R. 276 (C.A.)."

Scrutiny of this decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal reveals that Tremeear's summary of what that case decided is accurate, if brief. The decision has not been disturbed in 55 years and indeed, was fortified by a Privy Council decision in R. v. Nat Bell Liquors Ltd. (1922) 2 W.W.R. 30, 2 A.C. 128, 37 C.C.C. 129, 65 D.L.R. 1, in which Lord Sumner said: "There was also some irregularity in the issue of the search warrant, which proceded the application for forfeiture, and in the information on which it was applied for, but this does not afford a ground for quashing the order, if otherwise it is not impeachable."

Both decisions (and countless others, which say the same thing in different words) are well-known to all judges and magistrates who probably learned it no later than their second year in law school. They are, of course, binding on all Ontario magistrates, and the Privy Council case is binding on all judges and magistrates in the whole of the British Commonwealth. What Magistrate Foster said was simply pointing out that even if the police had improperly or even illegally seized exhibits, they were nevertheless admissible in evidence.

Widespread Dispersal of Power Urged To Relieve Helplessness of Individual

By CYRIL DUNN

LONDON — Nobody can persuade John Papworth that it's a small world.

Mr. Papworth is an Englishman who believes that mankind today is dominated by bigness—by giant governments, huge business corporations and massive technology.

And although these mighty factors dictate the nature and quality of our daily lives, we have, he thinks, virtually no control over them, not even in the democracies.

So Mr. Papworth and those who share his convictions have now set out to excite public opinion in favor of a widespread dispersal of power. They envisage a new society, which they call the Fourth World, in which ordinary people will have a real say in the conduct of their own affairs.

The campaign has just been launched in the university city of Oxford, at the first in a series of nine conferences to be held in Britain this summer.

The chief fear of the Fourth Worlders is that a growing feeling of helplessness in the face of remote and all-powerful authority must inevitably lead to general apathy and a drift into nuclear war. With things as they are, man is simply being presented with courses, frequently mischievous and dangerous, to which he has little real option other than to react with passive acquiescence.

The Fourth Worlders seek to promote small-scale forms of power in which people can participate in a meaningful and constructive way. They dismiss as illusory the benefits thought to be derived from big-scale operations.

Where Man Is the Master

"We need to build a world," says Mr. Papworth, "in which man, rather than technology, is the master. We support small communities everywhere, small productive enterprises, self-government in industry, in universities, in the control of public utilities and in all other spheres where men work together for common ends.

"Power should be dispersed, organically structured and multi-cellular — not centralized, machine-structured and monolithic."

Although Mr. Papworth has only just come out into the open after two or three years of thought and preparation, backed by propaganda in his small-circulation London magazine, "Resurgence," he has found, both in Britain and abroad, a climate already sympathetic towards his ideas.

End of Empire Reflected in U.K.

The dissolution of the British Empire has not stopped at the shoreline of the British Isles.

Declaring that the country of Cornwall is a separate Celtic country threatened with extinction by the English, a Cornish "national movement" is already campaigning for secession.

It circulates postcards showing Kernow (Cornwall) separated by a frontier from England, and bearing — alongside the normal threepenny postage stamp with the Queen's head — a Kernow stamp decorated with drawings of a chough (the Kernow "national" bird), a disused tin-mine, and a Celtic cross.

Far away to the north, the islands of Shetland and Orkney also have movements aimed at ensuring power for the islanders in running their own affairs and resisting absorption in a region centralized on the Scottish mainland. These islanders insist that their ancestral roots are Norse rather than British and — no doubt over-stating their case in order to arouse public interest — in the Orkneys especially, the Orcadian Action Group has demanded reunion either with Denmark or Norway.

Similarly, in the Channel Islands, people are voicing their ancient rights to prevent themselves from being dragged into a United Europe at Britain's coat-tails. They declare that, although the islands are British, they are not a part of the United Kingdom, and are entitled to self-rule because they are separate possessions of the British Crown and have been since the days of the Norman William the Conqueror.

Not All to Be Taken Seriously

Some of these new separatist movements are perhaps not to be taken seriously. For instance, the BBC the other day broadcast a statement of intent by a group calling themselves the Yorkshire Freedom Fighters.

Everywhere, the action groups are a minority, usually of young people. But it is clear that they reflect and express a much wider local dissatisfaction with remote, big-power government. At least one of them — the Cornish group — has had a candidate elected to the county council. And both in Scotland and in Wales, nationalist movements are visibly gaining a support big enough to alarm the traditional British political parties.

At some of the English universities, too, there is a strong movement — mostly firmly based at the moment on the London School of Economics — towards a predominantly student rule. In some English urban areas, where ordinary people feel that the local authorities no longer respond to their needs and wishes, small neighborhood groups are being set up.

These put pressure on the local council; and when this fails — they do it themselves. Where street-cleaning is inadequate, they clean the streets. If the district needs more trees and the council says it cannot afford them, they plant the trees.

To Encourage Self-Reliance

It is to encourage self-reliance of this sort and the growth of small power-groups that Mr. Papworth is now actively at work. The light dawned for him, he says, some years ago, when he was a Labor Party candidate in an elction. He became convinced that a democracy dominated by remote party hierarchies could not meet the people's needs, nor prevent the drift to war.

Brought up in an orphanage, Mr. Papworth is now 46, and, as silent partner in an importing business, has sufficient means of his own to give all his time to the Resurgence movement.

He has been jailed three times — in the United States, when on a peace march which passed through the Deep South where the marchers fraternized with Negroes. He has a French wife whom he met in Cuba and married in the African state of Zambia, with President Kenneth Kaunda as best man.

Indian Plan Nears Fruition

At the Oxford conference Mr. Papworth had as chief speaker the distinguished follower of Gandhi, Jayaprākash Narayan, whose plan for a massive dispersal of power in India seems to be nearing fruition.

He hopes to have established what he called Communitarian Democracy in almost all the 69,000 villages in the state of Bihar before the end of this year. Under this system, the villagers will share their resources and run their own affairs.

If it succeeds, it will be a huge step towards Mr. Papworth's Fourth World.

THE ANGRY YOUNG WORLD

Only Cyprus Question Unites Turkish Students

By DAVID TONGE

(This is another in a continuing series of articles on student unrest throughout the world.)

ANKARA — Turkey's students are often given the credit for leading the 1960 military coup against the Menderes government. They did not do so, though the Democrat Party's maltreatment of them gave an impatient army the excuse for action.

Now the students have little bite but plenty of bark. They overlap the broad spectrum of Turkish politics at both ends and are united only over the question of Cyprus.

The extreme left is, of course, the most noisy. Professional students in the vigorous left-wing Students' Federation easily exploit the fierce nationalism and poverty of many students.

The Federation partly acts as a loud-speaker for the near-Communist Labor Party. It appeals only to a minority of the 70,000 university students, but its protest marches, directed against the United States and the conservative ruling Justice Party, sometimes involve thousands of people.

Xenophobic

America is the main target. The left-wing press assiduously cultivates any xenophobic tendencies, misrepresenting — often deliberately — Turkey's NATO agreements with America to imply insults to national honor.

It also reminds students of President Johnson's 1964 measures to prevent Turkey from invading Cyprus. Only too often the students' intense feelings over Cyprus blur with their anti-Americanism.

Little wonder then that the students protest over Vietnam occasionally, NATO more often, and the U.S. Sixth Fleet whenever it calls. The Sixth Fleet is specifically blamed for Turkey not invading Cyprus. Its visit last autumn was met by hunger strikes; its commander was forced to make an undignified 30-mile helicopter journey rather than land by launch. When President Johnson's Cyprus troubleshooter, Cyrus Vance, arrived here last November, students lay on the runway to prevent his plane from landin.

Other Target

The Justice Party is the Federation's other main target and in 1962 several meetings were held accusing it of being the heirs of the previously oppressive Democrat Party.

This charge seemed forgotten, however, until a parliamentary clash this February. Then the 250-strong Justice Party set on the 10 deputies of the Labor Party, accusing them of being under Moscow's orders and wounding one with a revolver butt.

These clashes are rare, mainly because many students are apathetic over anything except Cyprus. The right-wing Students' Union was long little more than a social club. Its recent large anti-Communist rallies represent a significant departure.

Many students, however, are more concerned with personal problems than politics. They live packed in dormitories, unable to meet the opposite sex. They are desperately poor, and have inadequate scholarships.

A sample survey of the 100,000 students at Turkey's nine universities and 60 other higher education centres showed that two-thirds had a monthly income of less than $30.

14th Year

One who is now entering his fourteenth year of a four-year course, told me: "My parents know a university degree is essential for my career and so they support me. I have many friends, receive cheap tickets, bed and travel, and postpone my military service. Do you wonder I stay?"

Another frankly admitted that all he wanted was office in the Federation as a start to a political career.

Frustration and professional students do not help examination results, however. Only 10 per cent of university students successfully graduated last year.

The government is doing very little to clear out the professional students who are cluttering up scant university places. But, with the confidence of overwhelming electoral support, it apparently takes a benign attitude towards the extreme-left students, realizing that their demonstrations are a useful safety valve, which concerns only a small amount of students.

As long as Communism, which is strictly illegal in Turkey, is kept to the classroom, the government does not mind. And it sees that a Communist student is often a conservative graduate.

One senior minister, after being booed to silence, even commented that such demonstrations were the best proof of democracy. But nonetheless the police were careful to take the offending students' names.

Supersonic Weight Problem Delays Boeing Development

By DAVID FAIRHALL
The Manchester Guardian

LONDON — The men building the Anglo-French supersonic air liner have enough problems of their own without gloating over other people's. But they would probably admit to a feeling of relief, if nothing more, that their American rivals are now sweating over the same daunting arithmetic that faced them a few years ago.

The Boeing 2707 is going through a technical crisis of which the official token is the year's delay in the program announced. And the trouble can be summed up in one word—weight.

Rumor has it that the Boeing team has even been tempted to abandon its variable-sweep wing configuration and adopt the slender delta used for Concorde. But not only is this denied by the company; it would raise formidable political complications because Lockheed (the American manufacturer building a Rolls-Royce powered airbus) proposed a delta-winged supersonic air liner which was rejected in favor of Boeing's design during the United States government competition.

All aircraft designs tend to put on weight, just as all jet engines tend to acquire more thrust. But where subsonic air liner designers simply worry about it, those of supersonic ones are obsessed. Take, for example, the fuel multiplier. Fuel represents a higher proportion of total weight in a supersonic air liner than in today's subsonic jets.

In Concorde the payload amounts to no more than 15 per cent of its fuel capacity, so if the designers make a 10 per cent error in the fuel requirement they have lost two-thirds of their passenger total.

Supposing the weight goes up for some structural reason, more fuel is burned to lift the heavier aircraft off the ground and push it at a given speed; the range falls back. But since this is critical it has to be regained by carrying more fuel to fly those last few miles—but before it can be used it has to be lifted and carried there, which in turn demands more fuel.

This is as much an American problem now as it has been—and will continue to be—an Anglo-French one. But Boeing is trying to juggle with a lot more factors. It has to work in metals like titanium because aluminium alloys could not stand the heat generated at 2.7 times the speed of sound. And it faces in exaggerated form the stiffness problem that any long slender aircraft encounters.

If you have ever watched a swan thundering across a pond struggling to heave its long, sagging neck clear of the water, you will appreciate something of the 2707's difficulty. It does not have Concorde's full delta wing to stiffen the fuselage tube, although the variable-sweep wing roots stretch for a surprising distance. So when the pilot sitting, as it were, on the swan's head, deflects his controls to lift it into the air, the first effect is simply to bend the whole structure like a bow. Increased stiffness means weight.

OVER FIREMEN'S WAGES

Curtis Won't Eat Sour Grapes

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis said today he "won't be the recipient of sour grapes" from city hall in Victoria.

His comment followed criticism of the suburban municipality by a Victoria alderman and the city manager who said Saanich's wage settlement with its firefighters paved the way for a costly and higher arbitration settlement in the city.

"I'm very seriously concerned that an official of the city, or any municipality, would publicly criticize another municipality," Mayor Curtis said.

"There has been a glaring criticism of Saanich and it sounds like someone is making us the scapegoat for a higher award."

Saanich and its firefighters agreed, without arbitration, to an average increase of 5.25 per cent and an increase for fourth-year men and above of 6.76 per cent.

NO AGREEMENT

Victoria and its firefighters did not come to agreement and an arbitration board set the increase at 8 per cent.

Victoria Ald. Robert Baird said Thursday the city was "stabbed in the back" by Saanich. City manager Dennis Young said "there can of course be no doubt" that the Saanich agreement influenced the city award.

"We have apparently not been able to convince Saanich of the merits of co-operation. They did the same last year," he said.

Mr. Young faulted Saanich for settling before the deadline for voluntary agreement. There was a tacit agreement among municipalities, and two school boards that if possible wage settlements would not exceed a certain figure.

Mayor Curtis replied that the Saanich agreement is "fair to both parties" and that the municipality did work closely to the certain percentage figure agreed to in advance.

Its personnel committee was faced with two choices: remain firm and go to arbitration," in which case we gamble with the unknown" or settle on "this reasonable figure agreed to amicably, which was known."

He said there is always a danger in going to arbitration that the board "will saddle council with other benefits that are far more costly than they first appear.

"There was considerable danger in going to a board this year, as the city found out, and I am not going to be the recipient of sour grapes.

"I am going to express my views in a forthright manner to the mayor today. I know that he was not at the (Thursday) meeting and I'm sure that had he been present the situation would not have resulted in this attack."

Teachers Get Solid Backing On Class Size

PENTICTON (CP) — British Columbia teachers Thursday continued a drive to hold down the number of students in classes but said "the numbers game" will be only one basis for action.

"Any teacher may report any situation he considers unacceptable," said a B.C. Teachers Federation official. If the BCTF agrees, it can advise the teacher not to work and will pay his salary.

The closing session of the federation's convention approved several resolutions aimed at improving work conditions, including a limit of 39 students a class or 30 in first-year classes.

Earlier, delegates approved a $5 increase in annual dues, to $80. They already had approved a $3-a-head levy to finance a campaign against new education financing legislation.

FEW APPROVE

But fewer than 20 of the 1,000 delegates Thursday voted in favor of a proposal to put a $25 surcharge on annual dues to establish a $500,000 strike fund.

The association has more than 19,000 members.

A. I. Isaacson of Victoria, chairman of the federation's committee on effective teaching and learning, said moves for improved working conditions are a major step forward.

"There were several unreported classes of over 40 last year. Some of this (failure to report) was through loyalty to a principal and fear of rocking the boat.

"But now teachers have a definite statement of backing from the BCTF. . . . From now on, it isn't just a numbers game, it's a total situation."

Delegates also approved a $6,000 survey of school library services. It will start next February and for one year evaluate services and give guidelines for development.

OPPOSE LEGISLATION

Delegates adopted an executive recommendation formally stating opposition to new financing legislation, to be opposed by a $57,000 campaign including a legislature lobby in 1969.

Among reasons given were that school boards are restricted from spending money from local tax resources and the province's education minister has too extensive powers.

Other approved resolutions included one saying teachers should be involved in appointment of such staff as aides and assistants and should be able to refuse their services.

Defeated was a North Vancouver proposal that teachers refrain from regular supervision of lunch hours and the BCTF use "withdrawal of services" to back this stand.

Four Months For Vagrancy

A 19-year-old was sentenced Thursday to four months in prison after his second conviction for vagrancy this year.

Roy Millar was arrested in the B & E Food Market, 1101 Fort, April 15, He had three packages of meat in his pockets and admitted e intended to steal them.

Police said he had a borrowed $5 bill, but no means of support and no place to stay.

"You are determined to be a drone in the human apiary," Magistrate Ostler told the accused. "It's inexplicable."

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Flaxseed prices were firm and rapeseed prices dropped in modest trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The rye market was moderately active and prices eased, reacting to lower Chicago quotes. Oats and barley trade was routine for the domestic feed market.

There was evidence of some overseas demand for oilseeds.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat all were up ⅛ cent.

Rates Hike Hits Wall St.

Prices sagged on the New York stock market today on news of higher U.S. interest rates. (See story Page 9.)

Wave of selling hit the market at the opening with the Dow Jones average down 11.44 points. It more than cut this by half but then plunged again as reserve board officials warned the U.S. faces "either an uncontrollable recession or an uncontrollable inflation" if it does not correct its red-ink budget and balance-of-payments deficit.

Time Revenues Soar

NEW YORK (AP) — Time, Inc., says its revenues reached a record first-quarter high of $119,706,000 for the first three months of 1968.

The revenues compared with $115,504,000 for the three months ended March 31, 1967.

Shareholders at the annual meeting Thursday were told income for the first quarter was $2,935,000, or 42 cents a share, compared with $3,255,000, or 47 cents a share, a year earlier.

The increase primarily was the result of increased book, pulp and paperboard product sales. Circulation income of the company's magazines also continued upward.

HARDER-TO-GET LOANS

U.S. Hikes Discount Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans face the prospect of harder-to-get loans at higher interest rates following the second increase in little more than a month in the U.S. federal reserve system's discount rate.

The discount rate is the charge commercial banks must pay when they borrow money from the U.S. federal reserve. Other interest rates are pegged upward from it.

In what it termed an attempt to beat back accelerating inflation, the Federal Reserve Board approved effective today a discount rate of 5.5 per cent for three of its 12 banks—New York, Philadelphia and Minneapolis. It had been five per cent.

The other nine banks are expected to follow in a move virtually sure to lead to higher interest rates on loans throughout the economy.

The new rate is the highest since just before the 1929 stock market crash when it went to six per cent.

A boost in the discount rate to five per cent from 4.5 in mid-March was designed to stem inflation and cope with the gold crisis which reached its peak at that point.

The board cited spiralling inflation and a desire to strengthen the dollar abroad in announcing its action and at the same time approving higher interest rates—up to 6.25 per cent—which banks may pay to attract more savings through certificates of deposit of $100,000 or more.

The second move will enable commercial banks to compete more effectively for savings with high interest rates elsewhere in the economy—on corporate bonds, for example.

Other interest rates paid by banks remain unchanged including the four-per-cent maximum on passbook savings accounts and the five-per-cent maximum on certificates of deposit of less than $100,000.

The highest the discount rate has ever gone was seven per cent in 1920-21.

No Move by Canada To Increase Rate

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada has made no move to increase its 7½-per-cent bank rate following an increase Thursday in the U.S. federal reserve system's discount rate.

Canada often follows U.S. leads in adjusting its bank rate but the Bank of Canada has already exceeded the usual margin between rates here and in the U.S.

The Bank of Canada rate has been at a record 7½ per cent since March 15 and remains a normal two percentage points higher than the U.S. rate following Thursday's change.

Canada appears to be in a more favorable position, after Parliament's passage of a tax increase here designed to balance the 1968-69 federal budget.

Further, the Canadian dollar is trading above par in foreign exchange markets and short-term interest rates are relatively low in comparison with the existing bank rate.

BCFP HEAD WARNS

Surplus of Pulp Major Problem

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of British Columbia Forest Products Ltd. has called for a more enlightened approach in pulp mill construction in view of the world surplus of pulp.

A. D. Hamilton told the company's annual meeting "government policy and support in many parts of Canada for the building of pulp mills has increased the surplus of pulp for export to already over-supplied world markets.

"There must be a more enlightened approach to the problems of regional development."

Mr. Hamilton added that the current business environment continued to give concern about the short-term results possible for an integrated forest products company.

TAX BILL HIKED

"Government action and public attitudes apparently show no recognition of the problems posed by a continued inflationary state of the domestic economy and the inadequate growth of productivity in an industry which relies on world markets for product demand."

Mr. Hamilton noted that recent amendments to the federal income tax and provincial logging tax added $100,000 to BCFP's tax bill in the first three months of 1968. The period showed sales of $28,327,000, compared with $26,594,000 in the same quarter last year.

Income before taxes amounted to $3,204,000, compared with $3,401,000 in the first three months of 1967.

Total sales for 1967 were $106,506,000, up 8.1 per cent from 1966, and net profit was $5,852,000, a drop of 8.6 per cent.

In an interview, BCFP Chairman T. N. Beaupre, who is also chairman and president of Domtar of Montreal, said that 1968 looks like a hold-the-line year.

The deterioration in the world pulp market has apparently ended he said, and prices have firmed up a bit. However, surplus capacity on the free world market is about 15 per cent above current demand.

RISING COSTS

He said it was inevitable that the price of newsprint would have to be increased because of rising costs, but not in the immediate future.

"There is a surplus tn the market at present, and a lot depends on labor negotiations," he said.

Secret Deal Reasons Told Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — An official of Loblaws Groceterias Ltd. testified Thursday his company purchased control of Kelly Douglas Ltd. in secrecy so Loblaws competitors would not be aware of the deal.

Richard George Meech, vice-president of Loblaws, said in B.C. Supreme Court there was no intention of Concealing the transaction from a major Kelly Douglas shareholder.

He testified in an action brought by a shareholder, Mildred Frances Douglas, daughter of the co-founder of Kelly Douglas, a B.C. food firm, who seeks to have the sale to Loblaws set aside.

Mr. Meech said that when Loblaws acquires companies, it always buys stock in secret to prevent stock market and employee disruptions and avoid tipping off its competitors.

He said the secrecy in the 1957 purchase "was not related to Kelso Investment Co." That is the company in which Miss Douglas, millionaire heiress, hold: her Kelly Douglas stock.

Mr. Meech, of Toronto, said he knew of the shareholders agreement but nothing of how and why it came into being.

Ore Production May Be Reduced

TRAIL (CP) — President J. H. Salter of Coast Copper Co. says ore production may be reduced this summer because reserves are low.

He told the annual meeting that reserves total 185,500 tons, averaging .053 ounces of gold and 1.5 per cent copper. Exploration is proceeding.

Zambia Takes Over Companies

LUSAKA (AP) — President Kenneth Kaunda announced today that the Zambian government is taking over 25 major industrial and commercial enterprises, ranging from retail chain stores to big transport corporations.

Among these is a logging company owned by the Anglo-American Corp., the giant copper mining group.

Kaunda told a cheering crowd at Kabwe he was "asking" the companies to sell 51 per cent of their stock to the government. But he made clear he does not anticipate anyone refusing.

The move staggered the country's businessmen. Kaunda said it is part of a general plan to eliminate "exploitation by foreign capitalists."

Kaunda also announced restrictions on loans to local businesses owned by expatriates, a ban on expatriate businesses outside 10 major towns and a ruling that government contracts for less than $140,000 are to be awarded only to Zambian enterprises.

However, he said "foreign investors and foreign businessmen," in contrast to resident expatriate businessmen, are welcome in Zambia.

"It is my intention," he declared, "to enact legislation safeguarding approved foreign inestments."

Black Hawks Overwhelmed By Sharp Passing Display

MONTREAL (CP)—Classic passing on the attack gave Montreal Canadiens a psychological lift Thursday night as they opened their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series against Chicago Black Hawks.

"I don't think I ever saw a team pass like that—was going dizzy watching the puck," said Chicago goaltender Denis DeJordy after the Canadiens bombed the Hawks 9-2.

The passing, with accurate shooting to finish off the plays, accounted for three goals within three minutes in the first period "and put us behind the eight ball," said Chicago coach Billy Reay.

Yvan Cournoyer and John Ferguson scored two goals each to lead Montreal while Ralph Backstrom, Gilles Tremblay, Jacques Lemaire, Jean Beliveau and Claude Larose got the others.

Coach Toe Blake of the Canadiens said simply that his club "got the breaks."

He did concede that his penalty killers played a major role and "kept us in there early in the game."

Canadiens Benefit From Good Rest

The Canadiens, who had wrapped up their best-of-seven quarter-finals in straight games against Boston Bruins, were by far the superior team Thursday night.

Bobby Hull, the National Hockey League goal-scoring sensation, said it was simply a matter "of them being rested for seven days."

And when someone suggested to Reay after the game that perhaps his club should have hit more instead of trying to skate with Montreal in the early going, the Hawks' coach said:

"What in the name of . . . do you think we were trying to do out there? You can't hit what you can't catch and we couldn't catch them."

Reay, who can usually find some hidden reason for any failure, said the whole "thing goes back to last year's expansion draft when Montreal and New York Rangers" jobbed the new clubs out of players.

He said the Canadiens were not hurt by the draft "because of the under-the-table deals."

"How about how the Canadiens lost Claude Larose in the draft and then made a deal to get him back?"

The Hawks played Thursday without the services of right winger Ken Wharram, of the high-scoring Scooter Line with centre Stan Mikita and Doug Mohns.

Wharram suffered rib injuries during the quarter-final series against New York Rangers. "They're still sore, but I'm going to make a special effort to play Saturday," he said.

The second game Saturday is scheduled for 8 p.m. EST and will be televised nationally by the CBC. The series then switches to Chicago for the third and fourth games next Tuesday and Thursday.

SPEED TAKES OVER

The series opener began with the accent on speed and both clubs jockeyed for scoring position for more than five minutes. Montreal appeared to bear down from that point and were swarming the Chicago net when Backstrom beat DeJordy with a low shot at 6:37.

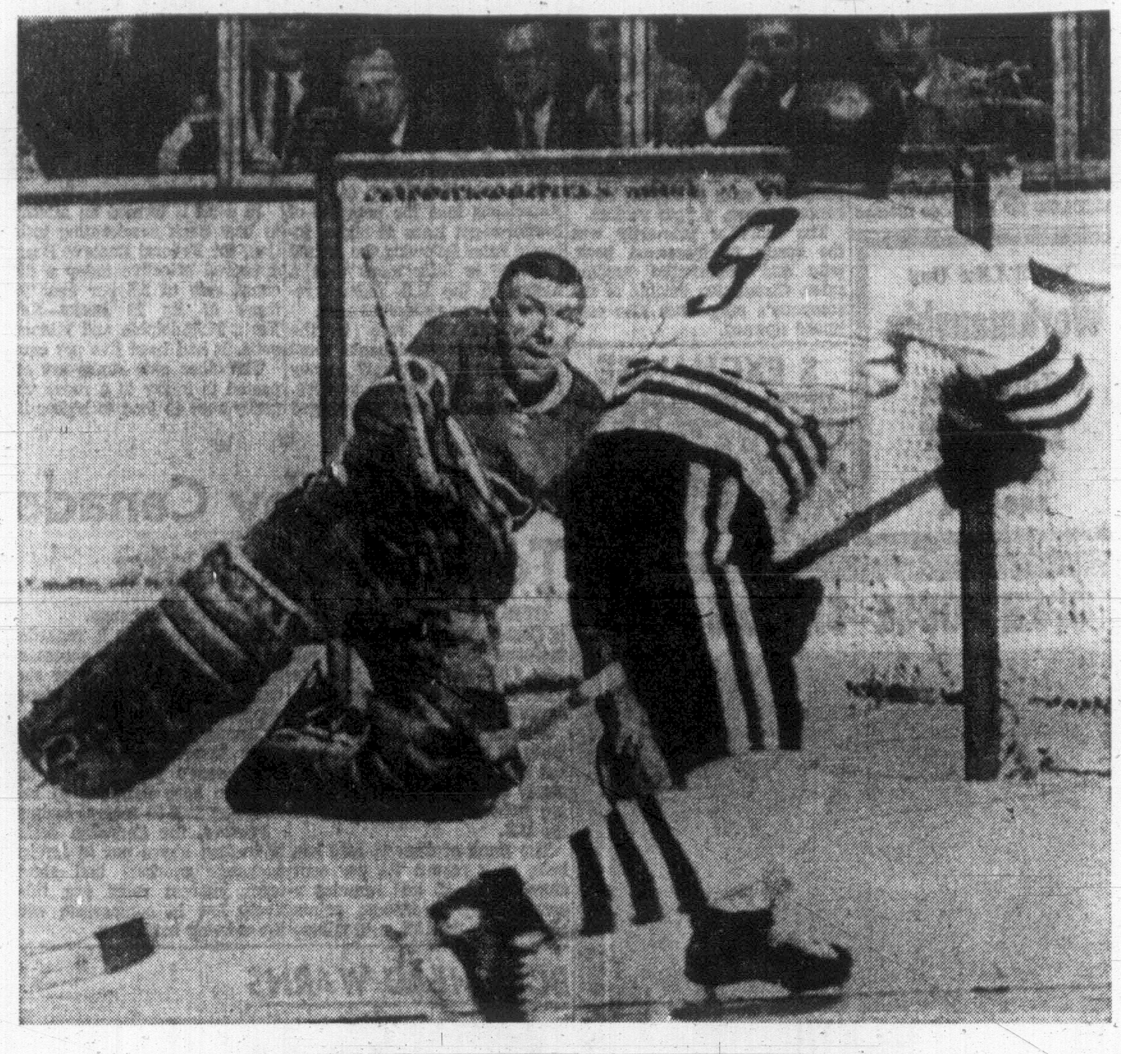
Montreal kept coming and Cournoyer beat DeJordy 54 seconds later on a three-way attack that caught the Chicago defence in a moment of hesitation.

The play that led to Ferguson's goal and a 3-0 lead for Montreal was indicative of the Canadiens' high-flying style.

Jacques Lemaire fed Claude Provost and then jumped onto the bench as the play swept into Chicago territory. Provost slipped the puck to Ferguson, who beat DeJordy cleanly.

The ineptness of Chicago's attack was evident in the second period, however, when the Canadiens drew successive penalties at 16:17 and 17:20, but the Hawks were unable to mount a serious threat.

Montreal set the playoff record in 1944 by beating Toronto Maple Leafs 11-0 and Toronto defeated Montreal 10-3 on another occasion.



IT WASN'T NIGHT FOR HAWKS

It was sad night for Chicago Black Hawks Thursday as Eastern Division final in Stanley Cup playoffs opened in Montreal. One of frustrated Hawks was Bobby Hull, thwarted by Montreal goalie Gump Worsley on his first-period scoring chance. Worsley was one of stars as Canadiens handed Hull and Hawks 9-2 thumping, building up 7-0 lead before Hawks scored. (CP Wirephoto.)

Blues Inspired By Aging Doug; Stars Explode

By The Canadian Press

Underdogs dominated play in Thursday night's National Hockey League Western Division play.

St. Louis Blues, inspired by the play of Doug Harvey, 43-year-old defenceman, upset Philadelphia Flyers 3-1 in Philadelphia and Minnesota North Stars blasted Los Angeles Kings 9-4 in a game on the west coast.

The victories gave St. Louis and Minnesota their respective Stanley Cup quarter-final series four games to three. They begin their best-of-seven Cup semi-final at St. Louis Sunday.

Larry Keenan, Frank St. Marseille and Red Berenson scored for the Blues. Bill Sutherland replied for the Flyers, who finished in first place in the division during regular season play in the division.

Parker MacDonald, Bill Goldsworthy and Milan Marcetta scored two goals each for the North Stars. Other scorers were Wayne Connelly, Dave Balon and Andre Boudrias.

Coach Scotty Bowman of St. Louis credited Harvey with inspiring the Blues to victory.

"I think Doug did an awful lot to help get this team ready for the game," praised Bowman. "He played fine defence and did you notice he got an assist on the winning goal."

Refreshing Benefits in Schedule

Harvey coached the Blues' Kansas City club in the Central Pro League this season, and was brought up for Thursday's game because of injuries to St. Louis regulars.

"The players look up to Harvey," Bowman said. "He's coached a number of them in Kansas City."

Bowman was elated about eliminating the Flyers, who finished the regular campaign in first place, three points ahead of his third-place Blues.

"They won because they had the good schedule," he said. They were fresh 17 times against tired teams. They had the most money, the most scouts. I'm glad to see the last of those black and orange shirts."

Philadelphia coach Keith Allen accepted defeat stoically, and also praised Harvey.

There were a number of versions of how Keenan scored the decisive goal during the second period. Philadelphia goaltender Bernie Parent said he was uncertain how the puck entered the net.

"I believe it hit the post, came out and hit my skate and then moved along the red line. I turned around and it still was on the red line but moving. It went about an inch inside before I could fall on it."

Goals Cooled Off Steaming Wren

Coach Wren Blair of Minnesota said he could not take credit for his team's outburst of scoring.

"I was actually mad at my team in the second period when they started to take shots," he said. "We were up 3-1 and I had just told my men to play it safe. Don't take any chances in an important playoff game when you are ahead by two goals.

"I nearly blew my top on the bench when my players started shooting. But when they began to score, I began to forget my temper."

TIE PLAYOFF MARK

Before the second period was finished, the two team had scored seven goals and equalled a Stanley Cup record for goals by two teams in a period. The 13 goals over-all tied the playoff record for total goals by two teams in a game.

Blair attributed the victory to the North Stars' forechecking and said that his team found weaknesses in the Kings' defence—"and that was the key."

Los Angeles coach Red Kelly said:

"Sure I'm a little disappointed in the outcome, but they tried, and you can't ask more than that.

"Experience, I guess, told the difference in the end. We just seemed to wander around too much, not really knowing where to go or what to do."

"Terry was all right in the goal," he said. "He certainly didn't get much support."

Mexico Plans to Appeal If Invitation Requested

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—The president of the organizing committee for the Mexico Olympic Games made it clear today that no invitation had been sent to South Africa—"because we have no official information that the South Africans have been re-admitted to the games."

Pedro Ramirez Vasquez said: "We have not received any official word from the International Olympic Committee asking us to invite South Africa. We cannot act solely on press information.

"The IOC will request us to invite South Africa depending on decisions taken here by the executive board or by a later plenary session of the full IOC."

WILL APPLY RULE

The Mexican Olympic chief said that although Mexico has received no official notification of the Grenoble postal vote, he has come to Lausanne to apply IOC rule No. 41 which entitles any Olympic organizing committee to present an appeal in case of controversy threatening the status of the games.

This appeal will be presented by General Jose de Clark, Mexico's representative on the nine-man executive board.

Vasquez added that General Clark will also point out that the Grenoble postal vote, decided by a simple majority, was invalid because under IOC rules any change in the regulations requires a two-thirds majority.

REJECTS CLAIM

He rejected the claim put forward by IOC officials that as South Africa was never formally suspended there is no question of changing the rules.

"South Africa was definitely suspended at the 1963 meeting in Baden-Baden (West Germany)," he said.

The executive board, under the presidency of 80-year-old American Avery Brundage of Chicago, was called into session after more than 40 countries threatened to boycott the Mexico Games if apartheid South Africa was allowed to compete.

MAYBE AVERY HINTED BUT HE HASN'T ASKED

SKUKUZA, South Africa (AP)—Avery Brundage has not asked South Africa to withdraw from the Mexico City Olympics, Frank Braun said Thursday.

Braun, president of the South African Olympic Committee, made the statement while accompanying Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, on a tour through the huge Kruger National Park game reserve.

"Mr. Brundage has simply outlined the opposition to our entry and told us of Mexico's fears about the success of the games," said Braun. "He has not asked us to act in any way. Nor has he predicted any outcome of the forthcoming IOC executive meeting in Lausanne."

Traffic Is Heavy Near Top of List

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Paced by two old pros and a member of the younger set in golf, no fewer than 10 players were within three strokes of each other today as play went into the second round of the $150,000 Tournament of Champions.

The veterans were Gardner Dickinson, 40, and Dan Sikes, 37, and the youngster was Kermit Zarley, 26, each of whom shot three-under-par 68s in the first round of action Thursday.

Winnipeg-native George Knudson, now golfing out of Toronto's Oakdale Club, was five strokes off the pace at 73. He won the Tucson and Phoenix Opens earlier this year.

The weatherman promised warmer skies and abated winds following the first round chill which prevailed over the 6,708-yard par 36-35-71 Stardust County Club layout.

CASPER AT 70

Deadlocked at 70, two shots behind the leaders, were five challengers, including Billy Casper and newly crowned Masters champion Bob Goalby.

Bracketed with them in quest of the $30,000 top money in this 16th annual spring event were Julius Boros, Don January and 26-year-old Randy Glover.

Even with par 71 were George Archer and Dudley Wysong.

Gemini Mac Expected To Start as Favorite

A small but select field of horses will contest the feature event, the Times Handicap, over six furlongs at Sandown Park on Saturday.

The favorite should be the B.C.-bred Gemini Mac, last year's winner of the juvenile championship, with the main contention expected from California invader Princess Blenlea.

Remainder of the field for three-year-olds includes The Devil, a winner at the meeting; Langley, Dave's Flyer and Revel's Turk.

The Devil and Gemini Mac are trained by Benny Shindell and will be coupled as an entry.

The supporting feature on the full card, easily the best to be presented this season, is an invitational handicap over six furlongs.

Handicap is on Page 16.

Biggest Human Jam In Hopkinton History

BOSTOON (AP) — The greatest human traffic jam in the history of Hopkinton, a town due west of here, was in store today for the start of the 72nd annual Boston marathon.

A record field of about 900 starters were expected to toe the line for the 26-mile, 385-yard run, set to get under way at noon on a narrow, wooden road.

"I got bumped around for three miles after the start," one young runner complained last year when there were a record 601 starters from 735 entries.

Despite establishment of a $2 entry free for the first time this year, director Will Cloney had entries from 1,014 male runners on his desk.

The late withdrawal of Tom Laris threw the race wide open. Laris, a 27-year-old accounting supervisor in Walnut Creek, Calif., reported he had been weakened by a touch of flu.

HAD BEEN FAVORED

Laris had been favored to give the United States its first victory in 12 years and second since the Second World War.

New Zealand's Dave McKenzie, who set a record in defeating Laris in 2 hours, 15 minutes, 45 seconds a year ago, had to pass up a return visit because of a stomach disorder problem.

Leading Canada's representation—more than 20 Canadians are entered—is Ron Wallingford, 34 year-old assistant professor of physical education at McMaster University in Hamilton, who finished third in 1964.

Two Records Fall Twice In U.S. Meet

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Debbie Meyer of Sacramento, Calif., and Kaye Hall of Tacoma, Wash., each set records in the afternoon trials, then broke their own records in the finals Thursday night at the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union's spring swim meet for women.

Miss Hall set a similar double record in the 100-yard backstroke. She covered the distance in 1:00.1 in the preliminaries, bettering the old mark of 1:00.7 by Elaine Tanner of Winnipeg and Vancouver, then came back at night to break that mark with a 59.3 second time.

Miss Meyer, owner of several world freestyle records, swam the 500-yard freestyle in four minutes, 54.1 seconds in the finals after swimming it in 5:00.9 earlier. The old record was 5:06.9 by Pam Kruse of Pompano Beach, Fla.

TIMES OPEN MATCHES . . . . . . AT OAK BAY SUNDAY

Squared Stance Straightens Bill

Like "Sweet Afton," Bill Wakeham has been flowing gently.

Because he is strongly favored to reach the final of the Times Vancouver Island Open golf championship, it hardly seems newsworthy to mention the fact that the professional is still going.

The quarter-final round of the popular match-play tournament will be played Sunday at Victoria Golf Club and Wakeham marches off with Gorge Vale clubmate Ted Langlois.

While there is no surprise in his advance, Wakeham interjects an eyebrow-raising note by declaring his first moves were without satisfaction. He topped the qualifying round with a two-over-par 72 at Colwood — but wasn't happy with parts of his game.

★ ★ ★

Satisfaction showed — finally — last weekend in a 3 and 2 triumph over Gorge Vale's Cec Ferguson.

Despite wind and rain, Wakeham said "I played better than at any time during this tournament."

A squared-off stance did it.

"For the first time this season, I felt I was able to manipulate the ball. Squaring my stance made the difference. I made the change the day before (on Saturday) half-way through a practice round when I realized I was aiming too far to the right and depending on a draw to bring the ball back on line."

"With a square stance, I was two-under-par for the last nine holes and kept things working well again on Sunday."

Wakeham missed only two greens — both by about a foot — against Ferguson, and was two under par for the time it took him to defeat the Gorge Vale junior.

Old Foes Meet In Title Games

In the B.C. Minor Soccer Association's "Tournament of Champions" second and fifth division Gorge Football Club teams play members of an organization they've faced in playoffs for the past three years — Vancouver's Grandview Legion.

The second-division title is up for grabs Saturday at 12:45 p.m. while the fifth-division struggle starts Sunday's tournament action at 11:30 a.m.

UNDEFEATED SEASON

Second-division Gorge, 1967 third-division provincial champs, had an undefeated record in 14 league starts this season.

During these games Gorge booted 50 goals while yielding only seven. Goalie Graham Lee, who had nine shutouts, and leading scorers Rick Lamoureux, Bob Bolitho and Ted King are four big reasons the squad hopes to grab another B.C. crown Saturday.

Fifth-division Gorge currently has 12 players injured or ill. It also has an unbeaten record for league and cup play. Last year, a tie in the deciding game brought only a share of the provincial trophy, this season the Gorge lads hope to claim it all.

A BISSON AFFAIR

Standouts such as centre-half Brad Clarke, right-fullback Sam Bender, left-half Malcolm Moscrop and inside-right Doug Bisson might enable them to accomplish just that.

Doug's brother, Bob Bisson, will be aiding the second-division squad's cause on Saturday.

U.S. Asked To Withdraw By Magazine

NEW YORK (AP) — Sport Magazine in an editorial Wednesday asked that the United States withdraw from the Mexico City Olympics if South Africa is allowed to participated.

"We say that if the vote is not reversed, if South Africa is allowed to keep its place in the Olympics, then the United States should relinquish its place," said the editorial.

"With 42 nations, mostly Africa, already withdrawn from the Games they threaten to end up as virtually all-white in character. We think this is especially calamitous in our world today when black men and white men seem to be withdrawing from each other, when in the words of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders 'our nation is moving towards two societies—one black, one white—separate and unequal.' It is intolerable for this situation to go on."

The executive committee of the International Olympic Committee meets in Lausanne, Switzerland, this weekend to consider requests for another vote of the full IOC on the admission of South Africa.

AUSSIES PLAY THREE GAMES

Australian sailors with the visiting missile destroyer HMAS Brisbane have a few athletic chores to complete before leaving for home.

Saturday at 2 p.m. they are scheduled to tackle CFB Esquimalt rugby representatives on the upper playing field at Esquimalt.

At 1 p.m. Sunday, in Beacon Hill, the Aussies will face a cricket test with a representative Victoria city side while one hour later some shipmates meet CFB reps in a soccer struggle at Esquimalt.

GOOD LUCK, BROTHER!

Extra interest in minor soccer's "Tournament of Champions", which gets under way Saturday at Centennial Stadium, belongs to the Bisson family. They have representatives on two Victoria teams hoping to claim British Columbia title. Sixteen-year-old Bob Bisson (left) lines up with Gorge's Second Division team, while brother Doug, 13, plays for Fifth Division side. (Times photo by Irving Strickland.)

FISHING REPORT

Larger Catches Starting to Show

By STEWART LANG

More and more . . . larger and larger . . .

That seems to be the salmon-fishing trend as indicated by weigh-in reports from boathouses around Lower Vancouver Island.

Chain Islands and Fiddle Reef off Oak Bay are still producing with the afternoon tide change seemingly a good time to hook the big ones. Bob Straith picked up a 15-pounder recently and bluebacks are showing in increasing numbers around Trial Island.

Grilse may be taken off Discovery Island and salmon up to 12 pounds are reported off the mouth of Cadboro Bay near Jimmy Jones Island. Use 4-6 ounces of weight and a Tom Mack (4½) for blues in this region.

Visitor from Edmonton, Bill Schiewe limited with top fish of 10 pounds. Frank Osborne and his son-in-law brought in another limit from the edge off Race Rocks.

At Hall's Boathouse, the Goldstream Island vicinity is still rated "good" with Gordon Lamont picking up a 15½ and a 9½-pound fish Wednesday.

Some spectacular fish have been taken between Tod Inlet and Willis Point, with 75 to 150 feet of line and Tomic plug or strip. Lloyd Bergon brought in a 28-lb. whopper with another 10-lb. 5-oz. while Eleanor McKenney returned with three — 23-11, 17 and 15-12.

Lou Parker snagged one tipping the scales at 23-6.

Cardinals' Armor Shows Weakness in 12th Inning

By Associated Press

Bob Lee has found a chink in the St. Louis Cardinal armor. The world champions show a definite weakness around the 12th inning.

Lee, Cincinnati's veteran reliever, picked up his second straight 12th-inning victory over the Cards Thursday night and the score both times was 4-3.

In the only other National League games scheduled, Atlanta Braves rode Felipe Alou's second home run of the game to a 5-3 ninth inning victory over Chicago Cubs and Willie Mays' bases-loaded double drove in three runs as San Francisco Giants rallied for a 5-3 victory over New York Mets.

Lee worked out of a 12th inning jam and picked up Wednesday's victory when Pete Rose doubled and came in on Lee May's single.

Rose, who homered tying the run in the eighth, doubled Leo Cardenas across with the winning run in the 12th.

REACHES PLATEAU

John Edward's two-run double gave the Cards the lead they held until Rose's home run tied the game.

Atlanta was down to its last out, trailing Chicago 3-2 in the ninth. But Sandy Valdespino singled and pinch hitter Mike Lum tripled him home. Pete Mikkelsen relieved for the Cubs and Alou lined his second homer of the game to win it for the Braves.

It may have been a costly victory for the Braves. Slugger Joe Torre was struck in the side of the head by a pitch in the eighth inning and left the field bleeding from the nose. He was taken to hospital for X-rays.

Mays stroked two doubles against the Mets—the second one clearing the bases in the seventh inning.

The two doubles gave Mays 1,116 extra base hits in his career, tying him with Ted Williams for seventh place on the all-time list.

In the American League, Mickey Mantle has his sights set on Jimmy Foxx.

The home-run countdown season began in earnest Thursday night when the Yankee slugger hit his first one of the season in New York's 6-1 victory over California.

It was Mantle's 519th career home run, just two short of Williams' total, which now is the fourth best ever compiled. Foxx's total is 534 and Mantle is trying for a crack at it this year.

"I don't set goals," Mantle said after the game, "but it would be nice to pass Foxx this year."

Ahead of Foxx are Babe Ruth with 714 and Mays, who has 565 and is probably good for a few more yet.

In other American League games, Oakland Athletics beat Baltimore Orioles 4-3 in 13 innings, Boston Red Sox beat Chicago White Sox 5-0 and Washington Senators edged Minnesota Twins 7-6.

Tough Penalty For Striking Lacrosse Refs

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Western Division of the National Lacrosse Association Thursday announced a 21-man limit on player rosters for the four clubs, to be reached by April 30.

The western clubs, Vancouver, Victoria Shamrocks, New Westminster Salmonbellies and Portland Adanacs, must first trim their rosters to 25 by April 22, western commissioner Tom English said.

Limits have not been set for the fledgling eastern division clubs which each drafted 35 players from a player pool. The western division is made up of four established clubs.

English said western clubs may protect all signed players from 1967, two over-age juniors and two juniors from their own junior teams. The western division season opens May 8.

Rosters can be altered during the season, with players placed on a 48-hour waiver list. If unclaimed, a player becomes a free agent. If two clubs claim, he goes to the one lower in 1967 standings.

English said clubs will be able to put a maximum of two players on a 30-day injured list.

He also announced the league will crack down on several rules: For a start, any player or official of a club who strikes a game official will be suspended for at least the season.

The eastern division season opens May 5. Teams are Toronto Maple Leafs, Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Olympics and Peterborough, Ont., Lakers.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Arena booking problems in Seattle and Portland may shift up to four Western Hockey League playoff games to Vancouver, league president Al Leader said Wednesday night.

If the Lester Patrick Cup final, which begins in Seattle tonight, goes to a sixth game it will be played in Vancouver's Pacific Coliseum.

Ice is not available in Seattle after this weekend because of previous bookings. If a seventh game is necessary it will be played in Portland.

Once the WHL champion is decided, a best-of-seven series against the American Hockey League champion will open in the AHL city in the first week of May.

It will continue in the eastern city until one team wins two games before it is shifted west to Vancouver.

Back Nine Played In Seven Under Par

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Bob Lunn, in his second year on the pro golf tour, fired an eight-under-par 63 Thursday to take a two-shot lead over Steve Reid in the first round of the $35,000 Azalea Open golf Tournament.

Lunn matched a Cape Fear Country Club course record set in 1955 by Bob Toski when the course played to a 72 par. It has been trimmed to a 71 for this year's tournament.

Lunn's back nine 28, seven under par, set a course record and was one over the Professional Golfers Association's nine-hole record set by Mike Souchak in the 1955 Texas Open.

Reid turned the front side in 31. He had seven birdies and a one-over par on No. 11. Birdie putts of 35 and 30 feet highlighted his round.

Third at 66 were Dick Ryan, Bob Erickson and Bobby Mitchell.

Al Balding of Toronto and Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg were among 10 players group at 69. Balding's nines were 32-37 and Homenuik's 36-33.

Juckes Picks Men to Run Puck Tourney

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordon Juckes, executive director of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, has announced the appointment of officers to handle Canada's two-pronged sponsorship of the 1970 world hockey tournament.

The tournament, a six-team, double round-robin affair, opens in Montreal March 13, 1970, and concludes here March 20. The scene then shifts to Winnipeg for the second half of the event with play commencing March 22 and ending March 29.

Bob Lebel, past president of the CAHA and the International Ice Hockey Federation, will be chairman of the Montreal section, to be played at the forum.

Harold Martin of Winnipeg, past president of that city's arena, will be in charge of the second segment of the tournament.

RANJIT DILLON
. . . scoring champ

Coach Dave Unwin has been laboring to trim extra pounds off his players but he'll still have extra weight on his roster when he takes the wraps off the 1968 edition of Victoria Shamrocks Saturday night at Nanaimo.

Playing this season in the western division of a new league — the eight-team National Lacrosse Association — the Rocks open a three-game exhibition campaign at Nanaimo in a Sid Greenwood Tournament clash with New Westminster.

Vancouver and Portland (nee Coquitlam Adanacs) tangle in another Saturday exhibition at Richmond. Victoria's other pre-season tussles are against New Westminister at Haney on April 26 and against Vancouver at North Vancouver on April 29.

With 17 members of the last year's team again available for action, Unwin still has 30 men on the club roster, which he will have to trim severely before the Rocks host Portland May 8 in their league opener at Memorial Arena.

Dave is expected to drop some more Rocks following Saturday's exhibition.

Shamrocks appear set in goal with Barry Forbes, the top shot-stopper in the Inter-City League last year, looking sharp in workouts and George Grover, up from the Junior Shamrocks, battling holdover Doug Thompson for the backup berth.

Ranjit Dillon, league scoring champion and most valuable player last year, anchors the defence corps, which includes returnees Ted Liebich, Tom Black and Ray Beech. Also bidding for defence spots are Bill Spotswood, hockey player Larry McNabb, and junior graduate Vern Black.

There is also tough competition for places on the forward lines, where holdovers Don McNeill, Nirmal Dillon, Bill Munroe, Bob Harris, Ed Kowalyk, Reg Foster, Lonnie Restall, Glen Vickers, Tom Collett, Jim McNeill and Billy Gray are wheeling and shooting.

Also bidding for front-line places on the club that will take a summer swing through the four-team eastern division are veteran Bill Russell and junior Charlie Hardie from Nanaimo, Dave Collett, Charn Dhillon, Ken Alexander, Ron Zilkie, Alex McLean, John Stewart and Dennis Somner.

Shamrocks will launch their eastern safari at Montreal on July 28 and will also play at Detroit (July 30), Toronto (July 31) and Peterborough (Aug. 1).

Toronto will be at Memorial Arena July 3 and will be followed by the other three eastern clubs. The Rocks will play most home games on Wednesdays with two Saturday dates at home.

Given Green Light

LONDON (AP) — Britain's tennis officials, planning open tournaments, were given the go-ahead Thursday for Britons to compete in the all-amateur Davis Cup.

Basil Reay, secretary of the British Lawn Tennis Association, said the Australian holders of the trophy had accepted a suggestion by the International Lawn Tennis Federation that all players registered as eligible for the cup last march 29 would remain eligible throughout the 1968 competition.

The ILTF on March 28 approved open tournaments.

GO AHEAD
TAME ONE!

you'll
friend for life

The Datsun 1600 Sports Convertible is incredibly well-bred. It will purr politely about town forever without a hint of aggressiveness. Or go snarling down a back straight on its way to beating anything in its class. (It won titles all last season at tracks like Westwood, Mosport and Daytona.) It takes its cue from you.

The 1600 has real stamina. The brilliantly engineered, 96 HP overhead valve engine doesn't just perform superbly for the first few thousand miles. When we talk about 100,000 mile reliability, we mean it. Fitted with dual carbs, the plant will move the car 0-60 in 12.1 seconds, and all day at its top speed of 105 m.p.h. Braking is rated as very good by the experts. The front disc/rear drum combination operates from two master cylinders for safety.

And how's this for standard equipment? Collapsible steering column; five bearing crankshaft; four-speed, full synchromesh box; 300 watt alternator with regulator; tachometer; trip recorder; fog lights; racing wheel; radio; clock; two-speed wipers; great heater/defroster; ammeter and oil pressure gauge.

The Datsun 2000 Sports Convertible is much more than a smart, quick sports car. It is a high performance racing machine. We don't recommend it to inexperienced drivers or, generally, as a woman's car. Even though it is one of the most safe and forgiving tigers on the road, it needs a cool, firm hand and trained reflexes. The 2000 looks similar to the 1600 Sports Convertible. It has the same fine standard equipment, plus roll bar and head rests. But under the hood is 150 HP with overhead cam and Solex carbs. Can you imagine the power to weight ratio?

Another feature is an impeccable 5-speed box. You can cut it into overdrive fifth gear at between 70 and 115 m.p.h. Top speed out of the showroom is 125 m.p.h. As we said, it's a racing machine. One thing you'll notice is the positive feel at high speed. It settles on the track as if it were part of it. The back end never gets light.

A few performance figures. The Datsun 2000 does the SS¼ in 16.0 seconds and 0-50 in 6.4 seconds. It has consistently beaten the best European cars, many of which cost thousands more to buy. So if you want to get up and really go, tame a Datsun 2000 Sports Convertible. You'll become fast friends in the first five minutes.

$3570 (Suggested Retail Price P.O.E.). Fibreglass hard-top optional.

Strong Challenge From Granatelli

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (CP)—Andy Granatelli has assembled one of the most formidable driving teams in the history of the Indianapolis 500 auto race.

Five of the six cars entered by Granatelli for the 52nd Memorial Day race May 30 will use engines built by United Aircraft of Canada Ltd. in Montreal.

Granatelli's entry of six cars powered by a new, small Pratt and Whitney engine brings to 77 the number of the cars in the field.

Granatelli, president of the sponsoring STP Corp., had planned to use Jimmy Clark of Scotland, killed in a West German small car race April 7.

Granatelli said Clark will be replaced by Jackie Stewart, another grand prix racer from Dumbarton, Scotland, who was No.3 in world rankings in 1965. He took a fourth at Indianapolis two years ago.

ROOKIE IN FIELD

Greg Weld of Kansas City, U.S. auto club sprint car champion last year but a rookie at Indianapolis, also was named to the team. It already included former 500 winners Parnelli Jones, of Torrance, Calif., and Graham Hill of London.

The field of 77 cars is the fifth largest since the first 500-miler in 1911 but smaller than the record 90 entries last year. But there are nine turbines, compared to the single entry last year in which Parnelli Jones almost won the race.

GRANTED MEMBERSHIP

Meanwhile, the United States Auto Club and Granatelli ended their feud Wednesday.

USAC announced jointly with Studebaker Corp., and its subsidiary STP Corp., the dismissal by STP of all legal action against USAC. In turn, the USAC granted a 1968 membership to STP.

Granatelli recently was the loser in a federal court lawsuit against USAC in which he sought to have the racing body's new rules for turbine engines overturned.

SCHOOL STARS PLAY

Rugby Vets Return To Action Saturday

They'll be bending the rugby rules a bit at Macdonald Park Saturday afternoon and nobody is going to protest.

Many former stars will return to the former Macdonald pitch stars for a match between the James Bay Athletic oldtimers and a team of oldtimers representing the rest of the Vancouver Island clubs.

In consideration for veterans burdened by extra weight or extra years, or both, rules will be relaxed to allow unlimited substitution when action starts at 2:30.

They'll be playing it straight on the lower Macdonald field at 1:30, when the Mid-Island high school selects tangle with a team comprised of teachers.

Included among the noted stars of former years who will be puffing in the oldtimers' tournament will be Dave MacKenzie, Bob Hutchison, Dick Ellis, Ray Calton, Bob Coutts, Gary and Gordie Pynn, Frank Gower, Ken Higgs, Jack Patrick, Ken Higgs, Gerry Main and Doug Bray.

PENTICTON EDGED . . . . . . ESTEVAN ADVANCES

Movers Extend Series

EDMONTON (CP) — A low slapshot by Grant Wyton at 16:12 of the third period gave Edmonton Movers a 4-3 win over Penticton Broncos in their best-of-seven Memorial Cup western semi-final series.

Wyton's shot went between Penticton netminder Wallie Denault's legs. It was the Edmonton defenceman's second goal of the night.

Penticton now leads the series three games to one. Next game of the series will be played tonight in Edmonton.

Penticton got their goals from Ken Conner, Ray Wallis and George Watson.

Winner of this series will meet Estevan Bruins, who defeated Westfort, Ont., Hurricanes four games to one with an 8-3 victory Thursday in Estevan.

Should the Edmonton-Penticton series return to British Columbia for the sixth and seventh games, they will be played at Kelowna. The ice in Penticton's home arena has been removed.

Army Pledges Civilian Regime In Wake of Sierra Leone Coup

MONROVIA, Liberia (Reuters) — A civilian government is expected to be installed in Sierra Leone within 48 hours, says reports reaching here today from the capital of Freetown.

The new administration, which the reports said would be headed by All-People's Party leader Siaka Stevens, would take over from army mutineers who Thursday toppled the year-old military regime of Brig. Andrew Juxon-Smith.

The reports said it was virtually certain the 14-man army council, which seized power in what quickly became known as "the sergeants' coup," would ask Stevens to take over.

Stevens was deposed by the army a few minutes after being sworn in as prime minister after indecisive general elections in March, 1967.

GAVE PROMISE

The mutineers promised in a proclamation over Sierra Leone radio Thursday night they would turn the country over to civilian rule as soon as possible.

The radio said army mutineers, led by non-commissioned officers, arrested military government leaders and set up a council of 14 to take over the administration.

A speaker on the radio, who identified himself as WO Imadu Rogers, accused Brig. Andrew Juxon-Smith's National Reformation Council of going back on its word to turn over government to civilians as soon as possible.

Diplomatic sources in Accra, Ghana, said the new council of 14 is headed by WO Patrick Gordon and was described as an "anti-corruption army council."

WAGES AN ISSUE

They said the soldiers mutinied in protest over poor pay and conditions. There was no indication of any fighting or casualties.

Reports reaching here said Juxon-Smith and Maj. William Leigh, chairman and deputy chairman of the National Reformation Council, set up after the army seized power in March, 1967, are under house arrest.

But Accra sources said it is understood they are being held at Wilberforce barracks, south of the Sierra Leone capital of Freetown.

Rogers said on the radio those chosen to lead the country after the 1967 coup proved to be as corrupt as the former civilian regime.

Reports from Conakry, capital of Guinea, said the former Sierra Leone army deputy commander, Col. John Banguar, arrived there a few days ago from the U.S., where he held a diplomatic post, and is believed to be in close contact with the mutineers.

Banguar was one of seven senior army officers arrested in February, 1967, in connection with an alleged plot to overthrow the government of Sir Albert Margai. He was later freed and sent to the U.S.

Guidelines For Press Ruled Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Newspaper editors whose cities were hit by summer riots in the U.S. feel strongly that there is no need for a code of voluntary restraint in their news coverage.

This was the primary conclusion in a survey taken by William M. Ware, Cleveland Plain Dealer executive editor, for the freedom of information committee of The Associated Press Managing Editors.

Ware polled editors in cities struck by riots in the last three summers and said he delayed writing his report until the president's national advisory commission on civil disorders had released its findings and recommendations. He also consulted the justice department's community relations service.

UNION NATIONALE ROLE

Levesque Soars, If You Believe Survey Source

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Quebec Bureau

QUEBEC CITY — A so-called "ultra-secret survey," showing a surge of separatist strength in Quebec, graduated from a rumor to a news report Thursday. But its authenticity remained open to question.

For days Rene Levesque has been boasting that a survey said to have been commissioned by Premier Daniel Johnson, shows that a united separatist movement would win 30 per cent of the Quebec vote in a provincial election.

Thursday Le Devoir of Montreal published the results of the "survey" in a story that carefully steered away from vouching for its authenticity.

It gives this breakdown of voting preferences in the province:

Union Nationale, 42 per cent; Rene Levesque's Sovereignty-Association Movement, 20 per cent; Liberals, 18 per cent; Ralliement Pour l'Independance Nationale, 8 per cent; Ralliement Nationale, 2 per cent; undecided, 10 per cent.

The combined strength of the three separatist groups, the SAM, the RIN, and the RN, add up to the 30 per cent that Mr. Levesque has been claiming.

Nothing of the origin of the survey has been established beyond doubt. Officially, Mr. Johnson's government does not recognize its existence.

UN 'LEAK'

What does seem most firmly established, however, is that the results were "leaked" by Union Nationale sources to Mr. Levesque and to a few reporters.

Also leaked, it is understood, was the word that the survey was ultra-secret and that the government did not want it made public.

Still secret are the crucial facts about the survey itself: who made it, how it was made, how and where the sample was chosen.

One point that most uncommitted political observers find hard to believe is that the great gains in separatist strength have been made entirely at the expense of the provincial Liberals.

With 42 per cent of the popular vote, Mr. Johnson's Union Nationale is just a shade stronger than it was in the 1966 election, while the Jean Lesage Liberals have dropped from 47 per cent to 18 per cent.

Since the Liberals can count on almost all the votes of the close to 20 per cent of Quebec's population that is English-speaking, of British or other ethnic origin, the survey findings imply that the Liberals have no support whatsoever among French-speaking Quebeckers.

NEUTRAL VIEW

Equally incredible, to most neutral eyes, the survey purports to prove that close to 40 per cent of the French-speaking voters in Quebec are ready to vote separatist. (It can safely be assumed that the separatist sentiment among the English-speaking is negligible, outside the McGill University campus at least.)

The 20 per cent support for the Levesque movement is not, in itself, considered beyond the bounds of possibility. But it is not widely believed possible that Mr. Levesque could gain this much strength without cutting seriously into the strengh of the RIN and without taking as many votes from the Union Nationale as from the Liberals.

STEWARD FIRED AFTER TRIAL

LONDON (AP)—British European Airways has fired a steward who said in court he slept with most of the hostesses on his flights. Keith Lewis, 25, was acquitted 10 days ago in the Old Bailey criminal court of a charge of raping a hostess. In his testimony he said he always took hostesses out for drinks when they were waiting over in foreign cities for another flight and "I sleep with nearly all of them."

Riviera Rocked By Quake

IMPERIA, Italy (AP) — A strong earth tremor shook the northern Italian Riviera up to the French border and sent tourists and residents running into the streets Thursday night.

Police said no casualties were reported.

Tulsa Lineman Dies

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A University of Tulsa football player who collapsed after a wind sprint Wednesday died early today. William Charles Firneno, 20, a lineman, died of complications following heat exhaustion.

WAGE TALKS COLLAPSE

LONDON (AP) — Talks broke down Thursday on demands by 3,000,000 British workers for higher pap—the biggest wage increase demand since the Labor government imposed emergency wage curbs in 1966.

The claim was made by the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions. Engineering employers argued the increases would increase the industry's wage bill 20 per cent. The British government's March budget proposed freezing wage increases to a maximum of 3½ per cent a year.

Hugh Scanlon, president of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, said talks with employers had broken down and the employers' offers were "insulting." He contended the demands for higher pay, three extra days' vacation and equal pay for men and women would mean an increase of less than 3 ½per cent.

Hunting Carpet, Medallion Carpet, the famous Shah Abasi Carpet, Vase and Flower carpet. Family prayer rug. The Nomadic and geometric design known as Tribal Carpet. Arches Carpet, The Tree of Life Carpet. Also:
ISFAHANS with its medallion, vase, and flower design, known as "Shab Abbassi", although the famous Sixteen Century carpets so called were probably made in Herat.
TABRIZ is an ancient capital of Iran. It was here that the beautiful hunting carpets were woven. No other district has used such a wide range of colors or designs. Silk is sometimes used in the finer specimens.
KASHANS. This is a very important weaving center. Medallion and prayer designs predominate and are woven both in wool and silk.
KERMAN. The yarn of this weaving center is soft. The designs are mostly medallion, and trees and flowers. The colors are beautifully blended.
SORUK. The style here is very close to that of the Kerhan carpets. The construction is strong with a very deep pile. Knot: Schna.
QUOMS and SEHNA. These are the districts after which the famous Iranian knotes get their names. The carpets are finely woven and hammered in cone designs. The pile is short and the rugs are finely woven.
Among many other rugs, the collection also includes collector's items consisting of some very unique and rare pieces of Persian rugs. You are cordially invited to view this exciting exhibition to appreciate the intricate craftsmanship apparent in these Persian rugs. STANFIELD INDICATES POSITION

Tories Will Help Trudeau Provided Policy Realistic

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield said Thursday night the Opposition will give Pierre Elliott Trudeau "every reasonable chance to prove his promise" after he becomes prime minister Monday.

"We are prepared to help him in every reasonable way," Mr. Stanfield told the local Progressive Conservative Association.

"But there must be an early indication that the government is prepared to recognize the hard reality of Canada's present economic position."

Mr. Stanfield said a first and necessary step for the government to restore confidence in the Canadian economy is to bring in a budget for the present fiscal year.

"Mr. Trudeau has talked about a summer holiday for Parliament," the Conservative chief said. "Before any holiday can be considered, the government must guarantee that it will bring in a full budget and allow time for a thorough discussion of economic and budgetary policy."

Mr. Stanfield blamed poltical decisions taken by the Liberal government as a prime cause of the economy's slow rate of growth.

"Instead, the fiscal policies of this government added substantially to the inflationary pressures. Our most basic economic problems were created at home and can and must be remedied at home."

VIOLENCE AT OAKALLA

Prison Closing To Be Hastened

VANCOUVER (CP) — Deputy Attorney - General Dr. Gilbert Kennedy says plans have been speeded up for eventual closing of Oakalla prison farm, scene of a series of prisoner - guard clashes this week.

He said in a Vancouver interview Thursday that moves to build more forestry camps are under careful study, with a view to shutting Okalla, in suburban Burnaby, within 10 years.

He said the current unrest is partially due to the fact that many of Oakalla's inmates are hardened ofefnders. Less dangerous prisoners have been moved to the 12 forest camps in the province.

Dr. Kennedy's outline of prison plans came after three outbreaks of violence. They followed the shooting wound to would - be escapee Jacques Pitton, 18.

One gang of prisoners ganged up on guard George Terry who now is in hospital for treatment of possible skull fracture. A prisoner smashed guard George Cullen with a tray. And another prisoner tried to escape but surrendered when guards fired several shots.

Officials refused to give details of the unrest and Dr. Kennedy said "we can't make press releases over every incident."

He said reception centres for screening prisoners are planned throughout the province and more forestry camps will be needed.

There are about 700 prisoners confined to Oakalla prison.

Millionaire Ship Owner Dies in Crash

CORINTH, Greece (UPI) — A millionaire Greek shipowner and his aunt died Thursday night when their light aircraft, flying from London to Athens, crashed near Corinth.

Michael Eustathiou, 49, who lives in London, was piloting his Cessna 411 aircraft when it crashed into a field and burst into flames. His aunt, Mrs. Casso Gerakaris, was burned to death.

Two passengers — British accountant Albert Clark and Dutch businessman Baas Dennis—were hauled from the burning wreckage and taken to a Corinth hospital. They were reported in good condition today.

Eustathiou was flying to Athens on a combined business and pleasure trip. He planned to meet his wife there to celebrate the Greek Orthodox Easter.

FIRST VISIT to Washington as prime minister will be made May 27 and 28 by Australian leader John Gorton, who has been invited by President Johnson. Gorton took office Jan. 10 after Harold Holt drowned.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

280 SCOUTS AWARDED QUEEN SCOUT HONORS

'You Strove to Live Up to the Ideals of Your Law'

"On my honor, I promise to do my best . . ."

"You will remember the time you strove to live up to all the noble ideals of this Law, Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes told 280 Scouts Thursday during the annual Queen Scout ceremony at Government House.

This was the 13th ceremony in the Rockland Avenue mansion and the last one to be presided over by Mr. Pearkes before his retirement.

Approximately 200 parents and officials of the scouting movement watched as the coveted award, the highest a Scout can earn, was presented.

"To do my duty to god and the Queen . . ."

"When the Queen, through me, congratulates you on your achievement, she is speaking for all the people of Canada added the lieutenant-governor.

There were seven boys from the 4th Vernon group; six more from Natal, the coal mining centre near the Alberta border.

They also came from Kamloops, Okanagan Valley, Lillooet and northern sections.

More than half came from mainland areas of Vancouver and the Fraser Valley.

"To help other people at all times . . ."

"This is the highlight of our years in Scouting. We have achieved the goals of our efforts and training," Queen Scout Charles Ian MacNeill of the 9th Garry Oak Troop said in his reply to the lieutenant-governor.

Reading the provincial commissioner's "charge" to the group was Gordon W. Crane of Vancouver.

All scouts who live outside of the capital region were billetted in Scout homes.

" . . . And to obey the Scout's Law."

CAESAR'S PIZZA
1819 Douglas 386-0373
AN APOLOGY
to the many customers we had to turn away last weekend, and to those whose telephone orders we had to decline. We were simply deluged with delivery orders and our little restaurant seats only 42 at a time.

The word is out that Caesar's is "in" and our reputation for making the finest pizza in Victoria is spreading. We are adding extra staff to serve you. So at lunch, supper, or after the show . . . come on over to Caesar's.

If you don't know us . . . we're the other place that serves pizza . . . the one that doesn't charge for delivery.

Sincerely,
Bill and Mickey Kinsella

HOW TO SAVE A MARRIAGE AND RUIN YOUR LIFE
Odeon Theatre

If this film has any kind of message, it is that the male of the species can reap all the bliss and benefit of married life without the licence, the ring or the worry.

Eli Wallach, the proprietor of a department store, is unhappy with his wife but overjoyed with his mistress, Anne Jackson, who is kind, considerate and affectionate.

When his friend, Dean Martin, hears that Wallach has a mistress, he decides that, if the affair can be broken up, a happier relationship with the wife will result.

Through a series of misapprehensions, Dean Martin surmises that Stella Stevens, an employee at the department store, is Wallach's mistress and tries to take her away from him.

Sure enough, Stevens falls for Martin. He tells her he can't marry her because of a vow he made to his dying first wife, who passed on before their marriage could be consummated.

Subsequently, Stevens discovers that Martin's story is false and decides on revenge. She pickets him with an informative sign outside his men's club until he agrees to pay rent and expenses.

Over-all, this is a lively comedy with some ingenious situations, but it could have been improved with a little judicious editing to reduce the running time and improve the pace.

The dialogue, by Stanley Shapiro and Nate Monaster, is good of its kind.

CHOSE RABBIT

DUNCAN ROUNDUP

School Superintendent Pleads 'Not Guilty'

DUNCAN — Cowichan schools superintendent Arthur Jones pleaded not guilty in court here Thursday to a charge of disturbing a high school class.

The charge has been laid under the Public Schools Act after information had been laid by former district teacher, Kenneth Hasanen.

The trial will be held before Magistrate Eric Winch on June 4.

The alleged classroom incident occurred last fall prior to Mr. Hasanen's dismissal by the school board for misconduct.

Mr. Jones will be defended by lawyer David Wright, and crown counsel is Thomas H. Lines.

LAKE COWICHAN — The village chamber of commerce learned this week from Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan of successful negotiations to acquire additional land, for a class A park in the area.

In a letter to chairman of the chamber's recreation committee, Mr. Kiernan said, "We realize that interest and demand for park facilities are growing rapidly in your area.

"You have on Cowichan Lake the raw material for an outstanding recreation area.

"We anticipate full co-operation from B.C. Forest Products Ltd. when we are in a position to arrange for access."

"We are fully aware of the potential on Cowichan Lake and action on this prospect will be taken as soon as possible."

* * *

DUNCAN — A previous winner is coming from Cache Creek to compete Saturday in the Vancouver Island plowing championship.

Whaley Mar won the title two years ago and will be "in the field" again when the championship is contested at Riverside Farm, Cowichan Bay.

Also entered are his two brothers, Doug and Jim, from Saanich.

He won the provincial crown at Chilliwack earlier this month but because he is only 19 years of age is ineligible for the national competition. The age limit is 21.

Saturday's events, sponsored by the Cowichan Plowing Association, start at 9 a.m.

* * *

DUNCAN — Ald. James Saunders has reported to Cowichan Regional District Board the possibility of establishing incinerators for garbage disposal.

He said he understood from North Cowichan municipality it might be possible to obtain small incinerators at an approximate cost of $10,000 each.

Ald. Saunders said three such incinerators strategically placed could serve the entire regional district from Ladysmith to the Malahat.

However, he said his committee is also to investigate the garbage disposal setup in the Greater Victoria area, and also the possible acquitition of a burner presently being used by Hillcrest Lumber Co., Mesachie Lake, which is expected to close down in September.

* * *

LAKE COWICHAN — Henry Lundgren has made an appeal for the centennial celebrations of the past two years to be continued as an annual event.

Mr. Lundgren was chairman of the village celebrations committee and said Ken Irving and Gerry Salmon have volunteered to carry on in his place.

He has suggested June 21 to 23 be designated as Lake Cowichan celebrations weekend, and the village chamber of commerce has agreed to act as sponsors.

DUNCAN — Cowichan Indian band has decided to demolish the old agricultural hall at Government Street and Canada Avenue.

Abel Joe said Thursday, "It has been declared unsafe."

He announced a new July 20, 1971, deadline for the building of a $100,000 cultural hall which was to have been the band's 1967 centennial project.

Mr. Joe said his centennial committee has $6,088 in the bank and another $6,575 pledged.

He said, "The job does seem insurmountable but we ask our friends to leave their money in our trust until the project can be completed.

"We won't give up and I know we will succeed."

* * *

And this isn't a final figure.

The money has come from the people who sponsored the 170 entrants over the eight-mile course.

Since losing their previous meeting place the boys have been meeting at the homes of their parents.

Now the troop has a tentative offer of a hall from Crofton mill site and the $2,800 will be used to move it to Duncan and have it refitted.

RCAF Planes To Be Absent At Ceremony

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Air Force will not take part in the fly-past at a ceremony Sunday in Wittmundhaven, West Germany, markplayed host to a reunion of the death of Manfred von Richthofen, First World War German fighter ace, defence department officials said today.

Planes from the U.S., British, West German, French and Italian air forces are scheduled to participate in the air display.

Von Richthofen—The Red Baron—was believed to have been shot down by Canadian Capt. Roy Brown April 21, 1918. Brown, a native of Carleton Place, Ont., died in 1944 at the age of 50.

Officials here declined to give any reason for lack of Canadian participation, but it was believed to be political.

For one thing, Field Marshal Hermann Goering was a member of Richthofen's squadron. He was convicted as a war criminal after the Second World War and committed suicide.

In 1962, the RCAF wing at Baden-Soellingen, West Germany, played host to a reuinion of the Richthofen squadron without informing Ottawa and was later reprimanded for so doing.

Accused Left Without Paying For Room, Food

John MacNeil, 20, of 947 Meares, pleaded guilty Thursday to three charges of false pretenses.

Court was told MacNeil stayed at the Colony Motor Inn, 2852 Douglas, from April 4 to April 10.

Det. Smith said on March 9, MacNeil used a worthless cheque to obtain $5 worth of gas and $15 in cash from Quadra Mohawk, 2100 Quadra.

He said on Dec. 7, the accused used a worthless cheque to obtain $5.45 worth of gas from a Shell station at 1321 Yates St.

Court was told MacNeil was convicted in January of 1967 on seven counts of false pretenses and sentenced to one year.

MacNeil told the court he had phoned the hotel the day after he left to tell them he intended to make restitution.

Three Die In Alert Bay, Ganges Fires

Miss S. G. Birch, about 52, is believed to have crawled into her bathroom and closed the door, hoping to escape the smoke and flames.

She had first phoned a neighbor who called fire department. The brigade arrived about five minutes later from Ganges, three and a half miles away.

Fire chief Fred Donaghy said, "It would appear that she had been smoking" and that a smouldering cigarette in the chesterfield was the cause of the fire.

The accident happened Wednesday night. No estimate of damage was available.

Miss Birch came to Salt Spring Island about 15 years ago.

Two young relatives of Henry Hunt, chief carver at Victoria's Thunderbird Park, died Thursday in a fire which gutted a home on the Nimpkish Reserve at Alert Bay.

They are second cousins to the Victoria carver.

The Alert Bay volunteer fire department found the house engulfed in flames when they arrived.

Campbell River Chamber 'On Verge of Collapse'

By MORGAN MacGREGOR

CAMPBELL RIVER — The Campbell River Chamber of Commerce stands at the crossroads of its 23-year career. Members say that it either must pull itself together in the next five weeks or it could go under.

A sad commentary for a municipality considered to be the second fastest growing in the province. This problem comes at a time when businessmen are still recovering from municipal council's announcement last week that building permits are down more than a million dollars in the first three months of 1968 as compared to last year's figures.

Some businessmen believe that the boom which Campbell River has been riding for the past 10 years has certain ill ramifications, Don Elmore, publicity chairman of the chamber said.

"The chamber had its good days when up to 150 people used to attend meetings but those days are gone and so are many of the good men who worked so hard for it."

Of the 280 businesses only 51 are members of the chamber. At its last meeting the chamber had 38 people out, but half of them were wives and four were guests.

"We have got to have new people, new leaders, if we are to salvage anything," said Elmore, "and we don't know what to do."

The chamber faces a coming election and only this week was able to find enough members to put together a nominating committee.

"We spend time arguing over what color the dinner table cloth should be when we should be involved in planning. This is the mark of a loose organization," said Elmore.

He believes that the chamber is suffering from the stigma that it is only interested in tourism.

"We are going to have to get out and sell ourselves. The businessman who had it coming in his front door isn't going to find it so easy from now on.

"Our problem is really frightening because it goes hand in hand with public apathy. We have had it too good for too long.

"Can the good money days be blamed entirely when the Prince George chamber continues to function smoothly and efficiently? Prince George is the only area in B.C. which has grown faster in the last few years than Campbell River," he added.

Dug-Out Completed

TOFINO — A local man has built and launched a cedar dugout canoe.

Fred Thornberg, a Tofino craftsman, started construction of the 13-foot canoe on Long Beach last December.

After shaping it roughly at the beach, he brought it into Tofino and finished it in a shed belonging to Mrs. Betty Farmer. The vessel was recently launched at Storm Bay.

From a woodsman reader, a snort of derision at the request made by Langford Fire Chief Allan LeQuesne that the trail up Mount Finlayson be either put to rights or closed to hikers.

"Tell me," he challenged, "just how can any normally observant person get lost up there?"

Well, I don't know how people manage to get lost anywhere, but the fact remains that they do, woodsmen included. In this matter, I think Fire Chief LeQuesne deserves a hearing.

Mount Finlayson has managed to acquire a nasty little reputation for itself, especially in the last few years. Much of the trail is in bad shape, and certain stretches are downright dangerous—a fact that parents might keep in mind when their young announce that they're going up the mountain.

What signs there were have been largely obliterated by logging, fire, and downright vandalism, and it's all too easy for a hiker to stray on his way down from the summit.

Chief LeQuesne and his men have been in on any number of difficult and time-consuming rescues. Their most recent began last Christmas Eve, and ended at 9 a.m. Christmas morning with a young exposure victim brought safe down on a stretcher.

"What we worry about most," the fire chief tells me, "is that someone is going to go over a cliff and get killed up there."

South Vancouver Island Rangers once did considerable maintenance work on the trail, and a few years ago, the parks branch negotiated with a view to buying the privately-owned hill.

Cost was too high for the budget, however. The deal with the two owners, one of them a woman now living in New Zealand, fell through.

With a wide, well-marked trail put in, this close-to-home hike would be a dandy. But the fact of private ownership bars the parks branch from such action.

Complaints from readers who have received unsolicited merchandise in the mail continue to reach me.

Latest of these comes from Vancouver, where pensioner Len Scott finds himself in possession of a number of stamp packets which he can't afford to purchase. These were sent by a State of Maine supplier, along with the single 10-cent pack ordered.

"I do not collect or save stamps for myself," Mr. Scott writes, "but when I get a bunch, I mail them to Victoria SPCA, as I read they were asking for used stamps of any kind, which they sell for funds to be used in their work."

Along with sympathy, a post office spokesman offers this advice to former Victorian Scott:

"It isn't necessary to pay for the extra stamps, since you did not ask that they be mailed to you. Keep the package you want, and send the others back."

Since Mr. Scott opened the package, he is required to pay return postage, and that hurts. (The unopened, unsolicited item may be returned at the sender's cost.)

This dumping of unordered merchandise is a mean little racket, and I think it's high time the postal authorities cracked down on it.

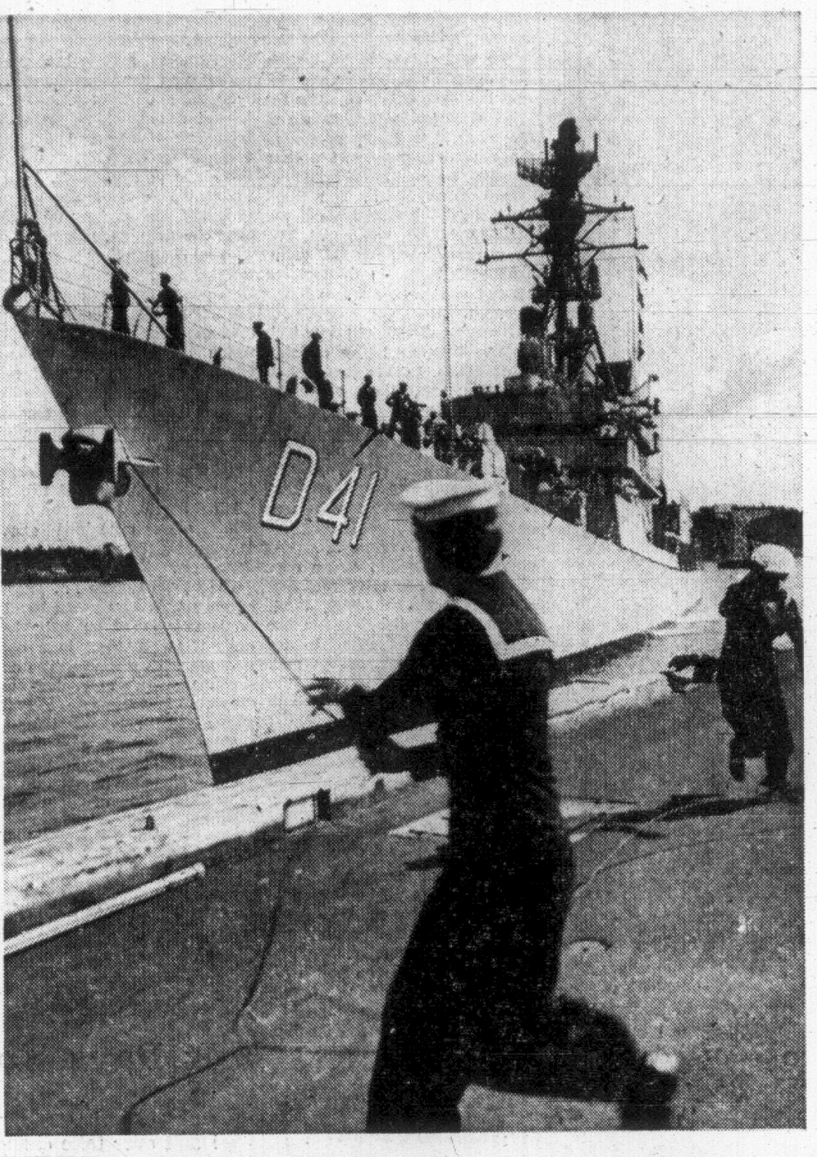
After Bastion Theatre's murderous attack on Brendan Behan's 'The Hostage,' we vowed never again to risk an evening at the McPherson with guests. But we did want to see how the spine-tingling Henry James short story, "The Turn of the Screw," translates into play form, so took ourselves to the Mac last night with friends from the mainland.

Bastion redeems itself with "The Innocents." For a thoroughly eerie evening, the tale-turned-play is hard to beat.

Determined symbolists have tried to inject Freudian undertones into the story of a governess who struggles to save two children from the powers of evil. Happily, the playright (William Archibald) doesn't dilute his borrowed ingredients.

His ghosts . . . who really should be allowed a curtain as rate a curtain call as shadows behind those wide glass doors . . . are almost too convincing.



HOLD ON I'LL PULL YOU IN . . . member of the Royal Canadian Navy docking party appears to tow by bow line the 4,500-ton Australian guided missile destroyer HMAS Brisbane to the jetty at HMC Dockyard this morning. The three-day visit to Victoria is first recreational stop for crew, whose ages average 21 years. (Bill Halkett photos.)

THREE-DAY VISIT

Sleek Destroyer Glides Into Port

To the strains of Waltzing Matilda, the Australian guided-missile destroyer HMAS Brisbane glided into sunny Esquimalt Harbor today and tied up at A jetty, HMC Dockyard, sharp at 9 a.m.

The 4,500-ton destroyer was built for the Royal Australian Navy at a cost of $45,000,000 (Australian) by a U.S. firm and commissioned at Boston, Mass., last Dec. 16.

As the sleek grey ship approached the dockside, the Naden band struck into the Australian folk song Waltzing Matilda and followed it with a brassy swing version of St. Louis Blues.

"That's a fine band you have," said Capt. Alan A. Willis, commander of the 437-foot Brisbane. "I hope our officers and crew will meet as many Canadians as possible because I don't think we shall be back in Canadian waters for some time."

Visiting Canada for the first time, Capt. Willis called on Rear-Admiral J. A. Charles. Pacific Maritime Commander, at Admiral's House at 10 a.m.

The Brisbane will be open to the public from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. She leaves here Monday at 9 a.m. for visits to San Francisco and San Diego.

ENGLISH, SCOTS

Capt. Willis revealed that at least 50 members of his crew of 333 are English and Scots who have migrated to Australia over the past 10 years.

"We haven't yet been able to give them a trip back," he smiled.

There is no rum ration in the Royal Australian Navy, but officers have the use of a bar when not on operational duty, and a beer ration is issued to the men.

Capt. Willis said new ships and aircraft will continue to build up Australia's defences.

"Australian guided - missile destroyers, similar to the Brisbane, have been in action in Vietnamese waters with units of the U.S. Seventh Fleet," he said.

"Nine of our ships saw service in the Korean war. Althouth our navy is relatively small, we are proud of our modern equipment, versatility and mobility."

NO CANADIAN RATS are wanted aboard the Australian guided missile destroyer HMAS Brisbane. The ship's rat shield was the first piece of equipment attached when the ship secured at HMC Dockyard this morning, and was welcomed by the Naden Band.

GOVERNMENT ST. CLOSED ON SUNDAY

Government Street between Fort and Humboldt will be closed to all traffic on Sunday.

The closure, to clear the way for the repaving of Government, will be in effect from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Traffic engineer Dave Campbell today asked for the co-operation of all motorists normally using the street to find alternative routes.

Should Sunday prove to be a rainy day the paving program and the closure will be delayed for one week.

CURTAIL SOME OPERATIONS

Parochial School System 'Will Operate Next Year'

The Roman Catholic school system in Greater Victoria will continue operating and will have the same number of children in it next year as this, Monsignor Michael O'Connell said today.

"But it is possible certain classrooms in certain schools will be closed in the hope of more efficient and more economical operation," he added.

Msgr. O'Connell was elaborating on a Times story Thursday which detailed the increasing financial problems facing the separate school system.

STILL TRYING

A fund drive is still under way to finance a major renovation of St. Louis College and addition of a gymnasium and library for the boy's high school. The St. Louis program is an alternative to a more costly plan for a co-educational high school on the grounds of St. Ann's Academy which had to be abandoned.

Msgr. O'Connell said he has written Peter Bunn, chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, assuring him the public school board would be kept informed and every effort would be made to avoid complicating the problems already faced by the public school system.

Thursday's story developed from a proposal to close Sacred Heart elementary school for financial reasons.

Rory Finegan, president of the parent-teacher organization there, said today parents of school children there indicated by a show of hands at a meeting last month they were all in favor of keeping the school going.

But a later vote by members of the parish was about two-to-one for closing the school because of the growing financial burden.

Parochial schools receive no government grants but are financed by the parish and its members.

THREE-QUARTERS

In the case of Sacred Heart, said Mr. Finegan, parents of children at the school pay three-quarters of the school's operating costs, the balance being provided by a parish grant.

The grant amounted to about $4,000 for the current school year but there were indications soaring costs would push the need to about $12,000.

It was decided this week that the separate school boards should amalgamate under a regional board which will try to institute economies and improve efficiency.

MONDAY MEMO TO MR. T.

After the Gulps and Silence, A Few Priority Suggestions

By JIM HUME

Hold the phone Pierre Elliott T.

The people of Victoria have a few ideas for you to incorporate in your list of priorities after you take over Monday as Prime Minister Trudeau.

Not many ideas, its's true, because the Times telephone survey of city residents this morning drew mostly heavy gulps and long periods of silence when we asked for a No. 1 problem to be solved.

But enough to show that a few people out here are thinking.

"It has to rate as one of the most critical problems in Canada," is the way he puts it.

Esquimalt's Ellen McCoy doesn't agree.

"Let him cancel the suggestion that a couple of navy ships be crewed entirely by French - speaking Canadians. If he doesn't he's going to split the armed forces as well as the country."

Waldo Skillings, Social Credit MLA for Victoria, wonders if Peirre Elliott has the ability to complete the first big job facing him within the Liberal party.

"I'm just back from the East and I'm telling you that party is in chaos," said the vociferous Socred party whip.

On the national priority list?

"That has to be a balanced budget."

For Sonia Croucher, 1051 Hampshire, a balanced budget has to be number one item on the Trudeau priority list.

She has some backing from University of Victoria political scientist Richard Power.

"Fiscal policy then foreign policy in that order," is his "off the top of my head" order of importance.

For Ald. Edith Gunning of Saanich, there are three major problems to be faced immediately.

"Urban development with particular attention to transportation, active research to find ways of controlling pollution with special emphasis on sewage disposal, and means of curbing excessive profits from land speculation."

Mrs. Harold Foster, 1604-45 Dallas: "I haven't thought about what his first job should be but Quebec is quite important."

Art Burgess, 880 Courtney: "Come to terms with the dollar problem and reconcile French and English Canada."

Ald. Ian Stewart, who fought hard and long for John Turner at the leadership convention, admitted the question of priorities is "a tough one, but . . ."

"The constitution, not only as it affects Quebec but as it affects the entire country. There possibly has to be some reorganization of power in Canada.

"The entire field of urban problems including housing, transportation and financing. The country needs a minister of urban affairs with the sole responsibility of how to mount the attack.

"Take a hard look at the role Canada must play in the Pacific market. And get on with the job of promoting external trade from the Pacific Coast."

That's the list Mr. Prime Minister elect.

Oh, just one last item from Ald. Stewart: "How about a haircut?"

PIERRE TRUDEAU
. . . 'and a haircut?"

'Urgent Need For Trailer, Tent Courts'

The south end of Vancouver Island needs four more tent and trailer courts to be able to meet summer peak demands.

The statement is made in a special report published this week by the Capital Region Planning Board.

Planning director A. H. Roberts says in the report that a survey made last summer showed a deficiency of between 100 and 150 spaces for trailer accommodation.

On the average summer night during peak periods there were around 440 trailers in the area. The 100 to 150 unable to find space presumably moved to other areas or parked overnight on secondary roads.

FOUR AREAS

Mr. Roberts listed four general areas where trailer courts are urgently required:

● The East Saanich (Tsawout) Indian Reserve where there is an excellent location for a low-density camp site with enough tree cover to hide the site from the highway.

● An area slightly south of Brentwood where wooded acreage exists close to boat launching and fishing facilities.

● The West Saanich Road within walking distance of Prospect Lake Park. The area has some tree cover and piped water.

● A small area west of Langford Lake to complement the government facilities at Goldstream Park.

While urging rural and unorganized municipalities to consider rezoning certain areas to assist trailer court locations, Mr. Roberts warns that strict supervision must be made of facilities installed.

He also noted that most trailer campers are seeking fairly cheap accommodation.

During last summer's survey he stated that 13 per cent of the trailer-towers were looking for free overnight accommodation, 22 per cent were seeking a one-night stay for a dollar and 15 per cent had $2 as their top price.

CAR OWNER LIST SUPPLIED

'People Resent' Selling of Names

The selling of information by a British Columbia government department to a private company was severely criticized today.

"I don't think this is a very ethical practice and I am surprised a government would do this sort of thing," said Larry Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labour Council.

He was commenting on the disclosure that information on car registrations is sold by the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch to a Toronto market research company for about $15,000 a year.

The practice was defended by branch superintendent Ray Hadfield who called it "legitimate" and the price a fair one.

"Many people resent the fact that a subscription to a magazine or newspaper is sold behind our backs," said Mr. Ryan.

"It is bad enough to go along with it in the publishing industry but the idea of government departments doing this is uncalled for.

"The great fear of people of this time, and a proper fear, is 1984.

"It's an Orwellian trend in our society and government should be aloof to this. It is bad enough in the business world."

Mr. Ryan said the government is "overstepping its jurisdiction" and all citizens should take note.

The labor council will "consider this very seriously" at future meetings.

All government departments have confidential information about citizens and he asked "are we going to allow a proliferation?"

Some people—he mentioned the insurance industry—would have a "vested interest" in finding out advantageous information from, for example, the health department and B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

'Essential Economic Facts'

Mr. Hadfield said the lists of car owners and their cars provide essential economic research facts for not only the automobile industry in planning markets for vehicle parts but also for planning by municipalities and other agencies.

Mr. Hadfield said the price scale of one cent per name is a common one in selling such lists.

"We feel we're very adequately compensated for what we do," he said.

Asked about the reported Alberta plan to make the statistics available to more than one firm, Mr. Hadfield said that such a move has not been considered here.

A second firm did try to obtain the lists here, he said, but the department felt the firm should make a "business arrangement" with the Toronto firm, R. L. Polk, which had bought the list.

"We don't want to be glueing up our system," said Mr. Hadfield, pointing out that the Toronto firm maintains some control of the information by contracting to print envelopes for other firms but keeping possession of the central list.

"This advertising listing business is a pretty rough field," he said, suggesting some firms might not be aware of what they would be getting into by paying large sums for bulk lists that need extensive computer processing before being commercially valuable.

Fine Reduced For Uvic Student

A University of Victoria student was fined $250 and had his licence suspended by Magistrate Ostler today for impaired driving.

Barry McLean, 18, of 1353 Pandora, was involved in an accident Tuesday at Fort and Douglas street and pleaded guilty.

The magistrate reduced the fine from $350 when he learned the youth was paying his way through school on what he could earn in the summer.

Major Changes Again Made In Saanich Animals Bylaw

A drastically-revised animals bylaw in Saanich will be recommended to the May 6 council meeting.

Changes to the existing bylaw follow three major meetings by the lands and planning committee last year and two meetings this year.

The recommendation to send the draft to council was made Thursday by the committee. Chairman Ald. Edith Gunning also said the draft will be considered by the municipal solicitor.

One of the changes would introduce a limitation on the number of cats and dogs which can be kept in a house. At present there is no restriction.

Earlier recommendations that a limit of five cats and five dogs be introduced were tightened Thursday to reducing this to three dogs over the age of six months. For the fourth and fifth dogs, a permit is necessary. Beyond five dogs will require a commercial kennel licence and zoning.

The limitation on cats is five over the age of four months. A permit will be necessary to keep more than five cats.

The committee agreed last year to reconsider a proposed $24 licence fee for unspayed female dogs. This now has been reduced to $15 in the final recommendation.

Last year the committee recommended a system of dog ticketing be established with a warning at first and then progressive fines. Operation of such a system would be like traffic tickets with a fine being paid but the dog not impounded.

Ald. Gunning said the committee will recommend the solicitor investigate the possibility of a dog ticketing clause in the animals bylaw.

Saanich decided to revamp its animals bylaw last year chiefly with a view to controlling the problem of roaming dogs.

East and West Meet In Penny's Kitchen

By PENNY SAVER

"East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet." But they did a pretty good job recently in my kitchen. I have just made the acquaintance of a line of Japanese foods and find them a wonderful addition to my Western dishes.

Perhaps it's my fault that I have never used fried rice or chow mein as a vegetable with roast beef, but I always felt that Oriental dishes belonged in an Oriental dinner. Imagine my surprise when I found these Japanese products advertising their use in Western recipes. I left my family munching on rice crackers made of rice and soy sauce, and went to prepare some Chicken Teriyaki. These crackers, by the way, are 59 cents a bag. Some are rolled around seaweed while others are plain or have flecks of seaweed baked in.

Chicken Teriyaki is one of several recipes I got on a sheet with the new kind of soy sauce I am trying. It has been a great success with our family. The plain soy sauce comes in three sizes, a six-ounce size for 35 cents, a 12-ounce size for 55 cents and a gallon for $3.95. This plain sauce comes in three variations, each just a bit different for a varied effect. These are Hawaiian Teriyaki, the one I used to make my chicken dish; Teriyaki barbecue marinade and Sukiyaki sauce. These sauces are just the thing for seasoning a roast, meat loaves and hamburger patties, fish, eggs, stews, gravies and of course the rice and noodle dishes associated with the East.

These Noodles Are Real Find

Quick-cooking noodles made with sesame oil and spices are going to find their way into my casseroles soon. These noodles are 25 cents a three-ounce bag while fried noodles—Japanese style—are 55 cents a seven-ounce bag. The idea of spicing the basic noodle recipe to give it more flavor intrigues me no end.

My noodle casserole will be a meeting of East and West, but I think I can sneak in a can of Japanese canned vegetables. One 35-cent, seven-ounce can I was looking at was a mixture of radishes, eggplant, beefsteak plant, lotus rhizome, ginger, red pepper, mushroom and soy. How fascinating! I had never heard of beefsteak plant before.

And someday, when I am making a rice dish, I may get the courage to slip in some Japanese seaweed. I have heard that it is remarkably nourishing, and as the world food problem threatens to send us to the sea for more and more of our food, I should get my family used to such exotica now. A 6½-ounce jar of seaweed is 69 cents. The label says it tastes best with hot rice. Since they haven't objected to the seaweed in the crackers, perhaps my family will take kindly to their new "vegetable."

Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like to know where I found these Japanese foods.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

The current vogue for longer-than-ever nails seems to be stronger than ever. To stem the tidal wave of questions about the care and maintenance of these hand enhancers, here are some up-to-the-minute how-to's:

Do-It-Yourself . . . You won't have to rely on false nails if you prepare to be "square." The "best-dressed" nails of today are squarishly oval—not for appearance alone, but for strength.

Overly oval nails not only look fragile—they are! The delicate point tends to break off and there you are—minus where the plus was!

The secret is to follow the shape of the base of your nail. File them ever-so-gently in one direction only with the smoother side of a well-worn emery board.

Strongest Solution . . . For ultimate protection, add a coat of nail hardener after applying an initial coat of clear base. Allow ample time for these preparatory applications to dry before using your nail enamel. And don't forget to coat the under-tip of each nail with both base and hardener. If you must do a repair job on a minor crack (not a break) use nail fix with a bit of thin paper after the base coat and before the hardener.

Heart-Breaking Breakage . . . "Just one break" can be disheartening, but it needn't be so drastic that you're driven to cut the rest of your nails down to matching size. Repair the damage professionally.

Next, cut a strip from a fine linen hankie, a little longer and wider than the wounded nail.

Squeeze a bit of glue—either the kind used for glueing on false nails or a heavy-duty contact cement—on to both linen and nail surfaces. Wait a few minutes until the glue is tacky. Then place the patch over the damage, smooth it out with an orangewood stick and, if necessary, remove excess glue with polish remover.

To provide a smooth edge, tuck the overlapping part of the patch cleanly under the nail wherever possible, or, if near the base, carefully snip off excess with a cuticle scissors.

You now have a fresh surface for applying your base coat, nail hardener and polish in normal fashion. You may still use the "nail fix" plus paper for added security as explained above. Allow extra time for this type of manicure.

The Girdle Hurdle . . . There's no guarantee that you'll be able to keep your fabulously long nails if you engage in a daily struggle with a girdle. The only surefire way to solve this dilemma is to choose a girdle with a zipper.

Also be wary about your choice of a bathing suit. Many are so skin-fitting you practically need a pair of pliers to get them on.

THE NEW YOU who works diligently on this special facet of femininity will glamorize her hands—by a length!

Just for You: Keep your nails longer by using a pencil or appropriate gadget for dialing; your knuckles for ringing doorbells; the side of your hand for flicking light switches. Slide cards, pins, etc., off a table instead of picking them up with your nails. Use a letter opener for opening letters and a sharp instrument for boxes of cereal, sealed packages and the like.

Mrs. William (Hedy) Scott, originator of jewelry by Hedy Hill of Canada, makes minor repairs to a piece in her collection. Though she has sold the company she started 16 years ago, Mrs. Scott, who lives at 1062 Newport Avenue, still designs for the firm.

Woman Designer Elevated Stones To High Style in Jewelry Field

By ELIZABETH BENNETT

Not that she does much now. She has sold the business that made her famous from coast to coast and has become as she puts it, a lady of leisure.

"It will always be a hobby with me," says Mrs. William Scott. "I don't draw jewelry beforehand any more. I work with the material, a stone, a mood. It is less frustrating."

Known to lovers of jewelry as Hedy Hill of Canada, Mrs. Scott takes most of her forms from nature. The soft shapes of leaves appear again and again.

"All my jewelry is made of copper plated with silver or gold. This is then oxidized. The surface is guaranteed not to tarnish or peel off.

DOESN'T DATE

"The beautiful thing about my jewelry is that in 10 or 15 years it is still as attractive and good-looking as today. Nothing changes and since it is very basic, the style will still be good when you are already very tired of it."

The oxidizing leaves the metal black. This black coating is brushed off leaving the metal satiny or gold or silver shading through to the oxide color.

Mrs. Scott finds this finish attractive because "the workmanship has to be superior in a dull piece to make it come out." It also means that each piece must be hand-finished. She is very much against the machine-made sameness of most jewelry in the same price range.

DIFFERENT LOOK

Most of Mrs. Scott's pieces are built up from pre-cut designs "The original piece is hand-made I take a machine-cut base and put on different leaves. Then I co-ordinate the stone. Most of the time the leaf comes over the base to give it a more airy look."

She also builds pieces by putting several leaf shapes together.

It is the stone—often a gem stone—that finally gives each piece its individuality as the basic piece must be altered to fit each individual stone.

"I was a great deal responsible for bringing Canadian gem stones into the orbit of costume jewelry," Mrs. Scott remembers. "I came first to Jasper for jasper, a pink stone to put on maple leaves. I also used Fraser valley jade, sodalite and amazonite from Ontario, and gold stone."

Hedy Hill jewelry does not confine itself to gem stones however. Various synthetic gems glitter among the curled leaves of pins, rings and necklaces.

One is rainbow stone, which Mrs. Scott makes herself. It's made of pieces of gemstone, silver shaving, or turquoise embedded in lucite.

Many of her pieces display what Mrs. Scott calls iridescent stone, which is burned glass moulded into patterns, or vitreal, glass with layers of color painted on the back. Both change color the way an opal does.

LOOKS LIKE GOLD

An experiment that adds interest to Hedy Hill jewelry is dripped pewter dipped in gold. This yields a "stone" that closely resembles a nugget of gold.

Mrs. Scott came into the jewelry business by chance.

Born in Austria, she studied design at the School of Fine Arts in Vienna and later, in France. At this time she was concerned with fashion.

Her first contact with jewelry came in Italy, where she learned filigree work. When she was in Egypt, Mrs. Scott studied the techniques of making scarab and Oriental jewelry.

It was only after she came to Canada 16 years ago, however, that she took up making jewelry as a profession.

"I have lost everything in my life three times, in Austria under Hitler, in England and in Egypt. When I came to Canada I had two sons and a mother to look after and no money.

SOLD TO NEIGHBORS

"A friend, a Canadian lady who had been very hospitable, admired a pin and earring set I wore. Since she was the first one I knew here I made her a set. All the neighbors wanted some.

"I started selling jewelry door to door, then store to store, then coast to coast. Now I even export."

Although Mrs. Scott has sold Hedy Hill of Canada, even to the name, she still designs for the company. "Soon I will be going to Toronto to bring out the fall fashions. We must work several seasons ahead," she explains.

She has no equipment here, especially as "some of the chemicals are very dangerous." Most of her energy is now concentrated on being Mrs. William Scott.

DEAR ABBY . . .

May Catch You Napping

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I haven't been able to sleep very well lately. You see, I cheated a little on my income tax. (Deductions.) Any suggestions?

SOL

DEAR SOL: Send the internal revenue department a check for $100. And if you still can't sleep, send the balance.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished crying my eyes out over something that is not my fault. A very nice boy from school started dating me and I was on cloud nine. I was never popular, and he was like an answer to my prayers.

Well, he just called me up and told me he couldn't date me anymore because his parents have forbidden him to. The reason was they heard that my older sister had a baby out of wedlock. (She did, but Abby, I have never done one thing out of the way, so why should I have to suffer for something my sister did?) I have even had girl friends tell me they couldn't go around with me anymore because of my sister's reputation.

I am not like my sister, and don't see why people should hold this against me. How can I prove that I am a "nice" girl when I have this against me?

"MARKED" IN SCRANTON

DEAR MARKED: Don't try to "prove" anything. People who are not willing to judge you on your own record are not worth having as friends.

DEAR ABBY: Some new neighbors moved into our area, and we share a two-party line. Abby, this woman speaks as good English as I, because I have heard her, but when she talks on the phone she always speaks a foreign language. I consider this an insult to me. What do you think of a neighbor like this?

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: She's smart. She speaks a foreign language because she suspects that someone may be listening. And she is obviously right.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to say something to "A Father," who thinks children ought to be fed first so he and his wife can have a nice quiet dinner after he has put in a hard day's work.

Who, may I ask, is going to prepare two meals—one for the children and another one, later, for the Lord and Master? The cook? Sorry, we don't have one.

And who is going to look after the children while father and mother are enjoying their peaceful meal without children fighting and screaming? The nursemaid? Sorry, we don't have one of those either. Besides, if the kids are by themselves, Mother will probably have to get up and referee.

Separate meals may work in somebody else's house, but not in ours. We all eat together. It's not always quiet and peaceful, but somehow we'll manage to live through it.

OHIO MOTHER

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WOLF ROCKED IN TRACKS

HUE, South Vietnam (AP) — "Wheet whheww!" came the familiar wolf whistle.

The attractive young lady concerned, however, had a really different stopper: she walked over to the admiring U.S. soldier and informed him she was a Roman Catholic nun.

"He stopped cold in his tracks," she said in recounting the story. "His face turned red and he just didn't know what to say."

Five of the 18 Catholic sisters scattered across South Vietnam as volunteers to do medical and social work are serving at Hue, Vietnam's old imperial capital along the northern sea coast, now in ruins from the Tet offensive.

The modified habits the sisters wear—four blue, the other grey—have shorter skirts and little semblance to the older-style nun's garb. All the sisters are attractive.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Scaly, Dry Skin May Be Due to Vitamin Deficiency

Q. Do you have exercise classes and how can I join one if you do?

A. Many readers ask this question. No, I am sorry to say that I do not have classes at this time. I miss teaching but my column and the letters I receive from readers leave no time for classes.

Lowman

Q. I am a 14-year-old girl and I have a very dry skin. It is so dry that I have small pimples on my legs and arms, and the skin on my face and arms and hands and eyelids is scaly. I am embarrassed because all of my friends have nice smooth skin. What should I do?

A. Skin such as you describe can be due to a vitamin deficiency. Do you eat correctly? I think you should discuss this with your doctor because this kind of epidermis is not normal, especially for one your age.

Q. Please tell me which you think is more effective for dryness and wrinkles, lanolin or one of the various creams which have moisturizing elements and oils.

A. One of the creams.

Q. I am a nervous wreck! I have been following your diet and I thought that tbs. meant tablespoon, as did tbsp. Now a friend tells me that tbs. means teaspoon. If so I haven't been following the diet correctly.

A. No, your friend is wrong. Tbs. means tablespoon. Your troubles are over!

Q. Some time ago you published an exercise in the paper for developing the calves. I have done this exercise for several months and my calves have developed very nicely. Can you give an exercise for developing thin ankles or will this be accomplished by continuing to use the same exercise?

A. The exercise for the calves will also help develop the ankles. Continue doing the one where you rise high on your toes and then lower heels to the floor and also do the following one.

Sit on the edge of a chair. Straighten your legs out in front of you, heels resting on the floor. Turn your feet in, trying to touch the soles of the feet. Now turn the feet out. Continue, slowly.

UP OR DOWN—WHO KNOWS?

FLORENCE (AP) — The skirt-length battle was still undecided as the showing of Italian lines for fall and winter ended in Florence today. Fifty-nine houses have fought it out on the Pitti Palace runway, and everything goes, from long bare legs to covered calves.

The boutique houses were mad about maxis. The knitwear houses were a little more cautious with only an occasional long skirt. The ready-to-wear lines from the couture houses were even less prepared to take risks; the maxi was in a definite minority.

The 1930s theme has been given a good second inning. Fox furs, droopy dresses in draped crepe, floating scarves and platinum blonde hair were copied straight from the Hollywood sketchbooks of 30 years ago.

Belted coats were a constant in all collections. Double-breasted styles are popular with tiny fitted tops buttoned up to neat band necklines, but revers are returning. Sleeves are set in and narrow. Below the waist, coats fan out in gentle flares, clever cuts, subtle seaming, bright metal buttons and plenty of pockets.

Suit jackets are long and lean and usually with belts. Skirts are shaped just off the straight but plenty of pleats are still around.

Classic tweeds are back, all the "well-bred" weaves and country club checks. Chalk-striped flannel in grey or navy is a favorite choice for sharply tailored suits cut on mannish lines.

Mayor Determined To Press Park Plan

Connected Capital Parks Under Study

A system of trails linking all regional parks on the Saanich Peninsula is now under study by the Capital Region Planning Board.

Tony Roberts, director, told a meeting of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association Thursday the board has now entered this phase of study in the development of regional parks.

The trails linking the parks would be mainly for walkers, riders and long-distance runners.

In the study, he said, the board was considering mainly the needs of people who walk for pleasure.

"In the past we have underestimated the number of people who walk for pleasure as a form of recreation," he said. "In the United States this form of recreation tops the list."

A survey conducted in the U.S. showed in the summer of 1966 there were 1.03 billion individual walking trips for pleasure, he pointed out.

Swimming and driving for pleasure placed second and third respectively, as popular forms of recreation.

"We haven't got the money to conduct a similar survey here but we are certain that on a per capita basis more people in this area walk for pleasure than in U.S. cities," he said.

He based his conclusion on a quick survey conducted in Oak Bay.

"We were amazed at the number of people who told us they walked for pleasure," he said. "So we are not dealing with a minority group when we talk of recreational facilities for them."

During a question period, Dr. Lewis Clark of the University of Victoria suggested the board consider establishing a trail linking Goldstream Park with Thetis Lake.

He also urged that swamp habitats be considered in the acquisition of lands for parks (Rithet swamp is an example), as these areas served their purpose in the conservation of plants and animal life.

The speaker stressed the importance of acquiring land for regional parks in view of the heavy influx of people expected in this area in the next few years.

Mayor Hugh Stephen said Thursday he is still going ahead with his proposal that the Regional District Board take over Thetis Lake Park.

He made the statement in light of objections voiced by Mayor Ray Bryant, Esquimalt, and Mayor James Cumming, North Saanich.

Both men, directors on the regional district board, stated they would fight the proposal although sympathizing with the city's position.

They both claimed that a takeover by the district was outside existing terms of reference.

"My feeling is that eventually the regional district is going to have to takeover Thetis Lake Park," the mayor said. "I think it would be wise to make that move now when it can purchase the park for a very nominal sum rather than wait for a few years when a new city council might well have a very different outlook."

Mayor Stephen said he did not see anything unusual about the proposal and the city's offer to continue to maintain the park for three years cleared up the present problem of maintenance.

"By asking for $100,000 for the park we are stating that we are prepared to transfer the park for a low price," he said. "And we would continue to maintain it until the present parks acquisition program is completed."

The mayor said he felt that before too long the regional board would be forced into its own maintenance program.

"You can't just keep on buying property for public use without providing some facilities and carrying out a maintenance program.

"Sooner or later, and I think sooner, the regional district will have to go into the maintenance business.

"I feel sure the regional board will be into that kind of program much sooner than some board members think."

★ ★ ★

Mayor Stephen stressed that he did not yet have the endorsation of his council to carry the proposal to the regional board.

"I have the support of a committee (comprised of five member of the nine-member council) and would hope for the support of full council," he said.

"And I think this should be said: If the regional district turns down the offer I cannot see the Victoria city council agreeing to spend large sums of money on capital improvements on a park lying outside the city's boundaries and used by the entire region.

"I feel sure council will just say "to heck with it' and spend as little on the park as possible."

If the district does agree to the purchase there is little doubt that the city will go ahead with proposed capital improvement projects which will see the construction of a small sewer system, new change and rest room facilities and improvements to the parking lot.

Cheers Greet Appeal For West Coast Park

Cheers and handclaps followed an appeal by Tony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, for government action to set aside the coastline from Bamfield to Port Renfrew as a natural park.

Mr. Roberts told the 600-member Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association Thursday that he knew members have been pressing the government for action on the matter.

"The coastline—the route of the old west coast trail — is one of the most beautiful natural areas on the Island," he said. "The trail should be redeveloped and eventually extended right through to Goldstream park."

The Boy Scout Association, the Victoria Outdoor Club, the Victoria Canoe Club and many other recreational organizations have repeatedly asked the government to set aside the coast, a half a mile in depth, as a park.

Logging companies are reported willing to relinquish their rights to the land, but as yet the government has taken no action.

The subject will be further discussed by a panel of speakers at a meeting of the Community Planning Association of Canada, Capital Region Branch, to be held at First United Church Thursday.

It will start at 8 p.m.

Speakers include Seymour Archibald, regional commissioner of the Islands Region, Boy Scouts; Brian Tobin, editor of the Victoria Daily Times; R. C. McMinn, University of Victoria biologist, and Bruce Scott, an authority on the west coast.

FOR THETIS HILLS

Bronze Plate Directory

A bronze directional marker to acquaint people with the peaks and hills surrounding Thetis Lake Park will be erected on top of Seymour Hill.

A beautiful native plant, now extinct on south Vancouver Island, will also be re-established in the natural recreation area.

These two projects were approved by members of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association Thursday.

Dr. Lewis Clark of the University of Victoria, said the marker would be placed on a stone base — subject to the approval of the city parks board.

A similar marker has been erected on top of Mount Douglas.

Dr. Clark also said the moccasin plant — a beautiful orchid with a bronze lip and golden petals, would be reintroduced in the park.

The flower once flourished in Pemberton Woods in the city at the turn of the century.

The specie was last seen four years ago at Spectacle Lake on the Malahat. The colony has since disappeared.

A specie of shooting star and the red-leaf saxifrage still to be seen on the Saanich peninsula, will be re-introduced at the same time, he said.

Several members at the meeting volunteered to grow the plants from seed.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The previous four columns have been written by James Jacoby to describe his new team. Today Jim goes one step further by asking his teammate Bobby Wolff to write about his favorite hand of all time.

Bobby writes, "I usually get into the bidding with two aces and five spades, but the unfavorable vulnerability and maybe a sudden burst of caution caused me to pass over South's heart opening. After North's three heart and South's four heart calls I expected to lead against a routine game contract, when much to my surprise North cue bid both diamonds and clubs and thereby carried South to a heart slam.

"It isn't often that I find myself on lead against a slam with two aces. It is even less frequent for me to decide not to lead either of them.

"Fortunately the bidding had proceeded slowly so that I had time to think over my lead while South was puzzling over his partner's six club call. It wasn't hard to decide against the club lead. North clearly had shown that he did not have any clubs. It also seemed pointless to lead a red card.

"The suit to attack was spades. North had bid just like a man with the king of spades. I couldn't get two tricks by leading my ace. Maybe an underlead would work. I led the four of spades. South pondered, played dummy's jack and went down one."

This happy ending reminds us of one of Oswald Jacoby's least happy hands. He also underled the ace of spades against a heart slam. Dummy held the queen; declarer the jack. After a low play from dummy, third hand played the 10 of spades instead of the king and declarer made an impossible slam.

I doubt (after many years in Real Estate), that there is another home, even remotely like it, that could be purchased for $46,500 with all the appointments offered here. Just read this, then call me for an appointment to view. (No drive-bys—no information). You'll love it!! There is a spacious living room overlooking a lovely garden, a large guest-size dining room, a cosy den with fireplace, a study with fireplace, a huge kitchen with big eating area. 5 large bedrooms. (2 with bathrooms en suite). There is a games room, a rumpus room with fireplace and additional kitchen for entertaining with stove and fridge included and door opening to the secluded large garden with an abundance of flowers, trees and lawns. This fine home, like an English country estate, was built to stand 100 years. Dble. garage. All this within 5 minutes to hospitals, stores and downtown, yet you may have to drive miles to find a home so completely "away from city noises." Ideal professional man's home. (A $20,000 mtge at 6¾ per cent may be assumed at $223 including taxes). If this is within your price bracket let me take you on a "surprise tour" (two hours notice required). FOR DAM BUSTERS

Cutback Jars Reunion Plans

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian "dam busters" who helped destroy two giant dams in Nazi Germany during the Second World War, say they have run into troubles with the defence department in Ottawa that may prevent them from attending the 25th anniversary reunion of the raid.

Thirty-one veterans of the famous 617 Squadron want to attend the May 17 reunion in London next month, but few can afford the fare.

Sqdn. Ldr. D. A. Bell of Toronto, co-ordinator of the Canadian contingent, says that as recently as January, the defence department offered to fly all the men and their wives to the reunion. But now, he says, it will accommodate only six.

"If the government had told us much earlier that there would only be six courtesy seats, we could have done something about it," he said.

The six courtesy seats will be made available on the Canadian Forces Yukon aircraft which flies twice a week from Trenton, Ont., to Lahr, West Germany. The Yukon can carry 130 passengers, and the veterans would be taken to London on a shuttle aircraft from Lahr.

HELPED BUST DAM

The members of 617 Squadron, whose exploits were celebrated in a book and film called Dam Busters, helped to deliver a major blow against the Nazi war machine when they breached the Moehne and Eder dams in the industrial Ruhr Valley.

Eight of the 19 Lancaster bombers which set out on the raid against the dams never came back. There were seven men in each, but only three were confirmed as prisoners of war.

The special five-ton blockbuster bombs used in the raid had to be dropped from exactly 60 feet above the surface of the reservoirs behind the dams if they were to explode in the right place.

This meant that the bombers had to be flown over the target at 250 miles an hour, 60 feet above the surface of the water and with spotlights switched on to ascertain the altitude. Altimeters were incapable of precisely registering an altitude of 60 feet.

Trustee Hits Militant Action By Teachers

The president of the B.C. School Trustees' Association rapped the knuckles of the province's teachers meeting in convention at Penticton Thursday.

In a personal statement sent to trustees throughout the province Frank Beinder said:

"I completely and emphatically reject the implication that British Columbia's education system is neglected and substandard."

Reacting to statements coming from the annual meeting of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, he said the variety of accusations and militant demands made it "difficult to differentiate between what is essential for the education of children and what is desirable in terms merely of the interest and welfare of teachers."

He suggested the classroom shortage is not as severe as "startling and emotional statements" imply.

School boards will be better off under financing legislation passed at the recent session and most will get more money from the government, he said. And the department of education has no more power over school budgets than it did before.

School boards have a duty to take a hard look at technical advances in the construction industry which could trim school costs.

B.C. is spending more on education than any other province in Canada and is one of only three spending at least a third of the total provincial budget on education, he said.

Following release of Mr. Beinder's statement, Peter Bunn, chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, said today, trustees and teachers cannot afford to wage war.

"We should be working as a team," he said. "We each have a job to do. I rather resent the attitude taken to suggest there are two camps.

"I'm not suggesting there never will be differences of opinion. Of course there will. I would hope these can be resolved."

"Mr. Bunn said he thought it was unfair to accuse teachers of being concerned with self-interest.

"I don't think this is true. The vast majority are concerned with educating young people to be able to adjust to a terribly complicated world.

"We can't have a first-rate education system where the two most important bodies are at loggerheads. There's got to be unified action."

Seedhouse Takes City Chess Title

For the first time in two years, Victoria has one chess champion.

Edward Seedhouse, 24, defeated Alan Lane in an adjourned game, then won the second with black pieces when Lane overstepped on time.

Lane had the title in 1964 and 1965 and the two shared the honor in 1967 when a five-game match failed to resolve a deadlock.

Following the two were James Hobson, Reginald Bennett, George Adlkirchner and Frank Hasse (tie), Alf Sheard, Archie Higgs, Leonard Hall, August Strodyk, Cliff Woodcock, Peter Grootendorst and Dr. A. J. Olson.

The regular summer ladder competition, open to members of the Victoria City Chess Club, will begin May 7. The club, located at Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street, is open every Tuesday night at 7:30.

80 Students Exchanging Ideas at Uvic

Eighty young scholars from across the provinces began exchanging ideas in a wide variety of interests at the University of Victoria today as the second annual humanities and science symposium got under way.

Students completing Grades 11 and 12 in B.C. were earlier invited by the university to submit a paper on a subject of their choice or examples of their work in the arts.

The best 28 of 163 papers submitted are being presented by their authors today and Saturday. In the discussion groups that will follow are 52 runners-up, attending as observers.

The university and IBM are paying travel expenses of the students.

SPECIAL TALKS

As well as hearing and discussing the papers, which touch on such subjects as existentialism and extrasensory perception, students and some of their teachers will hear four special lectures.

The opening address was delivered by Dr. Giovanni Costigan, professor of history at the University of Washington in Seattle. His topic was "a history of civilization as seen in one hour."

Tours of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, Legislative Buildings and Uvic's science department were arranged for this afternoon.

Tonight Dr. Auston Riddiford, head of the chemistry department, will speak on "Humor and Hoaxes in Science."

CONCERT HOAXERS PROVE A POINT

ZURICH Switzerland (UPI)—An audience of 2,000 music lovers sat enraptured while the brilliant Russian pianist played a concert of Beethoven, Prokofiev and Liszt. They broke into cheers and shouts of "encore" when he was finished.

Many thought they had never heard anything like it. A few moments later they found out how right they were.

★ ★ ★

While the audience was cheering, the impresario walked on stage and disclosed they had all been fooled by one of the most daring hoaxes on the modern concert stage.

The audience, which included Zurich's music critics, had come to the concert to hear Russian pianist Anton Sergeievich Tartarov play.

"He is no Russian, however, but your countryman, Jean-Jacque Hauser. And Beethoven's Sonata, Prokofiev's Toccata and Liszt's Variation he played for you just now were in reality his own compositions," he said.

When Hauser returned to the stage, still wearing the false moustache he had put on to fool the critics and music snobs who might have recognized him from previous concerts, the audience swallowed its pride and applauded wildly.

Keller said he and Hauser decided on the gag because a young pianist has little chance to make a name for himself in Switzerland these days, Hauser, 35, runs a piano school in Bellinzona with his wife Marsa.

"I invented Tartarov to give Hauser an audience free of prejudices," Keller said. The critics, perhaps red-faced after the concert, failed to mention they fell for the hoax. They said Hauser's performance was "good . . . (but) . . . not quite concert quality."

HOME GARDEN

Pamper Those Favorites

By HILDA BEASTALL

When starting a garden in a geographic area new to us, our first thought is usually of growing some of the plants already familiar in a previous environment.

This is a natural reaction and the reason why this column is glad to help newcomers grow some of their favorites if it is at all possible in local conditions.

Hilda

Semi-tropical, heat-loving annuals do well in the short, hot seasons on the eastern side of the Rockies, and in the longer warm summers farther to our south, but here they require extra attention if they are to have a 50-50 chance of success.

Three popular, very colorful annuals are celosia, known as Cockscomb, Chinese Woolflower and Crested-feather; kochia, called Summer-cypress, Burning-bush and Mexican Firebush; and amaranthus which is also known as St. Joseph's coat and Summer poinsettia.

The common names of these three plants indicate the vivid foliage colorings for which they are famed, and by the same token is indicated their need for quick growth in hot sunshine.

Here in Victoria and similar areas, the seed of these three heat-loving annuals can be sown indoors this weekend. Sow in a mixture of fine sand and peat moss so that drying out is avoided.

After germination, bring the seedlings along in warmth, 60 to 65 deg. F. and good light. Just as soon as they can be held in the fingers, move them into small peat pots.

Soil composed of screened compost, a little old manure and some rather coarse sand will be suitable to encourage quick growth during the few weeks indoors until it is safe to plant these into the garden.

By early June, they must be gradually acclimatized to garden conditions by setting them daily in a sunny place outdoors and taking in at night until temperatures rise enough to be safe for them.

YOUR HEALTH

Fatigue Can Prove Puzzling

By DR. ALVAREZ

One of the most challenging problems a physician sometimes has to face is, what is wrong with the patient who complains of being tired all the time. The doctor will want to know, of course, how long the sensation of fatigue has been present, and he will take into consideration the age of the person. Chronic fatigue in an older person is more likely to have a physical cause than in a younger person.

Alvarez

Some people speak of a good fatigue and a bad fatigue — an honestly-acquired fatigue (by hard work), or a fatigue that comes in the early morning without known cause (often then due to a depression). Naturally, the physician will want to know how hard the patient's work is, and whether before falling ill he or she had extra strain, or extra hours of work. For instance, a woman who complained of being very tired, on being questioned about this, said her fatigue had followed seven awful weeks in which three of her children with whooping cough had kept waking her every hour every night.

* * *

Naturally, the physician will make a careful physical examination and will have the necessary X-ray studies of the thorax, the stomach and the colon. He will order made essential laboratory studies, sufficient to rule out disease in the blood, the liver and the kidneys.

The problem is often particularly difficult in the cases of older persons, because we don't know if they are just growing old, or are getting some serious arterial heart or kidney disease, or have gotten a cancer, or with a narrowing of an artery in the brain, an important part of the brain is not getting enough blood.

A young person with a short history of fatigue may have perhaps a beginning infectious mononucleosis — a common disease of college students, which fortunately, in most cases, soon clears up. Also, more rarely, the person can have an infectious hepatitis without the usual jaundice. That disease will also soon clear away.

* * *

Some people are born to be tired much of the time and some who are tired have a life problem that is wearing them down — perhaps a difficult boss at the office. Always, of course, as I said, the person with a serious problem of chronic fatigue must have a good general examination.

A man at 50 — a heavy cigarette smoker, who suddenly becomes very tired and short of breath may be developing a severe emphysema, a disease of the lungs. To see if a man has heart disease, I find it most helpful to ask him if he can walk rapidly for two or three blocks. If he says he can, I am sure he hasn't a very bad heart. If he can sleep all night without getting up to urinate, he probably has good kidneys. If, at 60, he can quickly start urination, he probably hasn't a bad prostate gland.

If a business or professional man is tired after luncheon, I ask him how many cocktails he takes with the meal. Two or three cocktails can make a man tired and sleepy for several hours. Occasionally, one will learn, perhaps from relatives, that the tired person has been drinking too much.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Lori Wong, age 12, of San Francisco, California, for her question:

Why do we often see color with our eyes closed?

Color vision is a highly complex gift performed by special light-sensitive cells in the human eye. The process is run by chemical electrical energy. Light beams start a series of reactions in the cells and sometimes the results continue after the triggering beams have gone.

Most of us must take along a swatch of fabric when we go to buy a spool of matching thread. A few gifted people can guess a perfect match from memory. Many people can recall colors, almost as if they were still seeing them. These and other special talents are rather rare and at present the biologists have no complete explanation of how they work. All of us, however, have experienced the sensations of colors when we close our eyes after gazing at a colorful picture or pattern. Part, but not all, of this color sensing can be explained.

The basic color receptors are light-sensitive cells called cones. There are about 130 million of these cones behind the retina screen in the back of the eye. They respond to the different wave lengths of light and flash their reactions along nerves to the brain's centre of vision. Part of the coding work needed to translate wave lengths into colors may or may not be done by the cones themselves. The major artwork of assembling the colored picture is done at the headquarters in the brain.

The most widely accepted modern theory on how this process is performed stresses the tendency of the vision to associate certain colors in pairs. This pairing is evident in direct vision and also in the afterimage that appears when the eyelids are closed. In general, the cones tend to pair red and green and also yellow and blue. There may be a factor of cell fatigue. When the eye has been staring at a vivid color for a long time, it appears to fade and lose its brilliance.

Stimulates Cells

Color pairing and perhaps also cell fatigue seem to be responsible for colors that seem to appear on the inside of the eyelids. One test for the afterimage uses a grey card adorned with a vivid green heart bordered in bright yellow. In the centre of the heart is a black dot. The eye is allowed to stare at the picture for 20 seconds. Then it is replaced by a stark white card. For a moment, the eye may visualize the colored card. Then the afterimage changes to the paired opposites. It becomes a red heart bordered with blue.

The modern theory suggests that certain cones handle the decoding of both reds and and yellows. When the triggering light waves are removed, the electrical activity of the sensitive cone cells continues for a while. Sometimes the same colors are sensed on the inside of the closed eyelids. Sometimes an afterimage of the paired opposite colors is sensed.

In any case, the triggering action stops when the colors are removed from the field of vision. The stimulated cells, however, may continue to react to the colored wave lengths. Then we sense, rather than actually see colors with the eyes closed. Sometimes we can visualize colors and design them in imaginative patterns. Emotions and other factors can stimulate these artistic memories and colorful creations. Some people have the gift of stimulating their color vision while asleep. They dream colorful dreams.

* * *

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Noreen Young, age 11, of Bridgeport, Connecticut, for her question:

Does a wish on a star really come true?

Andy says that in his experience this depends almost entirely upon what you wish. Naturally he follows the rules by selecting the first star to wake up in the sky after sundown. He pauses a moment to admire its bright twinkling eye and if it does not twinkle he looks for the next one to appear. Non-twinkling stars that stare right back at you with a steady light are planets and not true stars. The wishing game requires a real star and a planet will not do.

Now to select a wish. One of Andy's wishes has proved successful again and again. In fact, he can recommend it to succeed. It is a simple wish that the sun will rise at dawn tomorrow morning. And sure enough, it always does. Perhaps this would have occurred in any case and wishing on a star did not help a bit. Come to think of it, a star does not seem to help or hinder a lot of other wishes either. No matter what you wish and no matter how bright the star, the weather tomorrow will do just as it chooses.

STUDENT TELLS HEARING

'Phoney Ideal Of Womanhood'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mothers and magazines force a phoney ideal of womanhood on Canadian girls, 21-year-old Katharine Keate told the woman's commission Thursday night.

"You look at television and you look at women's magazine ads and good grief!" she told the commission's last public meeting in Vancouver.

Mothers pressure their daughters to be sociable and popular and the mass media tell them they should be "beautiful ornaments," she said.

"I think this causes a lot of suffering in girls as they are growing up."

Miss Keate, daughter of Stuart Keate, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, spoke to an applauding audience of about 200 women and a sprinkling of men at an evening hearing held in a suburban shopping centre.

She is the first young unmarried woman to appear before the travelling commission to present a personal brief on young women's views.

Today the five women and two men members of the royal commission on the status of women take a break from public hearings for some sightseeing. They meet next in Calgary Monday before moving on to Edmonton and Saskatoon.

Miss Keate, a pert brunette university student, said she thinks young men of her generation are willing to consider women their equals, or at least are willing to be persuaded that women are competent.

She said women should be able to choose whether they want to be career women, or mothers, or both.

Women should also be able to get abortions and contraceptives "if they want them" and contraceptive information should be made accessible to all.

"The most important thing is that women should have control over their own bodies," she said.

Helen McCrae, dean of women at the University of British Columbia, said she considers it "stupid" that regulations require a person to work one year in the labor force before they can apply for Manpower department retraining.

WORK DETERGENT

This prevented many housewives from getting needed retraining when they decide to return to jobs after years of absence.

Earlier, home economist Mary Beichel said she studied 15 families where the mother is the only parent and could only characterize the positions of these single mothers as "unfair."

Mrs. Beichel, who described herself as happily married, said single women with dependents cannot earn enough under present conditions and need outside help to live decently.

Her 15 widowed, divorced and separated mothers were trying to raise a total of 55 children and were "desperately poor."

Canada's 272,215 mothers without husbands need salaries of $300 a month minimum if they are to care for their children.

Muriel Desmarais said women fail to enter politics in any numbers often because of fear of criticism.

"They are too shy to speak up," she said. "They feel that men will feel they don't belong at political meetings."

Mrs. Desmarais lit a tall white candle on the table in front of the seven commissioners "to show my appreciation for this inquiry."

'HUSBANDS WOULDN'T BE CAUGHT DEAD HERE'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Not many men are attending hearings of the travelling royal commission on the status of women.

There were about 200 women but only a dozen men at Thursday night's public hearing in a shopping centre.

No men attended the afternoon session.

Since Monday not more than a handful of males have been at any session, most of which have drawn between 70 and 100 women.

"Our husbands said they wouldn't be caught dead here," one middle-aged woman explained Thursday night.

Commission Chairman Anne Francis, who has said the hearings should be equally interesting to men since what affects women will inevitably affect men, appealed to the men of Thursday's audience to speak up.

And professor Jacques Henripin of Montreal, one of two male commissioners, entered a plea for more male participation.

"It seems to me men are systematically discriminating against themselves by acting as if they have no place here," he said.

"The other male commissioner is Dr. John Humphrey, professor of law at Montreal's McGill University.

Party Head to Quit

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) —The leader of the Opposition Labor party, E. Gough Whitlam, announced today he will resign as party head and seek re-election on his own terms. Newspaper reports said he made the decision after suffering policy defeats at a meeting of the party executive committee earlier this week.

Dutch Royal Birth Marked at Hospital

OTTAWA (CP) — A Dutch link with Canada was remembered Thursday when the embassy of The Netherlands distributed about 2,000 biscuits to patients and nurses at the Civic Hospital in honor of the birth of a first child to Princess Margriet in The Hague, Wednesday night.

Princess Margriet was born in the hospital in 1943. Her mother, Queen Juliana, came to Ottawa with her two older daughters when Germany invaded the Lowlands in the spring of 1940.

Mrs. Theodorus H. Bot, wife of the ambassador of The Netherlands, distributed some of the biscuits—Holland rusks strewn with colored, sugared caraway seeds throughout the hospital.

The rusks, with orange seeds to signify the House of Orange, are traditionally served in Dutch homes when a baby is born, and in all Dutch hospitals when there is a royal birth.

Mrs. Bot toured the hospital's maternity ward, chatting with patients and a nurse who had looked after the young Dutch princess and her mother.

Married in 1967 to Pieter van Vollenhoven, Margriet's first child, a boy, will be fourth in line of succession to the Dutch throne.

Phone Service Near Normal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest U.S. telephone strike in 21 years appeared to cause little initial disruption of service after 165,000 workers across the U.S. walked off their jobs.

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the striking Communications Workers of America, urged another 500,000 employees of the Bell Telephone System to refuse to cross picket lines in support of union demands in the wage dispute.

Company officials promised to maintain most service with supervisors.

"We ask all employees to maintain and protect telephone service," said Ben S. Gilmer, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., parent firm of the Bell System.

Both union and company officials predicted little trouble for telephone subscribers in placing calls except for long-distance and other services that require an operator. Installation of new phones also was sharply curtailed.

Jenny, 221, Still Toiling, Spinning

By ELIZABETH FORBES

A friend who works in the elementary correspondence branch of the department of education, kept my mind off duller moments at a recent meeting by telling me a story that had to do with a spinning jenny.

Forbes

As you probably know, a spinning jenny is an engine or machine for spinning wool or cotton by means of a large number of spindles revolving simultaneously. At least, that's what the dictionary says.

In my own mind, such a machine fits into a woollen mill or factory. Not, as my friend told me, in a country home in northern B.C. beyond Prince George.

To prove her point (and I've no doubt to avoid being rebuked by the president's gavel) she fished a letter out of her purse and whispered—"It's all in there, take it home and read it."

I did that. And I discovered that a spinning jenny can be found outside a mill. What's more, it can be used domestically for spinning yarn.

In order to give you the story in detail I must now take you back to my friend in the correspondence department. Some time ago, in a batch of completed assignments from the north country, she found an art booklet with a cover decorated in a pattern of colorful yarns.

★ ★ ★

"It was intriguing," she told me. "The yarns were lovely. I wanted to know more about them."

This desire led her to write a personal letter to the mother of the lad who sent in the booklet.

The yarns were handmade, was the answer. The mother did the spinning. She had learned the art from her mother-in-law nearly a quarter of a century ago.

She wrote that her wheel would more correctly be called a spinning jenny. It was "highly prized" in her family as an heirloom, an antique and, at the same time, "a useful machine."

It came to Canada from Siberia in 1894 and the Russian woman who brought it over could trace its history back 147 years. In 1920 "Granny B . . ." (the Russian) sold it to the letter-writer's mother-in-law.

The "spinning wheel," as she calls it, is an upright one. Flyers and bobbins placed above the large wheel, which is directly over the foot pedal, are driven at two different speeds by "an endless heavy string belt."

"The flyers put the twist in both the first single ply of wool and later in the two, three and four-plys used in the finished yarn."

★ ★ ★

Because the flyer pulley is larger than that on the bobbin they turn much faster.

Socks knitted from her yarn are warm and nearly waterproof, the spinner boasts. Especially if they are fluffed into a nap surface with a stiff bristle brush, before they are quite dry.

Clean, unwashed fleece is used for the spinning "because it works into a softer garment." The yarn is knit before it is washed "which also helps to make a soft, stretchy sock."

Pulleys, flyers (except for the pins), the standards, big wheel, framework and even the belt-tightening screw are all handmade of wood.

The steel eye on the flyers was renewed recently. Flyers were replaced before 1946 and the foot pedal wears out every 10 years or so. Otherwise it is the original wheel.

Only metal used is in two axles, a curved piece that connects the pedal to the main axle which works like a crankshaft in a motor and the flyer pins or wool guides.

The large main wheel is made of thin pieces of wood and with wooden nails.

The letter-writer believes that "very few people outside the province of Quebec make handmade yarns today."

That, of course, is substantially true. At the same time, I do know there are weavers right in Victoria who spin and dye their own wools and who do it extremely well.

Canada-U.S. Expedition Hits North Pole Target

OTTAWA (CP) — A six-man Canadian-American expedition has reported by radio that it reached the North Pole early today, the northern development department said.

A department spokesman said the expedition, striving to become the first surface-travelling party to reach the Pole since the 1909 Peary expedition, plans to remain at its present position for two days until a U.S. Air Force plane flies over to confirm its claim.

★ ★ ★

The department spokesman said the party, led by Ralph Plaisted of St. Paul, Minn., apparently travelled without stopping all through Thursday evening and Friday morning to reach its goal.

They now want the aircraft to confirm their fix.

★ ★ ★

Other members of the expedition are Gerald R. Pitzl and Donald E. Powellek of St. Paul; Dr. Arthur C. Aufderheide of Duluth, Minn.; Walter H. Pederson of St. Cloud, Minn., and Jean-Luc Bombardier of Montreal, the only Canadian on the trip.

The expedition made an unsuccessful attempt to reach the pole last year, turning back 530 miles short of the goal because of rapidly melting ice and other factors.

Hanoi Vetoes 10 Sites Insisting Upon Warsaw

HANOI (CP)—North Vietnam today rejected all 10 new sites suggested by the United States for talks on settling the Vietnam dispute. It insisted on its original suggestion of Warsaw, Poland.

A foreign ministry spokesman said North Vietnam also rejected the conditions set by President Johnson.

North Vietnam maintained its original choice of Warsaw and requested the United States to make an official reply to this suggestion.

The statement was issued to correspondents in the North Vietnamese capital.

Hanoi proposed Warsaw on April 11 after having rejected the United States' earlier proposal of Geneva, Switzerland, and having its own first-suggested site, Phnom Penh, Cambodia, rejected by the U.S.

The foreign ministry spokesman, replying today to statements by Johnson and by U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk on the possibility of one of 10 new cities being chosen as the site, said: "The attitude of the American government is not at all serious."

He added that in none of the 10 cities suggested does North Vietnam have a diplomatic mission. This argument, he noted, was the same one used by the United States in rejecting Phnom Penh.

As for the United States' insinuation that Warsaw does not meet the requirement of neutrality, the spokesman stressed that several of the capitals proposed by Rusk do not either.

The spokesman laid considerable emphasis on the fact that, as seen in Hanoi, Johnson's successive statements steadily increased the number of conditions he attaches to settling on a meeting place although in his speech of March 31 he posed no condition.

The spokesman accused the United States of "creating new difficulties for delaying preliminary contacts."

He concluded by saying that North Vietnam rejects the 10 cities proposal and requests the United States to reply officially on the choice of Warsaw.

IT LOOKS LIKE PARIS IN SPRING

Diplomatic observers said the fact that it was not mentioned in the latest American-proposed selection of 10 new conference sites suggested that France has been quietly earmarked as the least controversial meeting place.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville's Thursday offer of Paris as the meeting place also suggested, in the view of diplomatic sources, the French government may have received informal hints that the French capital would be acceptable to either side.

Bomb Raids Heaviest In Months

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes made their heaviest raids of the year on North Vietnam Thursday, flying the largest number of missions in nearly four months, military spokesmen announced today.

Hitting targets in the southern panhandle in accordance with President Johnson's curtailment order, U.S. pilots took advantage of clearing weather to fly 145 missions, one more than the year's previous record on Jan. 6. It was the largest number since Dec. 26, when 150 were flown.

The total was nearly triple the average number of missions the Americans flew against supply routes, convoys and gun positions in the southern part of North Vietnam before Johnson on April 1 ordered them to stay south of the 20th parallel of latitude.

Police Put on Case

U.S. IN CASH CRISIS WHITE HOUSE WARNED

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin said today the United States is in the midst of the worst financial crisis since 1931.

Martin said he had warned President Johnson that unless the United State reversed its current balance-of-payments trend "it will inevitably lead to world-wide devaluation of currencies".

Winters Declines Cabinet Job

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Robert Winters has decided against accepting the post offered him in the new cabinet being assembled by prime minister-designate Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Mr. Trudeau announced the decision Thursday night.

He said Mr. Winters informed him of the decision Thursday afternoon not to accept the appointment "to an important portfolio in my cabinet."

Cabinet making has proved much more complicated than Mr. Trudeau had expected and more time-consuming. He could not make final moves until he knew definitely whether Mr. Winters would rejoin the cabinet or return to private life and the business world. Mr. Winters is known to have had several offers of posts, with Ford Motor Company of Canada and T. Eaton Company mentioned, among others.

TURNER GAINS

John Turner, the present minister of consumer and corporate affairs, is in line for the post of minister of trade and commerce and industry.

Mr. Winters had been offered that post, combining his old department of trade and commerce and the department of industry under one portfolio. Now that Mr. Winters has turned it down Mr. Trudeau is expected to give it to Mr. Turner.

Mr. Winters is reported to have asked that responsibility for tariffs be moved out of the finance department and placed under the new portfolio of trade and commerce and industry.

But Mr. Trudeau indicated the best he could do for Mr. Winters was give him the expanded department of trade and commerce and industry.

Mr. Trudeau said that "during the course of several discussions this week, Mr. Winters made it clear he wished to carry out his intention which he expressed last January to return to private life."

RAN SECOND

It was important to Mr. Trudeau that he try to persuade Mr. Winters to continue to serve in the cabinet because Mr. Winters ran second to Mr. Trudeau in the Liberal leadership convention.

The anti-Trudeau vote among the Liberal delegates finally polarized around Mr. Winters and he made a surprisingly strong run in the leadership race.

Mr. Winters told close associates that he felt that he had been seldom consulted during the Pearson administration and if he was just going to be in the Trudeau cabinet as "window dressing" he would prefer to stay out.

It is understood that he asked the prime minister designate for assurances that he would have an important role to play in determining economic and financial policies. He apparently was not satisfied with the answer.

Another complication for Mr. Trudeau has been the position taken by External Affairs Min-

Martin Going To Senate?

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, 64, likely will be appointed to the Senate where he may become government leader, thus remaining in the cabinet, informed sources said today.

The decision was apparently taken Wednesday when Liberal Leader Trudeau had a reportedly emotional meeting with Mr. Martin in the latter's office.

It is generally assumed that Fiance Minister Sharp will take the external affairs portfolio.

Mr. Trudeau reportedly offered Mr. Martin the justice portfolio but the veteran Liberal is said to have turned it down for several reasons.

One was that he felt this a demotion. And as a devout Roman Catholic, Mr. Martin did not want to be associated with the new abortion clause in the Criminal Code amendments which still must be approved by Parliament.

Sources also said Mr. Martin does not want to run in the next a final decision.

Prison Escapee Killer Suspect

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI has identified Eric Starvo Galt, wanted for the killing of Negro civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., as James Earl Ray, 40, an escapee from the Missouri State Penitentiary.

Ray was reported missing from the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City on April 23, 1967. He was serving a 20-year sentence for an armed robbery in St. Louis and operating a motor vehicle without the owner's permission.

The FBI said he was identified through "a systematic and exhaustive search of latent fingerprints" uncovered in the King case against the fingerprints of the more than 53,000 persons for whom wanted notices are on file in the FBI's identification division.

CONFINED CLOSELY

Ray, who had been at the prison since March 17, 1960, spent some time in September, 1966, in the maximum security ward at the state hospital in Fulton, Mo.

The man known as Galt was charged Wednesday with the first-degree murder of King on April 4 in Memphis, Tenn. He also is charged in a federal warrant with conspiracy and murder in the King assassination.

A drifter since he left school in the 10th grade at Alston, Ill., Ray served as an enlisted man in the U.S. Army from February, 1946 to December, 1948, when he was given a general discharge for ineptness and lack of adaptibility, the FBI said. During his army career he received a three-month sentence at hard labor for being drunk and "breaking" arrest.

The FBI said Ray has an arrest record dating at least to 1949, when he was convicted for burglary in Los Angeles. He also was convicted in 1952 for armed robbery in Chicago and in 1955 for forging U.S. postal money orders in Missouri.

He has served terms in a Los Angeles County jail, state prisons at Joliet and Pontiac, Ill., and a federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

HAD MANY NAMES

The FBI said Ray has used the names of James McBride, James Walton, W. C. Herron and James O'Conner.

Ray claimed to have been born March 10, 1928, in Illinois — but the FBI did not say where. He stands about five feet 10 inches, weighs 163 to 174 pounds, has blue eyes and brown hair and two scars: A

NATO Reassured Canada Still In

THE HAGUE (AP) — Leo Cadieux, Canada's defence minister, said today he has told leaders of the Atlantic alliance that Canada is not reducing its military contribution this year and will review its commitment for 1969.

Statements by Pierre Elliott Trudeau, who Monday becomes Canada's prime minister, had been interpreted to mean that Canada was pulling out of NATO, he said.

"Some of the others were feeling pretty uncomfortable," Cadieux explained in an interview today "and I felt justified in putting things right."

Cadieux spoke Thursday at the start of a two-day session of the nuclear planning group of NATO. The meeting is being held behind closed doors to map out guidelines for the tactical use of nuclear weapons as a deterrent to attack by the Soviet Union, and in case of war.

Cadieux said Canada wants a strong and effective alliance. He listed improvements and additions being made to Canadian forces—introduction of self-propelled artillery in Europe, delivery of the new CF-5 tactical fighter bomber in Canada, the delivery of a new submarine, the building of support ships and destroyers.

"These indicate we are holding to our commitments," he said.

He added that the only short-term changes in sight are those announced at the Brussels meeting of the alliance last December—substitution for two heavy brigades at home by a single brigade that can be transported by air.

ALLIES VETO MISSILE PLAN

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (Reuters) — The North Atlantic Treaty organization nuclear planning group rejected today for the time being an anti-ballistic missile system for Europe, an official communique said.

The communique said the group, composed of seven NATO defence ministers, including Leo Cadieux of Canada, "felt that present circumstances did not justify the deployment of an anti ballistic missile system in Europe but agreed that it was necessary to keep developments in this field under constant review."

It said they reaffirmed hopes for progress in discussions with the Soviet Union on limiting the nuclear arms race and "welcomed the intention of the United States government to consult fully with its allies on new developments in this direction."

The minister agreed to hold the next meeting of the group in Bonn, West Germany, in October, 1968.

TRUDEAU:

Quick Vote Still Possible

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Trudeau said today he sees arguments both for and against an early general election.

"Everything is possible in the spring—this one or next," he told reporters after a two-hour cabinet meeting which took up the legislative program for the parliamentary session resuming Tuesday.

On April 7, Mr. Trudeau said he did not see the logic of an early election—though he might once he became prime minister. He will become prime minister Monday.

Mr. Trudeau said there will be another cabinet meeting before Parliament reconvenes.

Mr. Trudeau declined to discuss what items of legislation the government proposes to put before the Commons.

He said he is not clear about the demand by Opposition Leader Stanfield for a new budget.

He said there have been two in the present parliamentary session and he did not understand whether Mr. Stanfield wanted prorogation of Parliament followed by a new session and new budget.

Mr. Trudeau said his cabinet, to be announced Monday, will be about the same size as the Pearson administration which numbered 27 before recent resignations.

Mr. Trudeau signed autographs for several persons, mostly teen-aged girls, outside the East Block of the Parliament Buildings after the cabinet meeting.

M-F Plant On Strike

TORONTO (CP) — More than 6,000 members of the United Auto Workers union walked off their jobs at Massey-Ferguson plants in Toronto and Brantford today as an 11 a.m. strike deadline passed with no settlement.

Main issue in the strike is wage parity with United States workers.

Tame Tiger Playmate for Children

But the Dade County sheriff's office says William Seefeldt, the owner, will have to cage his 10-month-old pet. The cage is necessary to qualify for the permit to keep her.

"She is house broken with seven generations of captivity behind her," Seefeldt said Thursday. "If they put her in a cage away from people she would go wild."

Tammy was born in a litter of five tiny tigers at the county's Crandon Park Zoo. The zoo traded the excess cubs to an animal dealer and Seefeldt bought Tammy from the dealer.

Seefeldt has had Tammy six months and she's a plaything for the neighborhood children. This week 25 of them held a pyjama party with Tammy as guest of honor.

Thursday, the sheriff's deputies pointed to a statute requiring permits for carnivorous animals including tigers. They said Seefeldt would get the permit when Tammy got a cage.

Seefeldt said he would take his case to court.

Victoria Daily Times
VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, APRIL 19, 1968—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

From a woodsman reader, a snort of derision at the request made by Langford Fire Chief Allan LeQuesne that the trail up Mount Finlayson be either put to rights or closed to hikers.

"Tell me," he challenged, "just how can any normally observant person get lost up there?"

Well, I don't know how people manage to get lost anywhere, but the fact remains that they do, woodsmen included. In this matter, I think Fire Chief LeQuesne deserves a hearing.

Mount Finlayson has managed to acquire a nasty little reputation for itself, especially in the last few years. Much of the trail is in bad shape, and certain stretches are downright dangerous—a fact that parents might keep in mind when their young announce that they're going up the mountain.

What signs there were have been largely obliterated by logging, fire, and downright vandalism, and it's all too easy for a hiker to stray on his way down from the summit.

Chief LeQuesne and his men have been in on any number of difficult and time-consuming rescues. Their most recent began last Christmas Eve, and ended at 9 a.m. Christmas morning with a young exposure victim brought safe down on a stretcher.

"What we worry about most," the fire chief tells me, "is that someone is going to go over a cliff and get killed up there."

South Vancouver Island Rangers once did considerable maintenance work on the trail, and a few years ago, the parks branch negotiated with a view to buying the privately-owned hill.

Cost was too high for the budget, however. The deal with the two owners, one of them a woman now living in New Zealand, fell through.

With a wide, well-marked trail put in, this close-to-home hike would be a dandy. But the fact of private ownership bars the parks branch from such action.

Complaints from readers who have received unsolicited merchandise in the mail continue to reach me.

Latest of these comes from Vancouver, where pensioner Len Scott finds himself in possession of a number of stamp packets which he can't afford to purchase. These were sent by a State of Maine supplier, along with the single 10-cent pack ordered.

"I do not collect or save stamps for myself," Mr. Scott writes, "but when I get a bunch, I mail them to Victoria SPCA, as I read they were asking for used stamps of any kind, which they sell for funds to be used in their work."

Along with sympathy, a post office spokesman offers this advice to former Victorian Scott:

"It isn't necessary to pay for the extra stamps, since you did not ask that they be mailed to you. Keep the package you want, and send the others back."

Since Mr. Scott opened the package, he is required to pay return postage, and that hurts. (The unopened, unsolicited item may be returned at the sender's cost.)

This dumping of unordered merchandise is a mean little racket, and I think it's high time the postal authorities cracked down on it.

After Bastion Theatre's murderous attack on Brendan Behan's 'The Hostage,' we vowed never again to risk an evening at the McPherson with guests. But we did want to see how the spine-tingling Henry James short story, "The Turn of the Screw," translates into play form, so took ourselves to the Mac last night with friends from the mainland.

Bastion redeems itself with "The Innocents." For a thoroughly eerie evening, the tale-turned-play is hard to beat.

Determined symbolists have tried to inject Freudian undertones into the story of a governess who struggles to save two children from the powers of evil. Happily, the playright (William Archibald) doesn't dilute his borrowed ingredients.

HOLD ON I'LL PULL YOU IN . . . member of the Royal Canadian Navy docking party appears to tow by bow line the 4,500-ton Australian guided missile destroyer HMAS Brisbane to the jetty at HMC Dockyard this morning. The three-day visit to Victoria is first recreational stop for crew, whose ages average 21 years. (Bill Halkett photos.)

THREE-DAY VISIT

Sleek Destroyer Glides Into Port

To the strains of Waltzing Matilda, the Australian guided-missile destroyer HMAS Brisbane glided into sunny Esquimalt Harbor today and tied up at A jetty, HMC Dockyard, sharp at 9 a.m.

The 4,500-ton destroyer was built for the Royal Australian Navy at a cost of $45,000,000 (Australian) by a U.S. firm and commissioned at Boston, Mass., last Dec. 16.

As the sleek grey ship approached the dockside, the Naden band struck into the Australian folk song Waltzing Matilda and followed it with a brassy swing version of St. Louis Blues.

"That's a fine band you have," said Capt. Alan A. Willis, commander of the 437-foot Brisbane. "I hope our officers and crew will meet as many Canadians as possible because I don't think we shall be back in Canadian waters for some time."

Visiting Canada for the first time, Capt. Willis called on Rear-Admiral J. A. Charles, Pacific Maritime Commander, at Admiral's House at 10 a.m.

The Brisbane will be open to the public from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Suunday. She leaves here Monday at 9 a.m. for visits to San Francisco and San Diego.

ENGLISH, SCOTS

Capt. Willis revealed that at least 50 members of his crew of 333 are English and Scots who have migrated to Australia over the past 10 years.

"We haven't yet been able to give them a trip back," he smiled.

There is no rum ration in the Royal Australian Navy, but officers have the use of a bar when not on operational duty, and a beer ration is issued to the men.

Capt. Willis said new ships and aircraft will continue to build up Australia's defences.

"Australian guided - missile destroyers, similar to the Brisbane, have been in action in Vietnamese waters with units of the U.S. Seventh Fleet," he said.

"Nine of our ships saw service in the Korean war. Althouth our navy is relatively small, we are proud of our modern equipment, versatility and mobility."

GOVERNMENT ST. CLOSED ON SUNDAY

Government Street between Fort and Humboldt will be closed to all traffic on Sunday.

The closure, to clear the way for the repaving of Government, will be in effect from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Traffic engineer Dave Campbell today asked for the co-operation of all motorists normally using the street to find alternative routes.

Should Sunday prove to be a rainy day the paving program and the closure will be delayed for one week.

NO CANADIAN RATS are wanted aboard the Australian guided missile destroyer HMAS Brisbane. The ship's rat shield was the first piece of equipment attached when the ship secured at HMC Dockyard this morning, and was welcomed by the Naden Band.

CURTAIL SOME OPERATIONS

Parochial School System 'Will Operate Next Year'

The Roman Catholic school system in Greater Victoria will continue operating and will have the same number of children in it next year as this, Monsignor Michael O'Connell said today.

Msgr. O'Connell was elaborating on a Times story Thursday which detailed the increasing financial problems facing the separate school system.

STILL TRYING

A fund drive is still under way to finance a major renovation of St. Louis College and addition of a gymnasium and library for the boy's high school. The St. Louis program is an alternative to a more costly plan for a co-educational high school on the grounds of St. Ann's Academy which had to be abandoned.

Msgr. O'Connell said he has written Peter Bunn, chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, assuring him the public school board would be kept informed and every effort would be made to avoid complicating the problems already faced by the public school system.

Thursday's story developed from a proposal to close Sacred Heart elementary school for financial reasons.

Rory Finegan, president of the parent-teacher organization there, said today parents of school children there indicated by a show of hands at a meeting last month they were all in favor of keeping the school going.

But a later vote by members of the parish was about two-to-one for closing the school because of the growing financial burden.

THREE-QUARTERS

In the case of Sacred Heart, said Mr. Finegan, parents of children at the school pay three-quarters of the school's operating costs, the balance being provided by a parish grant.

The grant amounted to about $4,000 for the current school year but there were indications soaring costs would push the need to about $12,000.

It was decided this week that the separate school boards should amalgamate under a regional board which will try to institute economies and improve efficiency.

MONDAY MEMO TO MR. T.

After the Gulps and Silence, A Few Priority Suggestions

By JIM HUME

Hold the phone Pierre Elliott T.

The people of Victoria have a few ideas for you to incorporate in your list of priorities after you take over Monday as Prime Minister Trudeau.

Not many ideas, its's true, because the Times telephone survey of city residents this morning drew mostly heavy gulps and long periods of silence when we asked for a No. 1 problem to be solved.

"It has to rate as one of the most critical problems in Canada," is the way he puts it.

Esquimalt's Ellen McCoy doesn't agree.

"Let him cancel the suggestion that a couple of navy ships be crewed entirely by French - speaking Canadians. If he doesn't he's going to split the armed forces as well as the country."

Waldo Skillings, Social Credit MLA for Victoria, wonders if Peirre Elliott has the ability to complete the first big job facing him within the Liberal party.

"I'm just back from the East and I'm telling you that party is in chaos," said the vociferous Socred party whip.

On the national priority list?

"That has to be a balanced budget."

For Sonia Croucher, 1051 Hampshire, a balanced budget has to be number one item on the Trudeau priority list.

She has some backing from University of Victoria political scientist Richard Power.

"Fiscal policy then foreign policy in that order," is his "off the top of my head" order of importance.

For Ald. Edith Gunning of Saanich, there are three major problems to be faced immediately.

"Urban development with particular attention to transportation, active research to find ways of controlling pollution with special emphasis on sewage disposal, and means of curbing excessive profits from land speculation."

Mrs. Harold Foster, 1664-45, Dallas: "I haven't thought about what his first job should be but Quebec is quite important."

PIERRE TRUDEAU

"The constitution, not only as it affects Quebec but as it affects the entire country. There possibly has to be some reorganization of power in Canada.

"The entire field of urban problems including housing, transportation and financing. The country needs a minister of urban affairs with the sole responsibility of how to mount the attack.

That's the list Mr. Prime Minister elect.

'Urgent Need For Four Tent Courts'

The south end of Vancouver Island needs four more tent and trailer courts to be able to meet summer peak demands.

The statement is made in a special report published this week by the Capital Region Planning Board.

Planning director A. H. Roberts says in the report that a survey made last summer showed a deficiency of between 100 and 150 spaces for trailer accommodation.

On the average summer night during peak periods there were around 440 trailers in the area. The 100 to 150 unable to find space presumably moved to other areas or parked overnight on secondary roads.

FOUR AREAS

Mr. Roberts listed four general areas where trailer courts are urgently required:

- The East Saanich (Tsawout) Indian Reserve where there is an excellent location for a low-density camp site with enough tree cover to hide the site from the highway.
- An area slightly south of Brentwood where wooded acreage exists close to boat launching and fishing facilities.
- The West Saanich Road within walking distance of Prospect Lake Park. The area has some tree cover and piped water.
- A small area west of Langford Lake to complement the government facilities at Goldstream Park.

While urging rural and unorganized municipalities to consider rezoning certain areas to assist trailer court locations, Mr. Roberts warns that strict supervision must be made of facilities installed.

He also noted that most trailer campers are seeking fairly cheap accommodation.

During last summer's survey he stated that 13 per cent of the trailer-towers were looking for free overnight accommodation, 22 per cent were seeking a one-night stay for a dollar and 15 per cent had $2 as their top price.

CAR OWNER LIST SUPPLIED

'People Resent' Selling of Names

The selling of information by a British Columbia government department to a private company was severely criticized today.

"I don't think this is a very ethical practice and I am surprised a government would do this sort of thing," said Larry Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labour Council.

He was commenting on the disclosure that information on car registrations is sold by the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch to a Toronto market research company for about $15,000 a year.

The practice was defended by branch superintendent Ray Hadfield who called it "legitimate" and the price a fair one.

"Many people resent the fact that a subscription to a magazine or newspaper is sold behind our backs," said Mr. Ryan.

"It is bad enough to go along with it in the publishing industry but the idea of government departments doing this is uncalled for.

"The great fear of people of this time, and a proper fear, is 1984.

"It's an Orwellian trend in our society and government should be aloof to this. It is bad enough in the business world."

Mr. Ryan said the government is "overstepping its jurisdiction" and all citizens should take note.

The labor council will "consider this very seriously" at future meetings.

All government departments have confidential information about citizens and he asked "are we going to allow a proliferation?"

Some people—he mentioned the insurance industry—would have a "vested interest" in finding out advantageous information from, for example, the health department and B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

'Essential Economic Facts'

Mr. Hadfield said the lists of car owners and their cars provide essential economic research facts for not only the automobile industry in planning markets for vehicle parts but also for planning by municipalities and other agencies.

Mr. Hadfield said the price scale of one cent per name is a common one in selling such lists.

"We feel we're very adequately compensated for what we do," he said.

Asked about the reported Alberta plan to make the statistics available to more than one firm, Mr. Hadfield said that such a move has not been considered here.

A second firm did try to obtain the lists here, he said, but the department felt the firm should make a "business arrangement" with the Toronto firm, R. L. Polk, which had bought the list.

"We don't want to be glueing up our system," said Mr. Hadfield, pointing out that the Toronto firm maintains some control of the information by contracting to print envelopes for other firms but keeping possession of the central list.

"This advertising listing business is a pretty rough field," he said, suggesting some firms might not be aware of what they would be getting into by paying large sums for bulk lists that need extensive computer processing before being commercially valuable.

Fine Reduced For Uvic Student

A University of Victoria student was fined $250 and had his licence suspended by Magistrate Ostler today for impaired driving.

Barry McLean, 18, of 1353 Pandora, was involved in an accident Tuesday at Fort and Douglas street and pleaded guilty.

The magistrate reduced the fine from $350 when he learned the youth was paying his way through school on what he could earn in the summer.

Major Changes Again Made In Saanich Animals Bylaw

A drastically-revised animals bylaw in Saanich will be recommended to the May 6 council meeting.

Changes to the existing bylaw follow three major meetings by the lands and planning committee last year and two meetings this year.

The recommendation to send the draft to council was made Thursday by the committee. Chairman Ald. Edith Gunning also said the draft will be considered by the municipal solicitor.

One of the changes would introduce a limitation on the number of cats and dogs which can be kept in a house. At present there is no restriction.

Earlier recommendations that a limit of five cats and five dogs be introduced were tightened Thursday to reducing this to three dogs over the age of six months. For the fourth and fifth dogs, a permit is necessary. Beyond five dogs will require a commercial kennel licence and zoning.

The limitation on cats is five over the age of four months. A permit will be necessary to keep more than five cats.

The committee agreed last year to reconsider a proposed $24 licence fee for unspayed female dogs. This now has been reduced to $15 in the final recommendation.

Last year the committee recommended a system of dog ticketing be established with a warning at first and then progressive fines. Operation of such a system would be like traffic tickets with a fine being paid but the dog not impounded.

Ald. Gunning said the committee will recommend the solicitor investigate the possibility of a dog ticketing clause in the animals bylaw.

Workers Voting On Wage Offer

IWA, Owners Show Caution As Conciliation Report In

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ballots were being distributed today to striking southern interior wood workers for a vote on a 68-cent-an-hour pay increase recommended by conciliation officer Jack Sherlock.

The recommendation, in a three-year contract, was offered Thursday as a basis for settlement of a strike by 5,000 workers against 46 lumber companies that began last Oct. 4. No voting date has been set.

Union and management made no immediate comment but planned meetings to consider the recommendation. Labor Minister Leslie Peterson described it as "the first major breakthrough."

The offer compared with a demand by the International Woodworkers of America for a 77-cent increase over three years and an employers' offer of 62. Present base rate is $2.26 an hour.

Mr. Sherlock also offered a compromise for voting procedures: companies and union conducting their own votes with labor department members supervising counting of ballots.

Mr. Sherlock recommended: a 34-cent increase on return to work, another 12 cents Jan. 1, 1969; a further 11 cents Jan. 1, 1970, and a final 11 cents effective April 1, 1970.

He also recommended equal base rates in all operations, elimination of differentials between male and female base rates in plywood operations and advance notice of changes involving layoffs.

His recommended contract would be retroactive to Sept. 1, 1967, and be in effect until the end of August, 1970.

SOUGHT PARITY

The lumber workers originally demanded immediate parity with coastal workers, who now are negotiating a new contract. The request would have meant an immediate 50-cent increase.

Before the strike, Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe of the British Columbia Supreme Court, industrial inquiry commissioner, recommended a 44-cent increase. The union said no; employers accepted, later rejected it.

Under Mr. Sherlock's proposed contract, employers would be required to notify the union six months before major changes in methods or facilities which would involve discharge or layoffs.

Employees losing jobs because of technological change or automation would be entitled to a week's severance pay for each year's service with an employer, up to a maximum 26 weeks' pay.

Jack Moore, regional IWA president, is to meet with the three locals involved Saturday in Kelowna. Employers representatives will meet over the weekend, or early next week.

The conciliation officer's recommendation also covers a number of fringe benefits.

Originally, the union wanted to conduct its own vote and employers demanded a government-supervised vote.

New Hanging Reported By Czechs

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Maj. Bedrich Pokorny, former Czechoslovak intelligence officer who investigated the death of Jan Masaryk in 1948, was found hanged in a wood near Brno three weeks ago, the Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka reported today.

Authorities here have reopened inquiries into the death of Masaryk, Czechoslovak foreign minister, found dead in the courtyard of the foreign ministry shortly after the Communist takeover.

At the time, his death was registered officially as suicide. Many Czechoslovaks, however, believe he was murdered.

Pokorny worked in the political office of the interior ministry in 1948 and took part in investigations of Masaryk's death as well as the death of Maj. Augustin Schramm.

Schramm, a security officer at the foreign ministry, was himself reported murdered by Czechoslovakia who held him responsible for Masaryk's death.

Bomb Scare Delays Ferry

A bomb scare delayed the noon sailing of the B.C. Ferries' Queen of Vancouver from Tsawwassen for about 50 minutes Wednesday.

A male caller phoned the Vancouver ferry office about noon to say a bomb would be on board, but a thorough search by ferry staff and RCMP found nothing.

Passengers, still waiting to embark because the ferry was behind schedule, were asked to search their cars before boarding the Swartz Bay-bound ferry, an official said.

Under the revamping of the cabinet Mr. Trudeau had plans for shifting Mr. Martin to the justice portfolio.

Mr. Martin in that office would work closely with Mr. Trudeau in the negotiations with the provinces on constitutional questions, including Quebec, Mr. Martin indicated strongly his preference for staying in the office of external affairs minister.

Mr. Trudeau hopes to have all his problems regarding the cabinet settled by Saturday.

Then he will turn his attention to arguments for and against a snap election this spring or summer.

But influential Liberals are urging him to go the country now on the momentum in his favor built up during the leadership convention.

Drinking Driver Jailed 20 Days; Another Fined

A man who drove his car into a ditch where it slammed into a stump early Wednesday on Millstream Road was jailed for 20 days Thursday.

"These cases are getting worse and worse," commented Magistrate Ostler. "I don't know where it's all going to end."

Police said they warned him not to drive away from a beer parlor parking lot early March 5, but he returned a half hour later and attempted to drive his car.

SILVER BULLION HIJACKED

LONDON (Reuters) — Thieves today hijacked a truck carrying silver bars worth £71,000 (about $184,600) in East London.

The driver was found tied up in the vehicle three hours later. He was unhurt. Police were still looking for the stolen truck and the 71 silver bars.

"John Willard" was the name used by the man who checked into a Main Street rooming house three hours before King was shot as he stood on the balcony of a motel here.

The U.S. attorney's office in Kansas City quoted an informant of "apparent reliability" as saying King was among persons marked for death if Robert Bolivar Depugh, leader of the militant right-wing Minutemen organization, ever went to jail.

Day in Jail, $300 Fine

A Fraser Valley man found guilty Thursday in central court of abducting his common law wife's nine-year-old daughter was sentenced to one day in jail and fined $300.

Lawrence Shea had come from Vedder Crossing near Chilliwack March 1 with his commonlaw wife, Winnifred Brewer, and taken the child back to the mainland, evidence showed.

Complainant George Brewer, of 387 Anson in Victoria, said his former wife had deserted him on two occasions, before he obtained a divorce last November and remarried.

Shea's defence said there was no coercion and that the girl had followed Shea to the house where her mother was waiting. She then said she wanted to go to Vedder Crossing with her mother.

Magistrate William Ostler said the child's mother might have had a defence if she had taken the child herself. But this "doesn't apply to the accused," he said.

A hearing on custody of the child is scheduled for next month in the B.C. Supreme Court.

$50 Fine

Robert Richter, 24, of CFB Comox, was fined $50 Thursday for consuming liquor in a public place.

Police said they saw him drinking beer on Johnson St. early March 27.

U.S. PRESS REACTION TO TRUDEAU

'We Should Reserve Judgment'

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Canada's new Liberal party leader, "is a leader about whom the rest of the world, not just Canada, should reserve judgment."

That appraisal from the Washington Star seems to fit the U.S. mood. State department officials are plainly interested by the man and his stated intent to revamp Canadian foreign policy.

They regard as a plus the Trudeau indication of wanting to join the Organization of American States. But, like West Germany and some other European partners in NATO, they are anxious to see whether Canada may go so far as to cut troop strength there.

The U.S. is not the only interested country. France, which in the past has sometimes sought to gain some insight into the Canadian scene by questioning state department officials involved with Canada, has been trying to take more soundings, it is understood.

'SWINGER' IMAGE

Trudeau's image, a "card-carrying swinger" as the National Review puts it, ranks high in the comment.

His selection "introduces an interesting new figure in the pretty well shopworn field of North American politics," says the Washington Evening News.

The Baltimore Sun says he will "strike many Americans as a hopeful successor to Mr. Pearson."

The Boston Herald says "Trudeau's success in Canada makes it clear there is a new style of politics developing on the American continent."

"Trudeau's accession to power seems to symbolize in fact the drift toward neutralism which has been occurring in Canada as the result of the unhappiness in the Vietnam war and of growing confidence the Soviet threat is fading," it says.

It also cites Canadian "resentment" about economic dependence on the U.S.

The Minneapolis Tribune says Trudeau may not have much time to show what he can do because of the threat from Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch lauds Trudeau's stated determination to have good relations with France.

From a woodsman reader, a snort of derision at the request made by Langford Fire Chief Allan LeQuesne that the trail up Mount Finlayson be either put to rights or closed to hikers.

"Tell me," he challenged, "just how can any normally observant person get lost up there?"

Well, I don't know how people manage to get lost anywhere, but the fact remains that they do, woodsmen included. In this matter, I think Fire Chief LeQuesne deserves a hearing.

Mount Finlayson has managed to acquire a nasty little reputation for itself, especially in the last few years. Much of the trail is in bad shape, and certain stretches are downright dangerous—a fact that parents might keep in mind when their young announce that they're going up the mountain.

What signs there were have been largely obliterated by logging, fire, and downright vandalism, and it's all too easy for a hiker to stray on his way down from the summit.

Chief LeQuesne and his men have been in on any number of difficult and time-consuming rescues. Their most recent began last Christmas Eve, and ended at 9 a.m. Christmas morning with a young exposure victim brought safe down on a stretcher.

"What we worry about most," the fire chief tells me, "is that someone is going to go over a cliff and get killed up there."

South Vancouver Island Rangers once did considerable maintenance work on the trail, and a few years ago, the parks branch negotiated with a view to buying the privately-owned hill.

Cost was too high for the budget, however. The deal with the two owners, one of them a woman now living in New Zealand, fell through.

With a wide, well-marked trail put in, this close-to-home hike would be a dandy. But the fact of private ownership bars the parks branch from such action.

Complaints from readers who have received unsolicited merchandise in the mail continue to reach me.

Latest of these comes from Vancouver, where pensioner Len Scott finds himself in possession of a number of stamp packets which he can't afford to purchase. These were sent by a State of Maine supplier, along with the single 10-cent pack ordered.

"I do not collect or save stamps for myself," Mr. Scott writes, "but when I get a bunch, I mail them to Victoria SPCA, as I read they were asking for used stamps of any kind, which they sell for funds to be used in their work."

Along with sympathy, a post office spokesman offers this advice to former Victorian Scott:

"It isn't necessary to pay for the extra stamps, since you did not ask that they be mailed to you. Keep the package you want, and send the others back."

Since Mr. Scott opened the package, he is required to pay return postage, and that hurts. (The unopened, unsolicited item may be returned at the sender's cost.)

This dumping of unordered merchandise is a mean little racket, and I think it's high time the postal authorities cracked down on it.

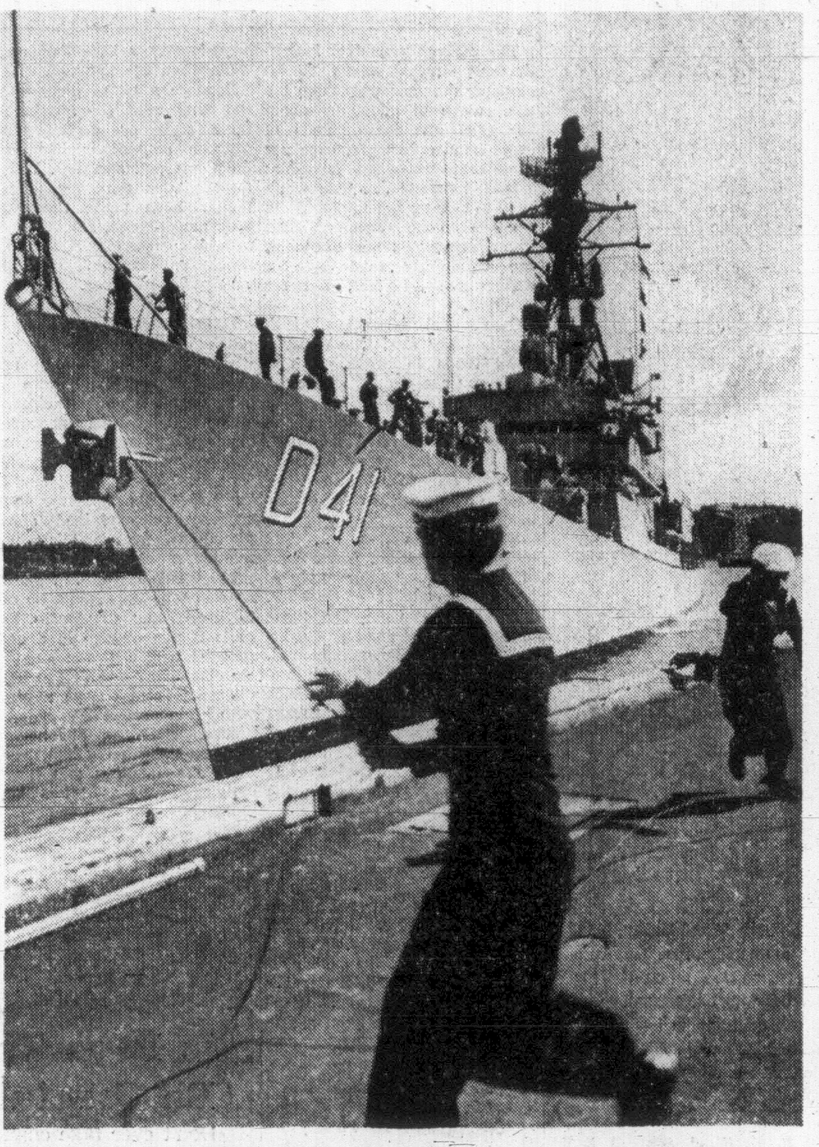
After Bastion Theatre's murderous attack on Brendan Behan's 'The Hostage,' we vowed never again to risk an evening at the McPherson with guests. But we did want to see how the spine-tingling Henry James short story, "The Turn of the Screw," translates into play form, so took ourselves to the Mac last night with friends from the mainland.

Bastion redeems itself with "The Innocents." For a thoroughly eerie evening, the tale-turned-play is hard to beat.

Determined symbolists have tried to inject Freudian undertones into the story of a governess who struggles to save two children from the powers of evil. Happily, the playright (William Archibald) doesn't dilute his borrowed ingredients.

His ghosts . . . who really should be allowed a curtain as shadows behind those wide glass doors . . . are almost too convincing.



HOLD ON I'LL PULL YOU IN . . . member of the Royal Canadian Navy docking party appears to tow by bow line the 4,500-ton Australian guided missile destroyer HMAS Brisbane to the jetty at HMC Dockyard this morning. The three-day visit to Victoria is first recreational stop for crew, whose ages average 21 years. (Bill Halkett photos.)

THREE-DAY VISIT

Sleek Destroyer Glides Into Port

To the strains of Waltzing Matilda, the Australian guided-missile destroyer, HMAS Brisbane glided into sunny Esquimalt Harbor today and tied up at A jetty, HMC Dockyard, sharp at 9 a.m.

The 4,500-ton destroyer was built for the Royal Australian Navy at a cost of $45,000,000 (Australian) by a U.S. firm and commissioned at Boston, Mass., last Dec. 16.

As the sleek grey ship approached the dockside, the Naden band struck into the Australian folk song Waltzing Matilda and followed it with a brassy swing version of St. Louis Blues.

"That's a fine band you have," said Capt. Alan A. Willis, commander of the 437-foot Brisbane. "I hope our officers and crew will meet as many Canadians as possible because I don't think we shall be back in Canadian waters for some time."

Visiting Canada for the first time, Capt. Willis called on Rear-Admiral J. A. Charles, Pacific Maritime Commander, at Admiral's House at 10 a.m.

The Brisbane will be open to the public from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Suunday. She leaves here Monday at 9 a.m. for visits to San Francisco and San Diego.

ENGLISH, SCOTS

Capt. Willis revealed that at least 50 members of his crew of 333 are English and Scots who have migrated to Australia over the past 10 years.

"We haven't yet been able to give them a trip back," he smiled.

There is no rum ration in the Royal Australian Navy, but officers have the use of a bar when not on operational duty, and a beer ration is issued to the men.

Capt. Willis said new ships and aircraft will continue to build up Australia's defences.

"Australian guided-missile destroyers, similar to the Brisbane, have been in action in Vietnamese waters with units of the U.S. Seventh Fleet," he said.

"Nine of our ships saw service in the Korean war. Althouth our navy is relatively small, we are proud of our modern equipment, versatility and mobility."

NO CANADIAN RATS are wanted aboard the Australian guided missile destroyer HMAS Brisbane. The ship's rat shield was the first piece of equipment attached when the ship secured at HMC Dockyard this morning, and was welcomed by the Naden Band.

GOVERNMENT ST. CLOSED ON SUNDAY

Government Street between Fort and Humboldt will be closed to all traffic on Sunday.

The closure, to clear the way for the repaving of Government, will be in effect from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Traffic engineer Dave Campbell today asked for the co-operation of all motorists normally using the street to find alternative routes.

Should Sunday prove to be a rainy day the paving program and the closure will be delayed for one week.

CURTAIL SOME OPERATIONS

Parochial School System 'Will Operate Next Year'

The Roman Catholic school system in Greater Victoria will continue operating and will have the same number of children in it next year as this, Monsignor Michael O'Connell said today.

"But it is possible certain classrooms in certain schools will be closed in the hope of more efficient and more economical operation," he added.

Msgr. O'Connell was elaborating on a Times story Thursday which detailed the increasing financial problems facing the separate school system.

STILL TRYING

A fund drive is still under way to finance a major renovation of St. Louis College and addition of a gymnasium and library for the boy's high school. The St. Louis program is an alternative to a more costly plan for a co-educational high school on the grounds of St. Ann's Academy which had to be abandoned.

Msgr. O'Connell said he has written Peter Bunn, chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, assuring him the public school board would be kept informed and every effort would be made to avoid complicating the problems already faced by the public school system.

Thursday's story developed from a proposal to close Sacred Heart elementary school for financial reasons.

Rory Finegan, president of the parent-teacher organization there, said today parents of school children there indicated by a show of hands at a meeting last month they were all in favor of keeping the school going.

But a later vote by members of the parish was about two-to-one for closing the school because of the growing financial burden.

THREE-QUARTERS

In the case of Sacred Heart, said Mr. Finegan, parents of children at the school pay three-quarters of the school's operating costs, the balance being provided by a varish grant.

The grant amounted to about $4,000 for the current school year but there were indications soaring costs would push the need to about $12,000.

It was decided this week that the separate school boards should amalgamate under a regional board which will try to institute economies and improve efficiency.

MONDAY MEMO TO MR. T.

After the Gulps and Silence, A Few Priority Suggestions

By JIM HUME

Hold the phone Pierre Elliott T.

The people of Victoria have a few ideas for you to incorporate in your list of priorities after you take over Monday as Prime Minister Trudeau.

Not many ideas, its's true, because the Times telephone survey of city residents this morning drew mostly heavy gulps and long periods of silence when we asked for a No. 1 problem to be solved.

But enough to show that a few people out here are thinking.

"It has to rate as one of the most critical problems in Canada," is the way he puts it.

Esquimalt's Ellen McCoy doesn't agree.

"Let him cancel the suggestion that a couple of navy ships be crewed entirely by French-speaking Canadians. If he doesn't he's going to split the armed forces as well as the country."

Waldo Skillings, Social Credit MLA for Victoria, wonders if Peirre Elliott has the ability to complete the first big job facing him within the Liberal party.

"I'm just back from the East and I'm telling you that party is in chaos," said the vociferous Socred party whip.

On the national priority list?

"That has to be a balanced budget."

For Sonia Croucher, 1051 Hampshire, a balanced budget has to be number one item on the Trudeau priority list.

She has some backing from University of Victoria political scientist Richard Power.

"Fiscal policy then foreign policy in that order," is his "off the top of my head" order of importance.

For Ald. Edith Gunning of Saanich, there are three major problems to be faced immediately.

"Urban development with particular attention to transportation, active research to find ways of controlling pollution with special emphasis on sewage disposal, and means of curbing excessive profits from land speculation."

Mrs. Harold Foster, 1664-45 Dallas: "I haven't thought about what his first job should be but Quebec is quite important."

Art Burgess, 880 Courtney: "Come to terms with the dollar problem and reconcile French and English Canada."

Ald. Ian Stewart, who fought hard and long for John Turner at the leadership convention, admitted the question of priorities is "a tough one, but . . ."

"The constitution, not only as it affects Quebec but as it affects the entire country. There possibly has to be some reorganization of power in Canada.

"The entire field of urban problems including housing, transportation and financing. The country needs a minister of urban affairs with the sole responsibility of how to mount the attack.

"Take a hard look at the role Canada must play in the Pacific market. And get on with the job of promoting external trade from the Pacific Coast."

That's the list Mr. Prime Minister elect.

PIERRE TRUDEAU
. . . 'and a haircut?'

'Urgent Need For Four Tent Courts'

The south end of Vancouver Island needs four more tent and trailer courts to be able to meet summer peak demands.

The statement is made in a special report published this week by the Capital Region Planning Board.

Planning director A. H. Roberts says in the report that a survey made last summer showed a deficiency of between 100 and 150 spaces for trailer accommodation.

On the average summer night during peak periods there were around 440 trailers in the area. The 100 to 150 unable to find space presumably moved to other areas or parked overnight on secondary roads.

FOUR AREAS

Mr. Roberts listed four general areas where trailer courts are urgently required:

- The East Saanich (Tsawout) Indian Reserve where there is an excellent location for a low-density camp site with enough tree cover to hide the site from the highway.
- An area slightly south of Brentwood where wooded acreage exists close to boat launching and fishing facilities.
- The West Saanich Road within walking distance of Prospect Lake Park. The area has some tree cover and piped water.
- A small area west of Langford Lake to complement the government facilities at Goldstream Park.

While urging rural and unorganized municipalities to consider rezoning certain areas to assist trailer court locations, Mr. Roberts warns that strict supervision must be made of facilities installed.

He also noted that most trailer campers are seeking fairly cheap accommodation.

During last summer's survey he stated that 13 per cent of the trailer-towers were looking for free overnight accommodation, 22 per cent were seeking a one-night stay for a dollar and 15 per cent had $2 as their top price.

CAR OWNER LIST SUPPLIED

'People Resent' Selling of Names

The selling of information by a British Columbia government department to a private company was severely criticized today.

"I don't think this is a very ethical practice and I am surprised a government would do this sort of thing," said Larry Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labour Council.

He was commenting on the disclosure that information on car registrations is sold by the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch to a Toronto market research company for about $15,000 a year.

The practice was defended by branch superintendent Ray Hadfield who called it "legitimate" and the price a fair one.

"Many people resent the fact that a subscription to a magazine or newspaper is sold behind our backs," said Mr. Ryan.

"It is bad enough to go along with it in the publishing industry but the idea of government departments doing this is uncalled for.

"The great fear of people of this time, and a proper fear, is 1984.

"It's an Orwellian trend in our society and government should be aloof to this. It is bad enough in the business world."

Mr. Ryan said the government is "overstepping its jurisdiction" and all citizens should take note.

The labor council will "consider this very seriously" at future meetings.

All government departments have confidential information about citizens and he asked "are we going to allow a proliferation?"

Some people—he mentioned the insurance industry—would have a "vested interest" in finding out advantageous information from, for example, the health department and B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

'Essential Economic Facts'

Mr. Hadfield said the lists of car owners and their cars provide essential economic research facts for not only the automobile industry in planning markets for vehicle parts but also for planning by municipalities and other agencies.

Mr. Hadfield said the price scale of one cent per name is a common one in selling such lists.

"We feel we're very adequately compensated for what we do," he said.

Asked about the reported Alberta plan to make the statistics available to more than one firm, Mr. Hadfield said that such a move has not been considered here.

A second firm did try to obtain the lists here, he said, but the department felt the firm should make a "business arrangement" with the Toronto firm, R. L. Polk, which had bought the list.

"We don't want to be glueing up our system," said Mr. Hadfield, pointing out that the Toronto firm maintains some control of the information by contracting to print envelopes for other firms but keeping possession of the central list.

"This advertising listing business is a pretty rough field," he said, suggesting some firms might not be aware of what they would be getting into by paying large sums for bulk lists that need extensive computer processing before being commercially valuable.

Fine Reduced For Uvic Student

A University of Victoria student was fined $250 and had his licence suspended by Magistrate Ostler today for impaired driving.

Barry McLean, 18, of 1353 Pandora, was involved in an accident Tuesday at Fort and Douglas street and pleaded guilty.

The magistrate reduced the fine from $350 when he learned the youth was paying his way through school on what he could earn in the summer.

Major Changes Again Made In Saanich Animals Bylaw

A drastically-revised animals bylaw in Saanich will be recommended to the May 6 council meeting.

Changes to the existing bylaw follow three major meetings by the lands and planning committee last year and two meetings this year.

The recommendation to send the draft to council was made Thursday by the committee. Chairman Ald. Edith Gunning also said the draft will be considered by the municipal solicitor.

One of the changes would introduce a limitation on the number of cats and dogs which can be kept in a house. At present there is no restriction.

Earlier recommendations that a limit of five cats and five dogs be introduced were tightened Thursday to reducing this to three dogs over the age of six months. For the fourth and fifth dogs, a permit is necessary. Beyond five dogs will require a commercial kennel licence and zoning.

The limitation on cats is five over the age of four months. A permit will be necessary to keep more than five cats.

The committee agreed last year to reconsider a proposed $24 licence fee for unspayed female dogs. This now has been reduced to $15 in the final recommendation.

Last year the committee recommended a system of dog ticketing be established with a warning at first and then progressive fines. Operation of such a system would be like traffic tickets with a fine being paid but the dog not impounded.

Ald. Gunning said the committee will recommend the solicitor investigate the possibility of a dog ticketing clause in the animals bylaw.

Saanich decided to revamp its animals bylaw last year chiefly with a view to controlling the problem of roaming dogs.

Mrs. William (Hedy) Scott, originator of jewelry by Hedy Hill of Canada, makes minor repairs to a piece in her collection. Though she has sold the company she started 16 years ago, Mrs. Scott, who lives at 1062 Newport Avenue, still designs for the firm.

Woman Designer Elevated Stones To High Style in Jewelry Field

By ELIZABETH BENNETT

Not that she does much now. She has sold the business that made her famous from coast to coast and has become, as she puts it, a lady of leisure.

"It will always be a hobby with me," says Mrs. William Scott. "I don't draw jewelry beforehand any more. I work with the material, a stone, a mood. It is less frustrating."

Known to lovers of jewelry as Hedy Hill of Canada, Mrs. Scott takes most of her forms from nature. The soft shapes of leaves appear again and again.

"All my jewelry is made of copper plated with silver or gold. This is then oxidized. The surface is guaranteed not to tarnish or peel off.

DOESN'T DATE

"The beautiful thing about my jewelry is that in 10 or 15 years it is still as attractive and good-looking as today. Nothing changes and since it is very basic, the style will still be good when you are already very tired of it."

The oxidizing leaves the metal black. This black coating is brushed off leaving the metal satiny or gold or silver shading through to the oxide color.

Mrs. Scott finds this finish attractive because "the workmanship has to be superior in a dull piece to make it come out." It also means that each piece must be hand-finished. She is very much against the machine-made sameness of most jewelry in the same price range.

DIFFERENT LOOK

Most of Mrs. Scott's pieces are built up from pre-cut designs. "The original piece is hand-made. I take a machine-cut base and put on different leaves. Then I co-ordinate the stone. Most of the time the leaf comes over the base to give it a more airy look."

She also builds pieces by putting several leaf shapes together.

It is the stone—often a gem stone—that finally gives each piece its individuality as the basic piece must be altered to fit each individual stone.

"I was a great deal responsible for bringing Canadian gem stones into the orbit of costume jewelry," Mrs. Scott remembers. "I came first to Jasper for jasper, a pink stone to put on maple leaves. I also used Fraser valley jade, sodalite and amazonite from Ontario, and gold stone."

Hedy Hill jewelry does not confine itself to gem stones however. Various synthetic gems glitter among the curled leaves of pins, rings and necklaces.

One is rainbow stone, which Mrs. Scott makes herself. It's made of pieces of gemstone, silver shaving, or turquoise embedded in lucite.

Many of her pieces display what Mrs. Scott calls iridescent stone, which is burned glass moulded into patterns, or vitreal, glass with layers of color painted on the back. Both change color the way an opal does.

LOOKS LIKE GOLD

An experiment that adds interest to Hedy Hill jewelry is dripped pewter dipped in gold. This yields a "stone" that closely resembles a nugget of gold.

Mrs. Scott came into the jewelry business by chance.

Born in Austria, she studied design at the School of Fine Arts in Vienna and later, in France. At this time she was concerned with fashion.

Her first contact with jewelry came in Italy, where she learned filigree work. When she was in Egypt, Mrs. Scott studied the techniques of making scarab and Oriental jewelry.

It was only after she came to Canada 16 years ago, however, that she took up making jewelry as a profession.

"I have lost everything in my life three times, in Austria under Hitler, in England and in Egypt. When I came to Canada I had two sons and a mother to look after and no money.

SOLD TO NEIGHBORS

"A friend, a Canadian lady who had been very hospitable, admired a pin and earring set I wore. Since she was the first one I knew here I made her a set. All the neighbors wanted some.

"I started selling jewelry door to door, then store to store, then coast to coast. Now I even export."

Although Mrs. Scott has sold Hedy Hill of Canada, even to the name, she still designs for the company. "Soon I will be going to Toronto to bring out the fall fashions. We must work several seasons ahead," she explains.

She has no equipment here, especially as "some of the chemicals are very dangerous." Most of her energy is now concentrated on being Mrs. William Scott.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Flaxseed prices were firm and rapeseed prices dropped in modest trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The rye market was moderately active and prices eased, reacting to lower Chicago quotes. Oats and barley trade was routine for the domestic feed market.

There was evidence of some overseas demand for oilseeds.

Canadian Vickers Suffers Heavy Loss

LONDON (CP)—A heavy loss on its Canadian operations cut into the 1967 profits of Vickers Ltd., the big British industrial company which once thrived on production of the Vickers machine-gun.

The company's board, at a meeting, placed the 1967 loss on Canadian Vickers Ltd. of Montreal as £2,283,000 (about $5,935,580) not including interest charges. The British firm owns 53.75 per cent of the Canadian subsidiary which deals mainly in shipbuilding but which also controls a number of other Canadian companies.

B-A Oil Earnings Register Increase

TORONTO (CP) — British American Oil Co. Ltd. had net earnings of $11,000,000 or 50 cents a share in the first three months of this year, compared with $10,100,000 or 46 cents in the similar 1967 period, the annual meeting was told Thursday.

Announcing results at the company's annual meeting, president Charles Hay also predicted a 40-per-cent increase in explorations costs this year and a 25-per-cent rise in capital spending.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Rates Hike Hits Wall St.

Prices sagged on the New York stock market today on news of higher U.S. interest rates. (See story Page 9.)

Wave of selling hit the market at the opening with the Dow Jones average down 11.44 points. It more than cut this by half but then plunged again as reserve board officials warned the U.S. faces "either an uncontrollable recession or an uncontrollable inflation" if it does not correct its red-ink budget and its balance-of-payments deficit.

AT LONDON the stock market ended the week with an irregular appearance. Leading issues eased today, but there was a selective demand for second-rank stocks.

Gilt-dged shares fell sharply at first after the U.S. Federal Reserve System raised the discount rate to 5½ per cent, but there was some recovery later. In Canadians, a long list of gains was headed by Dome Exploration and Imperial Oil. BA Oil, Canadian Husky and Hiram Walker were firm.

Canadian banks also went ahead, with gains ranging to 6s. ICI, Dunlop, Unilever, Glaxo, Courtaulds and Rank all fell.
